WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Only two weeks more school after this week.

The county officials today drew the rry for the term of circuit court commencing May 28.

John G. Woolery, the peerless prohibition orator from Illinois, will speak here tomorrow night.

Andrew Howie, a native of the land cukes, today took out his full citizen papers before Judge Mays.

On account of the excursion tomorrow night the Columbia Hose Company will not meet till a week from tomorrow night.

Mr. Childers, of Columbus, shipped to Portland this morning on the Regulator 10 head of sheep, 13 head of cattle and head of hogs.

G. J. Farley is employed these days putting ten handsome awnings over windows on the south side of the Catholic church.

The latest news from Shaniko has it that the railroad will be completed to that point and ready for traffic on the 15th. Over 200,000 pounds of wool have been received at the warehouse for shipment to The Dalles.

The Cedar Circle entertainment last night was a highly creditable performance and was well patronized. There was a highly interesting program rendered throughout in a manner worthy the best traditions of our local talent.

The last reports from Lloyd Laughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Laughlin, who was operated on for appendicitis at Sunday, is that he is getting along nicely and it was hoped would pass the critical period, which is today or tomorrow.

The river gauge this morning showed twenty-six feet above low water mark. A rise of about nine feet more at this point would raise the water at the locks high enough to stop the passage of boats. Such a rise may take place but is not anticipated.

W. Johnston, of Wamic, a young man 22 and Rina Driver, daughter of I. D. River also, of Wamic, ran away together at Sunday and arriving here Monday took passenger on the cars and went either east or west no one knows.

The father of the girl arrived here Monday afternoon but too late to catch the snaways. The girl is in the neighborhood of 18. It is the old story. Two parts that beat as one. Cruel parents try to keep them apart. Love laughs at locksmiths. They scoot. Parent pursues with blood in his eye. No go. No catch'em. Get married. Parents cool off. All happy as clams at high tide.

The Tumwater Indians have learned something from brushing up against civilization. Their chief yesterday had twenty-eight of his little band vaccinated by Dr. Cook, who lives near by. He promised to bring in the remaining thirty or so in a few days. The Indians want to go strawberry picking in a short time and dread catching the smallpox from the whites, with whom they may come in contact.

J. H. Hadley, of Kamas Prairie, Klickitat county, and a former resident of Boyd neighborhood in this county, spent yesterday in the city, the guest of the Obarr House, and left for home this morning on the Regulator. Mr. Hadley made the teeth of the Isaac Walton of THE CHRONICLE water when he told of Sam Cole, an old fishing chum of THE CHRONICLE man, having recently caught in a stream in the neighborhood of Glenwood ten speckled beauties that weighed 160 pounds, or 16 pounds each. The stream in question, Bird Creek, had not a trout in it eight or ten years ago. At that time somebody stocked it and now it affords the best fishing in that whole country. Till recently nobody knew there was a fish in it.

Mrs. Calvin Zimmerman, Milesburg, Pa., says, "As a speedy cure for coughs, colds, croup and sore throat One Minute Cough Cure is unequalled. It is pleasant for children to take. I heartily recommend it to mothers." It is the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results. It cures bronchitis, pneumonia, grippe and throat and lung diseases. It will prevent consumption.

A Disgraceful Act.

THE CHRONICLE had occasion a short time ago to refer to the county-seat contest in Wheeler county, by reason of the attempt that was being made to drag into it, in a manner they utterly resent, certain Dalles parties who have large property interests in the new county. If we refer to the matter again it is only because there is an unwritten code of morals for newspaper men in their relations to one another that we think should not be violated without a solemn protest from every generous mind.

E. M. Shutt, who used to edit the Antelope Herald, is conducting a little sheet at Twickenham in the interest of that place for the county seat. James S. Stewart edits the Fossil Journal, and, of course, urges the claims of his own town. Stewart is a clean, honorable and able Scotchman, who has lived in Fossil since his boyhood and whom his fellow citizens of Fossil have honored with the mayorship of the town; his brethren of the Knights of Pythias with first chancellor commandership of that order, and his brethren of the Oregon press with the presidency of the state press association. The fight between the rival editors, as was natural enough, has been vigorous, not to say bitter. It remained, however, for Shutt to adopt tactics that, happily for the honor of the profession, as well as our common humanity, is never resorted to save by a sneak and a poltroon. In the issue of the Wheeler county News (Shutt's paper) of the 25th of April, Shutt published the following:

The editor of the News is by no means a saint; but here are a few things, Bro. Stewart, the people of Wheeler county can never accuse us of being guilty of: The News editor has never served a term in the penitentiary of Scotland for the commission of a dastardly crime. He was never compelled to learn the cobbler's trade while confined in the penitentiary. He never flew from Scotland or any other country through disgrace or because he could not look his old neighbors in the face."

