WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Anton Novatny, a native of Austria, was today admitted as a citizen of the United States.

This morning Dr. Eshelman was called to Dufur to attend Prof. R. R. Allard, principal of the school there, who has been very ill for the past few days. The doctor returned this afternoon and reports Mr. Allard improving.

Rev. D. V. Poling has consented to deliver a lecture before the Students' Literary Debating Society next Friday evening. The subject has not as yet been announced. It is probable the First Baptist church will be secured for this occasion.

Apples are a luxury these days; but there's nothing too good for the Chronicle force, and, thanks to our friend C. L. Phillips, we are now feasting on the best of that fruit the market affords. Mrs. Phillips is away and Charlie knows how to stand in with the compositors.

This afternoon in Justice Bayard's court the trial of C. E. Obris, charged with the larceny of a saddle, came up, Dufur and Menefee appearing for the defendant. At the time of going to press no decision had been arrived at, but the case has been creating quite a sensation.

While in the East recently W. F. McGregor saw Columbia river salmon in half and pound flats and also in ovals. The latter cost the wholesaler 21 cents a can, or $10.08 per case, and the one-pound flats $1.80 a dozen. The brands seen were from the Cutting Packing Co. and were first-class goods.—Astoria News.

It will be unwelcome news to the traveling public to learn that the Pullman car company has reduced the pay of colored porters. The graft on tips in the past has been almost beyond endurance, and surely now the traveler who fails to meet the requirements of the black shadow who continually haunts him, will be simply ignored.

The W. C. T. U. renews its work in this city with fifty members, who met at the Methodist church Thursday afternoon and elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Mattie Barnett; secretary, Mrs. May Rushing; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mary Campbell; treasurer, Mrs. M. J. Willerton. On Tuesday evening a reception will be given the members in the Christian church. The ladies are enthusiastic, and determined to do good work in The Dalles. It is hoped they will see fit to take up the reading room plan, as suggested by the Chronicle recently.

The greatest danger from colds and la grippe is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. It will cure a cold or an attack of la grippe in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

Three weeks ago there were thirty-five cases of the unnamed disease in Moro—now there are but five; thanks to the board of health, which in spite of all obstacles, have unremittently toiled to stamp out the disease. The highest number of cases at any one time was fifty-eight. No deaths have occurred from it. We cannot blame our sister city for its alarm at the situation, but it seems safe enough now to raise the embargo against Moro.—Observer.

The case of Allen Edwards, who was arrested for forgery Thursday evening, came up for hearing in Justice Bayard's court this morning. The charge had been reduced to larceny, and Edwards was given thirty days in the county jail. The young man, it seems, has been on a protracted spree since Christmas and from all accounts up till this time has borne a good reputation. Edwards got off easy, and should not only thank his lucky stars, but learn a lasting lesson thereby.

In the moot house of representatives, which session was held by the Student Literary Debating club last night, a memorial was presented against any law which may be introduced favoring the leasing of public lands. Hugh Gourjay fathered the memorial, and was ably assisted by a portion of the representatives, while others argued strongly against it. The discussion was warm and to the point. A vote being taken, however, the question was decided by a vote of 8 to 5 against the leasing proposition.

Mr. Max Shillock, who has long been connected with the Portland Telegram and who earned the reputation of being one of the ablest writers on the staff of that paper, is to be hereafter, or for a time at least, located at Sumpter and Granite. Mr. Shillock carries with him credentials appointing him as correspondent for the Telegram, Spokane-Review and Associated Press and we may now expect reliable reports from the mining sections which he will have occasion to investigate. In the past there have been too many "boom" or "paid-for" articles finding their way into print and a line will now be drawn that will be of benefit.

Yesterday in Dallas, at 10:18 o'clock, William Magers was hung for the murder of Ray Sink, which crime took place on September 13, 1898, near Salem. Sink was a well-to-do farmer of Wasco, and Magers murdered him for his money. After weighting the body of his victim he threw it into the Willamette river near Salem, on the Polk county side. After the commission of the crime Magers spent the money he had secured as a result of his cold-blooded crime in taking girls for buggy rides and living riotously until arrested. As is usual, about 200 people witnessed the hanging. The victim displayed much nerve, and on the scaffold protested his innocence.

