DEATH OF R. H. WILLIS.

A Professor Well Known in The Dalles Passes Away.

There are a few old Academy pupils still living here and in this vicinity to whom the intelligence that R. H. Willis has gone from earth will awaken a tide of memories. Not strange will it be if some of these memories are of the nature of unimproved privileges. Prof. Willis was a most rare student, indefatigably energetic in his own work, his assiduity in requiring the same from those under his charge was unwearied. His own education had been achieved with limited means. He was graduated at the university of Virginia where he took high rank from the first and won untinted praise from his professors. His vacations after beginning his chosen work of teaching were usually spent in attending courses of lectures at the best universities, both in this country and Europe, with unflagging ardor taking new courses and advancing his work on the old lines.

During the time of his stay in The Dalles, his study was in the ancient Sanscrit. While he was in Baltimore at John Hopkins university, his work was in the old Gothic, a language wholly of the past, and of which the only remains are fifteen pages of one of the gospels translated by Bishop Upland, A. D. 377. From this fragment the entire language has been reconstructed thus giving of great use in understanding a key to the information of our own language in the fourth century.

Dr. Willis held many posts of professional honor, but the main part of his work was in the university of Arkansas, though for some time before his death he was in charge of the Episcopal school for girls in Chatham, Va. The same paper which gives notice of his death says that last term the rooms were entirely full, and that by January 1st the new building would be ready for use. On the morning of that day his spirit had taken its way to realms where his insatiable desire for learning will meet full satisfaction.

Dr. Willis left a wife—a native of Syracuse, N. Y.—and two children, to whom the sympathy of their friends in The Dalles will be extended.

Rev. Poling's Lecture.

Mr. Poling's address on Saturday evening was listened to by a well-filled house, unusually so for this town which has not earned the reputation of being very lecture hungry. The theme was unusual. It was the story of one of the most awful catastrophes recorded in history and told by one who was an active participant in the work of rescue. This work, though accompanied by scenes of horror that sent many a brain distracted, was also attended with the most wonderful exhibitions of sympathy and generosity that the world has ever seen. It was owing to this that the city has been rebuilt, and that the cheerful sound of the stream whistles from car shops, barbed wire mills, the immense Cambria iron works whose great pay roll had built the beautiful city, are again resounding from hill to hill in the Johnstown valley.

Mr. Poling spoke of the intense feeling of the bereaved town against the capitalists who owned the South Fork fishing waters. This is natural. But in addition to sending an engineer to inspect the stability of the Conemaugh dam, which precaution proved wholly futile, the city had stretched an independent wire from the dam to the city there need have been but little loss of life, though there would have been much of property. The railroad bridge was a great cause of destruction, making as it did a new dam which was indeed immovable.

There will never be another Conemaugh lake. A railroad now lies in its bed and the old streams that were its feeders ripple musically down the mountain side, unclouded of the awful tragedy in which they once had part.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Sampter is soon to have a hook and ladder truck.

It is a fact in our city that one fire bell can call out more people than all the church bells.

When next you step into A. M. Williams & Co.'s store, notice that basket full of 25-cent caps near the entrance. You'll be surprised at the values.

The entertainment to be given tonight by Friendship Lodge No. 9, K. of P., will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. After the program dancing will be the main feature.

As we predicted Saturday, the Regulator had but little trouble coming through the locks and arrived at her dock about 9:30 p. m. She left at the usual time this morning.

Allen Edwards, the man who passed a forged check at the Umatilla House, and was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary, was taken to that institution yesterday by W. H. Butts.

A short council meeting was held Saturday, when the sewer question was discussed relative to the assessment. The council adjourned to meet again Wednesday evening.

During the cold spell our streets were in splendid condition but since the weather has moderated and the melting of the snow yesterday, we are again compelled to begin wading or lose our identity with the creation of man.

Tomorrow evening the ladies of the Catholic church will give an entertainment, to be followed by a dance, at the Vogt opera house. Reserved seats can be had without extra charge at Clarke & Falk's. Admission, 25 cents.

Yesterday morning many of our residents were surprised on arising to find the ground covered with about an inch of snow. However, during the day the weather moderated and before evening all traces of the "snow" had been effaced.

In Portland, last Friday, Miss Winnifred Williams, well known in this city, was united in marriage to Wm. Carroll, who is in the government employ. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll left for Bandon, Southern Oregon, where they will reside for the present, as Mr. Carroll is interested in building a jetty at that place.

