Draws a Comparison Which Finally Penetrated the English Sense of Humor-His Criticisms.

The ameer, who is a diligent student of things English, has compared the imperial parliament to the Kabul Turkbath. Riddle-Why is parliament like the Kabul Turkish bath? Mr. listener when the comparison was made, could not guess, because he had not been there. The ameer, says the London News, would not be drawn, but simply advised Mr. Martin to go to the Hamam. When he went he found "the bath full of men, and the high dome overhead reverberated with calls for towels, soap and loud-voiced conversabecame lost in the confusion of sounds and but added to the uproar.

The ameer's riddle was answered. It will be seen from the report which includes this story that the ameer, who not so long ago was thought to be dyng, is lively indeed. He criticises Russians and English with deligntful impartiality. But he reserves a good deal of sympathy for Great Britain, and regrets that he cannot help us with his forces in the present war. He thinks his hardy warriors would be useless after crossing the ocean. They are not of the kind who are "never, never sick

"MESSIAH" ON THE PLAINS.

A Notable Annual Musical Event of the West That Attracts Thousands.

"Because of its surroundings, and uplifting by its earnest methods and teaching, the Easter performance of The Messiah' by the Swedish colony at Lindsborg, in central Kansas, is each spring one of the interesting events of the west," writes Charles M. Harger of "Singing 'The Messiah' on the Planes," in Ladies' Home Journal. "A musical festival that, out or comparatively sparsely settled prairies, can bring together 10,000 people during Holy Week, many of then coming 200 miles, must be excellent indeed. The growth of the audiences in this instance, year after year, in licates a thorough appreciation of a worthy rendering of Handel's great oratorio.

"The Swedes are a singing people and the religious sentiment is strong in their hearts. The one cherished day for this colony of perhaps 3,000 families is Easter, and the chief glory thereof is 'The Messiah.' Four hunlied men and maidens participate in hese renditions. The orchestra num bers 50 pieces and is supplemented by s three-manual pipe organ. The lead ers, directors and soloists are al members of the Lindsborg communty and teachers in the college there."