If there's one thing above another which thoroughly delights the small boy, it is to get hold of an air gun, and 'tis not to be wondered at, for most of the older boys like the same kind of amusement on a larger scale. However, there is also much danger in these toys, and the boys should be taught to be very cautious. This morning on First street a boy was standing on the railroad track and shooting promiscuously into a crowd of boys on the sidewalk, regardless of results. But a few days since a physician in the city was called to extract one of the miniature shot from a boy's hand, and in Portland last week a boy lost his eye by the carelessness of a young companion who owned an air gun. Such cases are of frequent occurrence in larger cities, and should be a warning.

The "Miner" Has a Kick.

As newspapers are known to be the very essence of veracity, visitors to Sumpter must deem it their duty to boom something and therefore give the smallpox scare a boost. Several traveling men and others from that section have circulated a report in The Dalles, and it seems it has reached other places as well, causing the Sumpter Miner to expostulate thusly:

"Saturday morning the Oregonian published alleged dispatches from Baker City and Sumpter, telling of a smallpox epidemic raging there and here. Not satisfied with making merely the false statement that the disease is prevalent in these parts, the writer gives details as to quarantine arrangements, stating that health officers meet all incoming trains and that no one is allowed to leave Sumpter without a permit. The Tacoma Ledger published a day or two before the above date an interview with a man who claimed to have just arrived from Baker, picturing a horrible state of affairs in that place, as a result of the ravages of the dread disease. The Miner has published a statement signed by all the physicians in Sumpter, declaring that there is no smallpox here. These false reports will work some temporary injury to the town, but will have little permanent effect."

"BROWN'S IN TOWN."

A Few Hours in the Violent Ward Were Sufficient to Cause a Return of Reason.

Brown returned last night to pay John Fitzgerald a few weeks' visit. Showing a peculiar liking for "cells," he has been placed in one, where he will await his trial. Deputy Sexton reports no trouble with the prisoner on the trip, he having been taught a lesson which ought to be lasting. Sheriff Kelly adopted the very best means in his case. Had he been kept here, where there must have been an uncertainty as to his condition, no doubt justice would have been handicapped. But now that his sanity has been proven by tests which could only be given in an institution of that sort, there is no doubt as to the course to be pursued. The sheriff used every precaution in his instruction to the superintendent, so much so that the doctor attended to the case himself.

As soon as Sexton left the asylum and it was found Brown still was sullen, he was put in a straight jacket and relegated to one of the violent wards. Those who have been permitted to visit these terrible dens will know what that meant to a sane person. The attendants were also charged to feed him. As usual, he refused to eat, when a tube was placed in his nostrils and food injected. He remained there during the afternoon, but by the time supper was brought in he had concluded he'd been crazy long enough, and would no doubt be insane in earnest if he remained longer. So he sent for the doctor, to whom he confessed his strategy, saying he knew he'd be sent up, but that he'd rather be in the penitentiary fifteen years than to spend a night there.

They immediately put hand-cuffs on him and took him to the county jail to await the arrival of officers from here. On the way down to the jail he attempted to relieve himself of the hand-cuffs, and had to be watched closely.

He confessed to the sheriff there that he had all he wanted to eat here, having eaten stealthily; also that he had plenty of tobacco, which no doubt was furnished him by his partner, Wilson.

A Fable.

A farmer stepped into a printing office and said to the editor: "I'd like to take your paper, but I am too poor." "Go home," said the editor, "pick out a hen, call her mine, sell or save her eggs for me, and if she wants to set let her, and next fall bring me all the produce from the hen. I'll send the paper." When fall came he found that he was paying the price of two papers. After that he found that he was never too poor to take a paper. Besides, when he wanted to borrow his neighbor's paper he was always reading it, so he had to wait until the news was old or take it second-handed. There is nothing like taking one of your own and getting the news from first hands. Try it.—Ex.
