GREAT TRADE REVOLUTION.

There was a time, and it is not so long distant, when the exports of the United States consisted almost exclusively of agricultural produce, of wheat and corn and cotton and meat. It is not so now. To be sure, what are known as foodstuffs still form the major part of the American merchandise which finds a foreign market. In the nature of things this is inevitable and is likely to continue for many years to come. A large part of the population of the Old World is dependent upon this country for its food, and as population increases this dependency will become more and more absolute and extended. Our exports of manufactures cannot equal our exports of mineral and agricultural products for many years to come. The important thing is that the discrepancy between the two is steadily decreasing.

In 1860 only twelve per cent. of our exports were other than agricultural; last year the proportion had risen to thirty per cent., while at the same time the proportion of imports which consisted of raw materials intended to be used in the processes of manufacture is steadily increasing. It would be impossible to overstate the momentous nature of this circumstance. The tables show that in 1869, when the total imports were valued at $438,455,894, the non-dutiable merchandise, by which must be understood the articles imported for the purpose of manufacture, was estimated to amount to $21,775,643, whereas last year, out of the total imports of $799,894,620, the estimated value of the non-dutiable merchandise is reported to have been $351,814,994.

This constitutes an extraordinary, an unparalleled demonstration of the forward stride in the direction indicated which the nation is taking. Although we are importing twice as much in value as we were thirty years ago, the amount of manufactured goods which we buy abroad has actually decreased. There is something marvelous in the industrial development thus demonstrated.

Take some other figures by way of further illustration. They will show that while our imports have doubled since 1869, our exports have quadrupled. In the former year there was an excess of imports over exports amounting to $101,079,906, whereas in 1899 the excess of exports over imports aggregated $475,652,051. This excess is not so large as that noted in 1898, but the decline is wholly in agricultural staples. There was a general failure of crops in Europe in 1898, and that failure had to be made good from the United States. It was natural that last year, when an average European crop was harvested, the demand upon the United States should have fallen off. On the other hand, the foreign demand for articles of American manufacture actually increased, and this in spite of the fact that there had been a great and general increase in prices, the effect of which it had been apprehended would be to curtail materially the selling of American manufactures in the foreign market. Yet instead of being curtailed, that selling actually increased.

It will be seen that these dry statistics reflect nothing less than a commercial, financial and industrial revolution, a revolution made possible by the policies of the Republican party and the efficiency of Republican administration.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

WINTER TRIPS.

For winter residence or winter outing ideal conditions will be found on every hand in California. Pioneers early rainfall has this season given to the semi-tropical vegetation wonderful impetus; the floral offerings are more than usually generous and the crop of southern fruits bountiful and excellent.

Old ocean possesses new charms at Santa Barbara, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Coronado and the enchanted isle of the sea, Catalina—where fishing, boating, rambling, riding, hunting and loafing may be enjoyed as nowhere else.

Quiet little spots, snug and warm, offer themselves at Montecito, Nordhoff, Pasadena, Echo Mountain, San Jacinto, Fall Brook and Palm Springs.

For renewing health and vigor, here abound many hot springs, of widely varying constituents and demonstrated merits; the dry, antiseptic, tonic air of the desert may be enjoyed at Banning, Indio, Yuima; and, even farther on, at Phoenix, Tucson, El Paso, exists conditions equally well indicated for weak throats and lungs.

Many think nothing in nature more attractive than the shimmering olive orchards of Santa Barbara and San Diego; others prefer the stately walnuts of Ventura and Los Nietos, or the lemons of Fernando; but for glorious fruit and graceful tree commend us to the golden orange, first, last and always, and it exists in greatest perfection at Covina, Riverside, Redlands and Highlands. Equally interesting is the scientific and tempting fashion in which the sorting and packing of the orange is here accomplished.

The faithful were exhorted to see Mecca and shuffle off; but wiser generations will see California of the south and prolong life.
