

Do You Cough?

"I guess I used to be like everybody else. When I caught cold, I just let it alone, thinking it would cure itself in a few days; of course the coughing and spitting of mucus sometimes lasted several weeks, but after a while the trouble would subside. I always noticed, however, that each cold was worse than the one before. My throat seemed to get weaker, and the least change in the weather started the coughing again. The last cold was the most severe of all. I was really frightened. Cough drops and home treatment did no good. A friend told me about Acker's English Remedy. I got a bottle, and you never saw the like of the way it acted. Before the bottle was gone I was well. My throat felt as strong and well as could be. Since then I have had no more trouble. I think Acker's English Remedy so strengthens the delicate lining of the throat that it easily resists the changes in temperature, and builds up the constitution as well."

"Plutot mort qu'aveugle"

Means, "Rather dead than blind" blindness in most cases is the result of a neglected trivial illness of the eye. Many a person now blind could enjoy good eyesight had it not been that the eyes were neglected when the first sign of disease appeared. Cataract and Glaucoma, two of the most dangerous diseases, are in most cases due to negligence in the care of the eyes. Theo. H. Liebs, of the firm of J. E. Adcox & Co., is a graduate of the Peoria Optical College, and the Bradley Polytechnic Institute. He will correct and diagnose all errors of refraction. Eyes examined free.

A UNIQUE TABLET.

Containing Abraham Lincoln's Famous Address at Gettysburg, 1863.

The society for ethical culture has in its house in New York a tablet in bronze containing the famous address of Abraham Lincoln. In every particular the work is thoroughly American. The tablet is of bronze, nearly three feet square, supported by seven consoles, enriched with bine-eyed grass decorations. The address is in Doric characters, and the signature is a fine reproduction of that of the martyred president. Mediated up the tiers are the corps badges of those who took part in the battle. The first is represented by a disk; the second by a shamrock; the third by a diamond; the fifth by a maltese cross; the seventh by a crescent, and the twelfth by a star. Intertwined with these are American wild flowers, blue-eyed grass, Oswego mint, primrose and arrow head, as well as a dainty wreath of laurel. The tablet rests upon a slab of highly polished Pennsylvania serpentine, most appropriate as the battle was fought in that state.

Altogether the scheme is unique, and will be an attractive spot, serving to keep before the members a speech that, for inspired patriotism, choice composition and simplicity of expression has never been surpassed.

THE ADDRESS.
Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created free and equal. Now, we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a green battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have consecrated it, far above our power to add or detract.
The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us here to dedicate to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that the government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.
