

Do You Cough?

"I guess I used to be like everybody else. When I caught cold, I just let it alone, thinking it would cure itself in a few days; of course the coughing and spitting of mucus sometimes lasted several weeks, but after a while the trouble would subside. I always noticed, however, that each cold was worse than the one before. My throat seemed to get weaker, and the least change in the weather started the coughing again. The last cold was the most severe of all. I was really frightened. Cough drops and home treatment did no good. A friend told me about Acker's English Remedy. I got a bottle, and you never saw the like of the way it acted. Before the bottle was gone I was well. My throat felt as strong and well as could be. Since then I have had no more trouble. I think Acker's English Remedy so strengthens the delicate lining of the throat that it easily resists the changes in temperature, and it builds up the constitution as well."

Means, "Rather dead than blind" blindness in most cases is the result of a neglected trivial illness of the eye. Many a person now blind could enjoy good eyesight had it not been that the eyes were neglected when the first sign of disease appeared. Cataract and Glaucoma, two of the most dangerous diseases, are in most cases due to negligence in the care of the eyes. Theo. H. Liebe, of the firm of J. E. THE DALLIES, May 21, 1900.

TO THE EDITOR:

I have just returned from a trip through the Hood River valley, where I was pleased to find the sentiment very strongly in favor of A. S. Blowers for county judge. There are some 500 voters in that part of the county, composed of shrewd, industrious farmers, fruit men and lumber men. They deserve recognition in the distribution of the county offices, and they will do their part to obtain it by rolling up a large vote for Mr. Blowers. It is well known that I am not a republican. My desire to see Mr. Blowers elected springs solely from the confidence that I have that he will make one of the best judges the county has ever had, and that he will do all in his power to reduce the taxes. Mr. Blowers is himself a large property owner. He has spent fourteen years of his life in the very work he will be called upon to do as county judge. He fought over four long years to maintain the union. He is still in the prime of mental and physical vigor, and, if elected, will not make the office of county judge a mere side issue, but will take up his residence at the county seat and devote his entire time to the work of his office. I know Mr. Blowers will get a good many democratic votes, and it will be a disgrace to Wasco county republicans if they do not give their solid support to a man who is in every way worthy of it.

A VISIT TO PARIS.

Americans Who Go to the Exposition Will Need Much Cash.

Hotel Rates Raised and Everything Will Have a Fancy Price Tacked on to Fleeced Visitors.

Ben C. Truman, well known as a newspaper writer in Chicago, is now in Paris and in a recent letter offers through the Chicago Chronicle, some suggestions to those contemplating a visit to that city during the exposition. He says:

"The hotels have all raised their rates from 40 to 80 per cent. The Grand hotel is the leading robber of the gang. Twenty years ago a good room could be secured there for six francs per day, candles and attendance included; coffee for two francs, déjeuner a la fourchette, four francs, and dinner for six, including wine. Ten years ago, during the exposition of 1889, the same room was seven francs, coffee three francs, déjeuner five francs and dinner seven, including wine. Now, however, the same room (incandescent light) is 15 francs, coffee four francs, déjeuner five francs and dinner seven, or about $6 per day, and all the meals skimpy—some thing every day; some old poulette and chicken salad twice a day. Can you imagine so prodigious a steal as 50 cents for a cup of abominable coffee and a few counted rolls? The Continental and L'Athene charge about the same. All the other hotels of account charge about from 18 to 25 francs per day for full board per month or per day—everything is so much per day, even if it is by the month or year.

"And then you are compelled to fee from six to ten people almost continually. Elegant positions, engineered by widows of distinguished and lamented army and navy officers, are higher priced than the high-rate hotels, while life at a regular pension means taking chances of being starved or frozen to death. Next to the hotels and pensions are freshwaters come the stores, that have put up their prices quite 40 per cent.

"Hats and shoes are 50 per cent. dearer than in 1899; neckties that range from 25 cents to 50 cents in New York, San Francisco and Los Angeles, range from three francs (60 cents) to seven francs ($1.40) here—and this is the country of silk manufactures! Cotton, linen and woolen goods have nearly all advanced from 20 to 50 per cent, over what they were in 1899. Games and umbrellas and such from 20 to 40 per cent. Shirts, handkerchiefs and gloves seem not to have advanced so much.

"Druggists' goods have gone diabolically out of all sight of all grades of polite robbery. A prescription that would cost 25 cents in San Francisco is $1 here. An ounce of castor oil is 50 cents, a pint of which hazel is 50 cents and an ounce of borax 40 cents. Candles, fruit, cigars, tobacco, cigars and cigarettes are the only things that have not been atrociously advanced. Soap, lead pencils, pen, ink and paper have advanced 100 per cent. Omnibus rates are six cents as against four cents some years ago. The only thing cheap in Paris to-day is the cab, which is still only 30 cents from any one point to another within the city, for from one to three persons, or 40 cents per hour for same. I have met a score or more of Americans who had come here to stay for several months, but who are going back on the North German Lloyd steamer of the 18th. All of these go home without making purchases, and none of them will return by the French line. Really, the foreign feeling against the hotels and stores here is intense, and the American and English papers of Paris publish complaints of some kind daily." Truman is an old traveler and knows what he is talking about. It would seem as if the exposition were a good place to stay away from.

M. B. Smith, Butternut, Mich., says, "DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the very best pills I ever used for costiveness, liver and bowel troubles."