Mr. Stewart's Scottish friends—four highly respected residents of the county—came to the rescue with incontestable proof of Mr. Stewart's honorable boyhood in his native land and of the fact that he left it in the full order of respect of his companions and fellowtownsmen of his native Blairgowrie and Rattray.

In the county seat contest THE CHRONICLE has no direct concern, but it protests, in the name of a profession which this man Shutt has disgraced, against this cowardly and unmanly method of warfare against a brother editor. We have no recollection of anything so utterly low and base in ten years' experience in country newspaper work. A direct charge of felony would have had the saving grace of courage in its promoter, but to libel by insinuation and innuendo, and thus keep within the law and save the measly libeler from just retribution, in the quintessence of poltroonery and meanness. Shutt is a disgrace to the profession.

A Splendid Record.

Sheriff Kelly submitted to the county court this afternoon his books, rolls and vouchers, and a summary of the business that has been done in his office since he entered upon the duties of sheriff in '98. Accompanying the books and documents was the following communication:

To the Honorable County Court:— As the time for which I have been elected by the citizens of Wasco county will expire before the next meeting of this court, I take this opportunity of bringing before you the books, rolls, etc. of this county, entrusted to my care, showing the rolls properly balanced to the 1st of this month, together with an itemized statement of all collections made and turned over to the county treasurer, and for which I hold his receipts. It is my belief that the books of the sheriff's office should be carefully gone over at the close of each term of office and I would ask of this court that a thorough examination be made of mine. I will at all times be glad to assist the court in this matter, and am ready to explain each and every item. ROBERT KELLY.

The summary is a splendid testimony to the efficiency of Mr. Kelly as a tax collector. It is beyond question the best showing that was ever made by any sheriff that Wasco county ever had. It shows that Mr. Kelly has collected no less than $53,262 13 of taxes that were delinquent in 1898 and of the assessment rolls of '95, '96 and '97. The roll of '98 called for the collection of $100,931.01, including the sheriff's own assessment list. Of this sum $92,330 46 have been collected, and THE CHRONICLE is assured that when wrong assessments, double assessments and other errors are counted up there will remain not to exceed $8000 of delinquent taxes on the roll of 1898. This is a showing that any man has a right to be proud of. On this showing the republicans have a right to claim the re-election of Mr. Kelly by the largest majority ever given to a sheriff.

It Was Bogus After All.

A short time ago THE CHRONICLE called attention to a card that was being circulated among railroad men in these parts on which was printed what purported to be a "Railroad Plank" adopted by the late democratic state convention. THE CHRONICLE viewed the card with suspicion, not only on account of the surreptitious way it was being circulated but because the alleged plank it contained did not appear in the Oregonian's report of the convention. It will be remembered that Judge Bennett came to the rescue of the suspicious plank and published a letter in THE CHRONICLE explaining how this particular plank came to be left out and another substituted in its place. The matter was then fairly up to the Oregonian and that paper has since made an investigation that leaves little doubt that the early suspicions of THE CHRONICLE were correct, that the whole thing was a democratic scheme to catch railroad votes. Here it is being used in the interest of Judge Bennett, "the poor man's friend." God wot, and he has it printed on the obverse side of his campaign card. Of the plank the Oregonian says:

"Chairman Chamberlain and secretary Redfield have certified to a plank which is not now and never was in their possession, nor was it ever in the possession of the democratic state convention."

The Oregonian further says that this bogus plank was brought into the democratic convention by a populist the evening before the platform was adopted, and was read, and that that was the first and only glimpse the democratic state convention ever had of it. It was drafted by Judge Bennett, as a brother delegate of his shrewdly hinted, "that he might pose as the champion of the oppressed servants of corporations." When the convention sat down on it the judge privately took it up and is using it to boost himself into office. This fully confirms the suspicions of THE CHRONICLE. Will the judge's little scheme work? We shall see.
