CAPE NOME'S GOLDEN SANDS

Another batch of stories describing the wonderful riches of the beach diggings at Cape Nome have been given wide circulation. They will be the means of attracting hundreds of men to that barren region. It will be well to in a measure discount some of the tales brought out by the latest arrivals from Dawson. Cape Nome undoubtedly will yield gold in paying quantities for several years to come and will make fortunes for a small portion of those who brave the discomforts of an Arctic climate. Men will accumulate wealth in business ventures and the transportation companies will reap a rich harvest while the excitement lasts. But placer mining like that at Cape Nome is soon played out, and the pay streaks are limited. In no measure does it approach the permanency of quartz mining. There are difficulties with the government to be overcome, because already a dispute has arisen as to the ownership of the locations and the validity of recording. Prudence therefore suggests that the man who goes into Cape Nome carry with him enough money to pay his steamer passage back, and it would not be a bad move on the part of the authorities to demand that evidence be given that the prospector will not be stranded in an inhospitable region if he fails to find employment. This regulation was enforced in the latter days of the Klondike excitement, when Canadian officials had learned that they could not take care of the penniless adventurers who flocked to the Klondike metropolis.

Fortunately Cape Nome is on the seacoast and the journey does not include perilous traveling over dangerous mountains and through swift rivers. If you are determined to go to Cape Nome, provide yourself with a return ticket, and there will be no call later in the year for a government relief expedition, as was the case with the other Yukon excitement.—Spokesman-Review.

The Farm Journal lately asked a series of questions, which are summed up as follows: "Why have a mortgage on the farm, an empty pocket, and a skeleton in the house?" There might be a good reason for putting a mortgage on the farm, says the Oregonian. Many a sagacious man borrows money with a specific purpose, the result of which justify his action. But with good health and willing hands there is no reason why the mortgage should not be paid off. There is too much of a tendency to regard the holder of a mortgage as an oppressor, anxious to swoop down upon and take the farm, whereas it is probable that the accommodation was eagerly sought and that the lender would be very glad to receive his money instead of the land when the term of the mortgage expires, the interest, of course, having been paid according to agreement. To be sure, things may be managed so that the mortgage will become a skeleton in the house that will crowd the inmates out; but, as the records show, thousands of mortgages canceled within the past few years in every agricultural section of the country proves this result is not necessary. Farmers as a class very properly resent as an impertinence the effusive pity that talks to them of "empty pockets" and other matters of private business, as they feel abundantly able to take care of themselves.

WINTER TRIPS.

For winter residence or winter outing ideal conditions will be found on every hand in California. Plenteous early rainfall has this season given to the semi-tropical vegetation wonderful impetus; the floral offerings are more than usually generous and the crop of southern fruits bountiful and excellent.

Old ocean possesses new charms at Santa Barbara, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Coronado and the enchanted isle of the sea, Catalina—where fishing, boating, rambling, riding, hunting and loafing may be enjoyed as nowhere else. Quiet little spots, snug and warm, offer themselves at Montecito, Nordhoff, Pasadena, Echo Mountain, San Jacinto, Fall Brook and Palm Springs.

For renewing health and vigor, here abound many hot springs, of widely varying constituents and demonstrated merits; the dry, antiseptic, tonic air of the desert may be enjoyed at Banning, Indio, Yuuma; and, even farther on, at Phoenix, Tucson, El Paso, exists conditions equally well indicated for weak throats and lungs.

Many think nothing in nature more attractive than the shimmering olive orchards of Santa Barbara and San Diego; others prefer the stately walnuts of Ventura and Los Nietos, or the lemons of Fernando; but for glorious fruit and graceful tree commend us to the golden orange, first, last and always, and it exists in greatest perfection at Covina, Riverside, Redlands and Highlands. Equally interesting is the scientific and tempting fashion in which the sorting and packing of the orange is here accomplished.

The faithful were exhorted to see Mecca and shuffle off; but wiser generations will see California of the south and prolong life.
