

A DEMAGOGUE REBUKED

BOER SYMPATHIZERS DO NOT GO FAR ENOUGH.

The United States Ought to Avenge the Wrongs of Every Race Whose Representatives in This Country Can Vote for Congressmen.

Congressman Shaforth, of Colorado, has sent THE CHRONICLE a copy of a speech he delivered in congress a short time ago on the duty of the United States to get itself into a mess with England over the Boer war. That is not quite the title Mr. Shaforth gives his speech, but that is what his demagogic rant, amounts to. Shaforth, like Bryan and our own O'Day and D'Arcy, of hoc genus omne, are after votes. While the two Oregon statesmen just mentioned are shedding crocodile tears over the Boers, they have sense enough to know that if they were in the Boers' unrestricted power for about twenty-five minutes the Boers would hang both of them for being Catholics. Chas. H. Grosvenor, of Ohio, touches Shaforth off in fine style in a five minute speech in reply. Mr. Grosvenor said:

"I want to go a great deal farther than the gentleman has. I sympathize with every nation struggling for liberty, and I hope my countrymen here on this floor will give patient attention for five minutes to a few suggestions I want to make, supplementary to those made by the gentleman from Colorado. There was a little, peaceable people in Europe known as the Finlanders. Their nationality has been wiped out and destroyed. A greater outrage, in defiance of human rights, was never perpetrated, unless, perhaps, it was the destruction and dismemberment of Poland; and the statute of limitation never runs against a crime like that. Russia was engaged in that; the other nations of Europe stood and looked on at that. Not only so, but recently the Greeks were set down on by the Turks and a terrible outrage, in my judgment, was perpetrated. The overwhelming power of a semi-barbarous nation was brought to bear to crush the life out of little Greece, and it was humiliated, taken possession of by foreigners and finally subjected to the disgraceful and degraded position of a power without any power of independence or self-control. Then the Armenians were murdered by the Turks and all the nations of the world stood by and looked on; and my friend from Colorado, so far as I remember, was absolutely silent. Now I have in my congressional district some Finlanders—and I have Greeks in my district, and I have Armenians in my district. [Laughter and applause.]

"I have in my district, Mr. Speaker, some Hungarians, and I want to know by what authority Austria crushes the life out of the glorious independence that Hungary had under Kosuth and the great leaders of that day. [Renewed laughter and applause.] I have some Poles in my district and I call the attention of the gentleman from Colorado, to the fact that the blood of Pulaski, the brave Pole who fell at Savannah in the defense of American liberty, has never yet been avenged, and Poland has been destroyed and the men of my district look to me to vindicate the integrity of their country. [Renewed laughter.]

And then came that great nation, Germany, that in the struggle among nations, in many cases, is a leader; but in the same way it took those two beautiful provinces, Alsace and Lorraine, and took those people away and carried them over to a country that they do not belong to, and here we are standing silently by. God Almighty is looking at us! [Great laughter.] Why do not we go and defy Germany? And Mr. Speaker, there are Germans in my district, there are Frenchmen in my congressional district. There ought to be something done about this. [Great laughter.] It was a terrible humiliation to France when the German army came there and marched its victorious columns through the great Arche de Triomphe at the head of their beautiful street, the Champs Elysee, and camped in the woods of Bologne and destroyed the magnificent forest, then went to the various historical places at St. Cloud and Fontainebleau and desecrated the temple of French history. It was an awful thing and we stood by and never said a word, and there are Frenchmen in my congressional district. [Great laughter.]

"Mr. Chairman, let us rise to the occasion. Let us appoint a commission—I would suggest a commission of 25, not more than thirteen of which shall belong to any one of the parties in this house; their salaries ought to be $20,000 per annum—and let that commission go down to the world and see what has been done wrong, and whenever a wrong has been committed against any people let them come back and report to this house whether any members of this house have any of these people in their congressional district, and if they have, let us go to war at once and exterminate them." [Great laughter.]