Some of our best home talent has been secured for the entertainment to be given by the ladies of the Catholic church tomorrow evening. Miss Manie Helen Flynn, a well known educationist, of Huntington, Or., will be prominent on the program.

Wm. Hastings who lives in Liberty district was unfortunate yesterday in losing his home by fire. A good share of the household effects were saved, nevertheless the loss of a home at this season of the year is felt more keenly than at any other.

Sheep are selling now from $3.50 to $4 per head; how comes it that they are assessed for less than one-half their value. Cattle likewise are assessed for much less than they are worth. The attention of officials is called to this matter so that it may be remedied.—Harney County News.

Last night Doc Brewster, a veterinary surgeon who has lived in The Dalles for a number of years, died at Mrs. Richmond's lodging house in the East End. Some months ago Brewster was severely kicked by a horse and it was from the effects of that and other complications that led to his death. His funeral will take place from Wm. Mitchell's undertaking parlor at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

The smallpox patient, McDonald, who was taken to the pest house last Friday, has broken out and is in such condition that it was necessary to get a nurse for him. Low Oakes, who some years ago was afflicted with the disease, is taking care of the man and says at the present time a doctor's services are not required. The man is receiving the best of attention from the city, and all his wants are supplied.

The trial of the state vs. John Carey and Frank Quinlan charged with burglary, committed in the yards near the depot last fall, is occupying the attention of the court today and is being tried before the following jurors: A. S. Blowers, Leo Evans, Jas. Donaldson, Jno. Malone, G. F. Arnold, C. T. Bonney, Harry Hudson, Edward Bothwell, L. J. Klinger, A. A. Bonney Geo. A. Liebe and W. E. Sylvester. District Attorney Jayne is conducting the case for the state, while Moore & Gavin appear for the defendants.

The delegates from Oregon and Washington left Saturday night over the Southern Pacific for New Orleans to attend the National Editorial Association. A very fine collection of minerals was taken from every mining district in the Northwest. A very handsome souvenir book accompanies the exhibit, treating on the mineral resources and containing pictures of famous mines and mills. Several hundred sample bottles of sugar from the factory at La Grande will be distributed among the National Editorial Association members, and 500 small boxes of gold quartz. The Oregon headquarters at New Orleans will be decorated with Oregon scenery and Oregon-made fancy blankets. The delegates have an abundance of literature treating on the resources of the Northwest, which will be scattered from the Pacific to the Gulf and from the Gulf to the Atlantic. Aside from this, they are all tuned up to talk of the many virtues of the Western soil—its resources, present and future possibilities. The delegates will be absent about a month and will undoubtedly do much to advertise and set forth the interests of Oregon and Washington. Their trip includes a few days in Havana.

Late Saturday night one of the brick chimneys at the Umatilla house burned out and made quite a blaze. However, no one in the house was aware of the fact except the employees who immediately got out the fire hose and attached it to the stand pipe on the top of the hotel and held themselves in readiness should their services be needed which were not. For a wooden structure the Umatilla House is one of the best protected of any on the coast. At least a half dozen stand pipes are distributed over the building, while fire escapes are accessible from different points. The proprietors have looked out for the safety of their guests as well as their own.

One of the inmates of the city jail who has been held as a witness in the Carey-Quinlan case which is being tried today, received some money from his brother last Saturday and as he has been a trusty since his incarceration, hid himself to a saloon and filled up with the wine that cheers and inebriates. He was assisted to the city bastille about 8 o'clock and from that on until 2 a. m. made the welkin ring with appeals to his maker and ear-splitting imprecations to his brother until those in the neighborhood wished the fellow was with the Roers or in the infernal regions where he might cry out to his hearts content and not disturb anyone but himself, for in the latter place each will have troubles of his own.

PEOPLE YOU ALL KNOW.

J. O. Mack spent yesterday in the city. Charles Lord, of Arlington, is in the city.

C. H. Hickok, of Portland, is in the city on business.

W. W. Steiner, a prominent merchant of Fossil, is in the city.

Mrs. Levi Clarke left on yesterday's afternoon train for her home at Hood River.

W. E. Walthers is again at his post of duty, having fully recovered from his recent illness. Leslie Butler, now located in Portland, is in the city visiting friends and attending to business. Mr. Butler says there is no place like home and The Dalles is his home and always will be.
