

ALASKAN EARTHQUAKES.

A Larger Extent of Coast Line Affected Than Ever Before Reported in That Region.

The seven earthquakes that shook the coasts of Alaska on September 3 and 10 were unequalled in the historic period in that region for the extent of coast line affected. Reports of the shocks have been received from various points between Juneau and the Aleutian chain, a distance of over 600 miles. It is well known that the effects of earthquakes originating on the coasts are often felt in the far interior of continents, and it is not at all unlikely that these shocks extended hundreds of miles inland. In a region like Alaska, where large areas are uninhabited, severe earthquakes may sometimes occur without the facts ever becoming known.

It is said that a number of islands along the coast near Yakutat Bay, in the neighborhood of Mount St. Elias, have become submerged or have settled in the water, and that the adjoining coast line has perceptibly sunk, while a little distance out at sea the ocean bed appears to have risen. While these reports need confirmation, it may be said that it is not uncommon for considerable areas of the crust of the earth to sink as the result of an earthquake. One example that may be cited from our own history is the New Madrid earthquake of 1811, when the subterranean disturbances resulted in the subsidence of about 5,000 square miles of alluvial lands along the Mississippi river in what is now southeastern Missouri and northeastern Arkansas. The subsidence was about ten feet and the river poured into some of the depressions, forming a series of lakes.

A few hundred miles north of the region where this sudden subsidence and elevation is said to have occurred in Alaska the earth's crust has been rising for a considerable period. Behring sea is slowly becoming shallower. If this tendency is continued, the time will come when Behring sea, or large parts of it, will be dry land, and thus Asia and North America may yet be united above the sea level.

The known earthquakes in Alaska in the present instance, have occurred along the line of volcanic cones, and particularly in the Aleutian chain. Over 10 of these shocks have been recorded by the Russians and our own people. When we thought Alaska we acquired an addition to our earthquake territory. Canada throughout its great domain has comparative immunity from this sort of visitation, while we record from 30 to 40 earthquakes in a year, most of which, however, do very little damage, if any.—N. Y. Sun.

AFTER ALEXANDER'S DEATH.

A New Order of Things Was Introduced in Greece by the Great Macedonian Conqueror.

When Alexander came upon the scene Greece was still the old Greece, the composite of autonomous cities and cantons. In this form it was past the bloom, and was ripening to seed. All that the little communities could accomplish for history through living for themselves had been accomplished. In the miniature life of these isolated valleys, opening to the sea, they had developed a social system in which, as individual achievements directly counted, and individual responsibility was directly assessed, personality gathered to itself unwonted consciousness of power. So it was that here man first, as it were, discovered himself—first saw with clearness the power and the right of the free human soul. Man as a base-line for measuring the universe, man as a source of governing power, arose in Greece; it was Greece that shaped the law of beauty from which came the arts of form, the law of speculative truth from which by ordered observations came the sciences, the law of liberty from which came the democratic state. This was what the old Greece held in keeping for the world. Alexander was the strong wind that scattered the seed; again, he was the willing hand of the sower. When he planted 70 cities of the Greek type on an oriental soil he acted with plan and purpose. The city was Hellenism in the concrete. As a principle of social order, Hellenism was the government of communities of men located in territory, and the source of authority was from within; orientalism was the government of territory in which lived men, and the source of authority was from without.

The story of Alexander has become a story of death. He died himself before his time. With his life he brought the old Greece to its end; with his death the state he had founded. But they all three, Alexander, Greece, the grand empire, each after its sort, set forth as history judges men and things, the inner value of the saying: "Except a grain of wheat fall into the earth and die, it abideth alone."—Prof. Wheeler, in Century.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid fever, that ran into pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I could not even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all throat and lung trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00. East and South Under Sleet and Snow.
New York, March 16.—Nine inches of sleet and snow cover the streets of New York today, and 4000 men are battling with it in Manhattan, 3000 more being at work in Brooklyn. Traffic has been partially paralyzed in some sections of the city since early morning. During the early hours, Brooklyn bridge traffic was practically blocked. Sleet on the third rail supplying electric power to the bridge cars cut off the current, and a general blockade was the result.

The fall of snow in New Jersey was heavier than in the city. Trains were delayed by the storm and mails were several hours behind in their delivery. No fatalities from the cold are reported in the city, but the station houses and charitable institutions were crowded with homeless.

WINTER TRIPS.

For winter residence or winter outing ideal conditions will be found on every hand in California. Plenteous early rainfall has this season given to the semi-tropical vegetation wonderful impetus; the floral offerings are more than usually generous and the crop of southern fruits bountiful and excellent.

Quiet little spots, snug and warm, offer themselves at Montecito, Nordhoff, Pasadena, Echo Mountain, San Jacinto, Fall Brook and Palm Springs.

For renewing health and vigor, here abound many hot springs, of widely varying constituents and demonstrated merits; the dry, antiseptic, tonic air of the desert may be enjoyed at Banning, Indio, Yuma; and, even farther on, at Phoenix, Tucson, El Paso, exists conditions equally well indicated for weak throats and lungs.

Many think nothing in nature more attractive than the shimmering olive orchards of Santa Barbara and San Diego; others prefer the stately walnuts of Ventura and Los Nietos, or the lemons of Fernando; but for glorious fruit and graceful tree commend us to the golden orange, first, last and always, and it exists in greatest perfection at Covina, Riverside, Redlands and High lands. Equally interesting is the scientific and tempting fashion in which the sorting and packing of the orange is here accomplished.

The faithful were exhorted to see Mecca and shuffle off; but wiser generations will see California of the south and prolong life.

Advice of a Druggist

"It is proper, I think, to let others know about the popularity and virtues of Acker's English Remedy for Coughs, Colds and Consumption."

From the moment I began handling it, its sale rapidly, and the sales keep growing all the time as fast as people find out what a remarkable preparation it is. The satisfaction it gives is universal. Our best citizens use it and say it is the best thing for throat and lung troubles they ever saw. Mr. S. H. Culler, one of our prominent townsmen, says Acker's English Remedy is the only medicine that helped his chronic cough of many years standing. At first it gave relief and now, after taking a few bottles, he is wholly cured. I buy it by the gross at a time, and my sales are larger on this one medicine than on any other in my store. It is a great pleasure for me to feel that a little man prospering I am also doing so much good to the community in selling such a grand medicine." (Signed R. K. Douglas, Westfield, N. Y.)
