NO EXCUSE FOR SILENCE.

It is gratifying to note that some of the mining men in charge of large enterprises in the Coeur d'Alene are showing a disposition to relax lips and tongues long bound more tightly than a miser's purse strings, says the Spokesman-Review. The Coeur d'Alene mining district deserves publicity. Too long it has lain under the double ban of turbulent miners and reticent owners. With the passing of the man whose argument was dynamite, it is hoped may be finally chronicled the peering of the man who knows he has a good thing but who selfishly locks up the sources of information and gives the patient newspaper a withering, blighting, chilling reception when he applies for information which may benefit the entire country.

In days gone by Coeur d'Alene mine owners have excused their silence, their secretiveness, with the assertion that in the midst of constant alarms, to tell of the wealth in the mines was but to arm rioters with more potent weapons. If that excuse were ever valid it is unavailing now. The enemies of law and order are in the relentless grip of the law. Peace has spread her pinions over the scenes of riot and bloodshed. The miser goes to his work un molested, receives for his toil the best pay that labor gets anywhere, and he is content. No longer are capital and labor arrayed against each other. The once contending factions are standing shoulder to shoulder for the country's good. Therefore it is safe for the public, not only in the Coeur d'Alene but throughout the mining world, to know what that splendid district is producing, what it may be expected to yield and what inducements it offers to capital. The old excuse for silent magnates no longer is worthy of notice.

A mine is a private property. Its owner may tell what it carries or he may remain silent, as he chooses. His right to talk or to retire within his shell is unquestioned. But the man who has made fair fortune out of the veins of a district is a hard specimen of humanity, unworthy of the liberal West, untrue to the spirit of our free air and sunlight, who will refuse to let his fellows come a little way up the ladder which carried him from obscurity into the fierce light that beats upon a millionaire. In the Coeur d'Alene district the only excuse now for mine owners concealing the truth about their mines is that they hope to gobble up all the good things in sight, and that policy public sentiment will ever condemn. But the indications are that some of the mine owners are throwing off the old superstitions. That dreaded apparition, the newspaper man no longer sends a chill down the shivering spine of the mine owner. Perhaps as days go by the embarrassment will wear off entirely and the public may know as much about the wonderful mines of the Coeur d'Alene as of any other district around Spokane. It will be big news when these stories get into type. No district around Spokane equals the Coeur d'Alene for great mining and great results.

WINTER TRIPS.

For winter residence or winter outing ideal conditions will be found in every hand in California. Pioneers early realized this fact and the result is that the best of the world's wonderful mountains, the floral offerings are more than usually generous and the crop of southern fruits bountiful and excellent. Old cream possesses new charms as Santa Barbara, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Carmel and the enchanted isle of the sea, Catalina—where fishing, boating, rambling, riding, hunting and loafing may be enjoyed as nowhere else. Quiet little spots, snug and warm, offer themselves at Montecito, Northridge, Pasadena, Echo Mountain, San Jacinto, Fall Brook and Palm Springs.

For renewing health and vigor, here abound many hot springs, of widely varying compositions and demonstrated merits; the dry, salt, sulfur air of the desert may be enjoyed at Banning, Indio, Yuma; and, even farther east, at Phoenix, Tucson, El Paso, exists conditions equally well indicated for weak throats and lungs.

Many think nothing is nature more attractive than the shimmering olive orchards of Santa Barbara and San Diego; others prefer the stately walnuts of Ventura and Los Ninos, or the lemon of Fernando; but for glorious fruit and graceful tree command us to the golden orange, first, last and always, and it exists in greatest perfection at Corvina, Riverside, Redlands and Highlands. Equally interesting is the scientific and tempting fashion in which the sorting and packing of the orange is here accomplished. The faithful were exhorted to see Mexico and shuffle off, but winter generations will see California of the south and glowing life.
