

"Its a very good world to live in
To lend, or to spend, or to give in
But to buy, or to borrow, or to get a man's own
Its the very worst world that ever was known."

And Worst of all

The dear old world is busy, trying to Forget how to give a lot for a little.
Its a fad of ours to be frank—
And besides,
If we advertised it all time
To give you more than "your money's worth"
It would be an insult
To your intelligence.

This is What We DO do

We give you
One Hundred Cents' worth of Merchandise for One Dollar every time.
Ask some of your friends—they know.

Air rifle or baseball and bat with boys' suits at Pease & Mays.

Furnished rooms for rent on Fourth street, in the DeWolf house. Apply to Mrs. J. O. Rose. m25-1w

Have you seen those baseballs and bats and air guns that Pease & Mays are giving away with boys' clothing.

Yesterday the Dalles City took down to Stevenson 2000 head of sheep of W. J. Lander's, of Salt Springs, to be summered in the mountains back of that town.

Free with any boy's suit—a Spalding baseball and bat, or a good daisy air rifle. See windows. Pease & Mays.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church will meet this week on Thursday afternoon—instead of Wednesday afternoon—at the residence of Mrs. Hostetler.

When the excursionists got back to the Valley they told what a lovely day they had had up at The Dalles. The poor, dear things. If they had only been here on one of our fine days!

J. T. Rorick last week cut a field of rye on the old Frank Taylor place across the river that averaged in light six feet and eight inches. Some of it measured seven feet three inches. Mr. Rorick says it beat any rye crop he ever saw.

Circuit court opened here this morning with a light docket. There are only two criminal cases, that of Robert Gardner for assault with a deadly weapon, and that of William VanPelt, who is accused of horse-stealing. The civil cases are few and unimportant.

Mrs. G. F. Guinther, of this city, who has been quite ill for nearly six months, yesterday morning submitted to an operation by Dr. Geisendorffer, which it is hoped may afford ultimate relief. The patient rallied from the operation satisfactorily and is now as well as could be expected.

A good deal of the wool from the central and southern parts of this county is being hauled to The Dalles this year on account of the excessive freight rates charged by the O. R. & N. Co. between Arlington and that place. The teamsters haul back considerable freight for our merchants and farmers, thus causing a loss of trade to Arlington.—Arlington Record.

The third section of The Dalles excursion train was delayed last night three miles east of Cascade Locks, on the return trip to Portland, about 7:30. The archpipe in the engine drawing the train was broken, totally disabling the locomotive. The train came to a standstill in a desolate locality. A message was sent forward to Cascade Locks to notify the chief train dispatcher. The twenty coaches waited until locomotives arrived from The Dalles.

Rev. Adelhelm Odermatt, O. S. B., officiated yesterday at St. Peter's Catholic church and during the sermon announced to the congregation that as he was now a parishioner of St. Peter's if the crops at Crate's Point farm, which had been donated to the Benedictines by Mr. Vogt, turned out as good as they now promise to do, he would do all in his power to help the parishioners of St. Peter's to wipe out their church debt.

The experiments that have been carried on by the O. R. & N., with Brome grass and on the arid land in the vicinity of Telosaset, south of Union, have determined that the new grass will grow luxuriantly on the dry and almost barren hills. A considerable quantity of seed will be sown this year and it is expected that great things will result from the planting of this new grass in converting desert places into pasture lands.

Jane, wife of William Keys, died at Mayville, Gilliam county, May 20th, aged 78 years. She was born in Ireland, and married there in 1855. The family came to this country in 1865, and two years later to Oregon, and lived in Portland, Roseburg and Mayville. She was a faithful Presbyterian. She left a husband and three children who are well known in the Mayville country. The deceased was also well known in The Dalles.

After the close that The Dalles democrats got from the two middle-of-the-roads, they can congratulate themselves, if reports be true, that Texas Bradley failed to connect. At Condon Bradley announced himself as chairman of the populist state central committee of Texas and made such a thoroughly out and out populist speech that when he was leaving next morning the only one in the town that appeared to bid him good bye was the republican postmaster. Could it be possible that Bradley, too, was in the pay of Mark Hanna?

