SATURDAY - - MARCH 17, 1900

The first number of Herron's Topeka Capital has reached this office through the courtesy of a friend. Readers of THE CHRONICLE probably know that Rev. Mr. Herron is running the Capital for a week "as Jesus would run it." Herron's leading editorial proves he is a crank. He says "the main purpose of the paper will be to influence its readers to seek first the Kingdom of God." But this is not the mission of a newspaper at all, any more than it is the mission of a scouring mill. The mission of a newspaper is to furnish the people with a clean, healthy, truthful record of passing events. The man who conducts a newspaper along these lines is as truly serving the Master who bought him as the man who proclaims the gospel from the pulpit. The Christianity of Christ teaches its disciples that serving faithfully in any honorable sphere of labor is serving Christ.

Judge Lowell, of Pendleton, publishes in the Heppner Gazette an address to the Republican voters of the Sixth Judicial District, announcing that while he is not a candidate for United States senator and will not be one, in the sense of seeking the office, he would deem it a distinguished honor to represent his adopted state, and should those who are known to be candidates fail of election and a new man be selected he would be gratified to receive the preferment. In plain United States the judge's lightning rod points vertical to the stars and Barkis is willin' to sacrifice himself on the altar of his country. The judge, however, is a clean, honorable, able man, and if a dark horse is to win the race the state and the Republican party would be honored by the success of Judge Lowell.

This is the season when the press teems with little paragraphs like this: "Mr. John Jones having been earnestly pressed by his numerous friends to allow his name to be presented to the coming county convention has at last reluctantly consented and placed himself in the hands of his friends." And the fun of the thing is that Mr. John Jones has been just aching to get his name before the dear people and probably gave the impecunious newspaper man a small gratuity to have the little ad. inserted in his paper.

There were nine inches of snow on the streets of New York yesterday and still more over in New Jersey. Seven thousand men battled with the "congealed element" in the big city in the effort to keep the streets clear for traffic but, in spite of all they could do, business was partly paralyzed and traffic over the Brooklyn bridge for a time completely blocked. Here the sun shone in a cloudless sky. The temperature ranged well up in the sixties. Early flowers were blooming. The trees were putting forth bud and leaf and blossom, the birds were twittering love songs to their mates and all nature was one expansive joyous smile. Let us thank God we live in Oregon.

This man Gerlinger, who claims to represent the Columbia Valley railroad, may be all right but he has a queer way of doing business. He seems to have an impression that The Dalles has $50,000 worth of bonds that she is just aching to give away to somebody who will promise to bridge the Columbia in some indefinite or remote future. It is said he is securing rights of way from the settlers on the north bank of the river. This is well, but the settlers should insist, as a fundamental condition of their grants, that the road shall be built within a reasonable time.

The first paragraph on the first page of Herron's first issue of the Topeka Capital is a vow, the very thing Christ warns his disciples to avoid. But let that pass. The vow is in part as follows: "I will try this day to live a * * serene life; repelling every thought of discontent, * * and anxiety, cultivating magnanimity, self control and the habit of silence." Now that's all right in its way, but good gracious, how could a Populist or a Democrat take a vow like that? If they had to quit calamity-howling they would all become Republicans.