Dr. Stephan, mayor of Hinckley, Minn., with whom Ned Gates, city recorder, has been in correspondence for some time past, arrived here yesterday from the east and is considering this place with a view to locating here. The doctor is well pleased with the city and will perhaps locate here with his family. He was greatly surprised to see fruit already ripening on our trees, when at his home the frosts have not yet left them. There are about thirty families in Minnesota who are about to seek new homes and are awaiting the doctor's report as to our city and vicinity.

The attendance at the graduating exercises Saturday night filled the Vogt opera house to the door. The class consisted of twenty-one members, some thirteen of whom read short papers of more than usual excellence. The diplomas were presented by State Superintendent Ackerman at the close of a speech in which he paid a high compliment to the teachers of The Dalles schools, alleging that he had often elsewhere heard of The Dalles schools as models of efficiency and good work. He complimented the graduates on the high character of the papers they had just read, and expressed the hope that in their and their country's coming future they would each occupy an honored place at the head of a family trained in the duties and responsibilities of good citizenship.

There is no mistaking where Dr. Madison C. Peters, a prominent New York Baptist divine, stands on the question of expansion. At one of the American Baptist missionary mass meetings, held in Detroit the other night, the doctor said: "Nations ought not to stand still when God says 'Go forward.' Spain thoroughly deserved a good, sound thrashing, and I thank God our nation was chosen to administer it. We found ourselves, after Dewey's victory, where we never intended to be, but, God helping us, we'll never retreat from the duties thus laid upon us. We would be traitors to the flag and enemies to the cross, did we leave these peoples to retrogression and savagery. We do not want these territories for ourselves, but to give these peoples free schools, free institutions and free churches."

Uncle Sam will inaugurate rural delivery of mails from The Dalles to Sherrar's July 16th. After that day the old-time stage coach drops out of use from The Dalles south. The writer of this paragraph, says D. C. Ireland in the Sherman County Observer, saw it established way back yonder in the palmy days of Canyon City, Boise "basis," etc., just before Henry Wheeler was shot off the boat by the bullet of a redskin. The stage coach never builds beyond a certain status—it could have made a city of Astoria fifty years ago, but never could make a city of The Dalles. Now that Shaniko has taken the stage coach away from it we expect to see the natural resources of The Dalles unfold, in spite of its "conservative" citizen element. Unless they go to sleep on the proposition that the government is going to do something for an open Columbia river.

The conductors' excursion yesterday was the biggest thing of the kind that The Dalles ever had anything to do with. Five thousand seven hundred tickets had been sold, and allowing that probably as many as 700 persons dropped off at way towns, not far from 5000 persons made the through trip. There were people from many of the valley towns as far as Albany and Corvallis. Hundreds came in from the country adjacent to The Dalles to see friends that had advised them of their coming. In some, perhaps in many instances, the friends were unable to find each other in the crowd. It took three trains and sixty-one cars to bring the excursionists here, and the crowd would have been still larger if more cars could have been obtained. Four brass bands accompanied and discoursed excellent music all the time they were here. The weather was fairly well behaved, although it was a little too cool and windy for comfort. The Dalles was a revelation to many who imagined they were visiting a one-horse country village. It was as orderly and well-behaved crowd as ever was seen in this town.

Went to Sleep On the Track.

Coroner Butts held an inquest at Wyeth yesterday on the body of a man that had been killed by a passenger train that morning. The evidence showed that the deceased was a tramp. He was beating his way to Utah, which he claimed to be his home. He had told a witness the night before at Troutdale that he had been on the road seven years. He appeared to be demented and had not a cent of money on his person. He had built a fire in the middle of the main track a short distance from the Wyeth water tank and lain down beside it and gone to sleep. A curve near by made it impossible for the engineer of the train to see the man till the engine was almost on him. He was dragged about 300 feet. His head and one foot were completely cut off, and parts of his body, including his teeth, were scattered over the track. His clothes were completely torn off except one sock and a portion of one of his shoes. The jury returned the following verdict:

We the jury, empaneled by the coroner to inquire into the cause of the death of the body now before us, whose name is unknown to us, find that he came to his death by being run over by train No. 5, about 5:15 o'clock a. m., May 27th, aged about twenty-two years, weight about one hundred and fifty pounds, height about five feet eight inches; black hair, smooth face, and that he came to his death by his own negligence by lying on the track.
