

Do You Cough?

"I guess I used to be like everybody else. When I caught cold, I just let it alone, thinking it would cure itself in a few days; of course the coughing and spitting of mucus sometimes lasted several weeks, but after a while the trouble would subside. I always noticed however, that each cold was worse than the one before. My throat seemed to get weaker, and the least change in the weather started the coughing again. The last cold was the most severe of all. I was really frightened. Cough drops and home treatment did no good. A friend told me about Acker's English Remedy. I got a bottle, and you never saw the like of the way it acted. Before the bottle was gone I was well. My throat felt as strong and well as could be. Since then I have had no more trouble. I think Acker's English Remedy strengthens the delicate lining of the throat that it easily resists the changes in temperature, and it builds up the constitution as well."

"Plutot mort qu'aveugle"

Means, "Rather dead than blind" blindness in most cases is the result of a neglected trivial illness of the eye. Many a person now blind could enjoy good eyesight had it not been that the eyes were neglected when the first sign of disease appeared. Cataract and Glaucoma, two of the most dangerous diseases, are in most cases due to negligence in the care of the eyes. Theo. H. Liebe, of the firm of J. E. Adcox & Co., is a graduate of the Peoria Optical College, and the Bradley Polytechnic Institute. He will correct and diagnose all errors of refraction. Eyes examined free.

An Honorable Record.

[FROM THE CHRONICLE OF MAY 1.]

Captain A. S. Blowers, the republican nominee for county judge, is a native of the Empire state where he was born in 1845. In the later fifties he removed to Minnesota, and when the Civil war broke out and he was scarce past the age of fifteen he enlisted in the 16th U. S. Regulars, Dec. 1, 1861, and served till the following year when he was discharged because of his youth. In the October of 1862 he enlisted again in the Second Minnesota cavalry and served till April 3, 1866, when he was mustered out with his regiment. He participated in every engagement and movement of his regiment during the war and was several times commended by his superior officers for coolness and bravery in time of danger. He is an honored member of the G. A. R. and was for a time captain of a company of a militia at Hood River. This is a record of devotion to the Union and its flag that any man may be proud of, and when such a man comes before the people for their suffrages in the full vigor of matured mental manhood and ripe and varied experience, it ought to receive due consideration from every patriotic citizen without respect to his political affiliation. Whatever Captain Blowers has or is he owes to his own energy and to no one else. Left alone at the age of eleven years he has since carved out his own fortune. In the civil walks of life his experience has been as varied as it is honorable. After the war he settled on a homestead and for a number of years followed the plow. Subsequently he engaged in the lumber and sawmill business, to which was added a general merchandise store. For twelve years he served as commissioner for Beecher and Otter Tail counties, Minn., during which time he built and superintended the building of nearly all the roads and bridges in his district, which comprised seventeen townships. When he was first elected the county was new and without roads, but under his management some of the best roads in the state were built. Good roads were and still are almost a hobby of Captain Blowers, and for this reason he was kept in office from year to year till he left Minnesota and came to Oregon. Six years ago the republicans of Hood River asked his nomination as commissioner at the hands of the county convention. His election followed in due course, and his service in this capacity is a matter of public record. It is a matter of simple justice to say that he brought into his commissioner-ship the ripe business experience of long years of service in the same capacity elsewhere; that no meritorious improvement was ever discriminated against because of locality, and that every proposition for the improvement of the roads leading to the county seat received his special and cordial support. Captain Blowers will bring to the county judgeship the varied experience of long years of service as commissioner in two states, added to that of a long and successful business career. Should he be elected he will move his family to The Dalles and devote his entire time to the business of the county. Captain Blowers is entitled to and ought to receive every republican vote in the county.

A FORTUNE IN ORANGES.

A San Francisco Clergyman Who Owns Beautiful and Valuable Groves.

Rev. Robert Mackenzie, D. D., pastor of the first Presbyterian church in this city and professor in the seminary at San Anselmo, while attending to the arduous duties of his ecclesiastical charge, has found time to make a fortune. He is a man of great wealth, says the San Francisco Bulletin, not inherited, but the result of his own foresight and wise investments.

About five miles from the beautiful town of Riverside, in the choicest part of a region where land is marketable at prices ranging from $1,600 to $1,800 per acre, Dr. Mackenzie owns 90 acres, all in bearing oranges. The land is covered with trees in full bearing and is worth in its present condition about $100,000. The income must be very large, for orange groves pay a large profit on the capital invested.

Dr. Mackenzie started the orchard in a small way a number of years ago. He had a few acres, which were carefully planted. He tended his place with great zeal, and it is said that Mrs. Mackenzie herself went over the first few crops and sorted and boxed them, a labor she would not trust to less careful hands than her own. This prudence gave the crop a superior quality and a reputation. With his annual profits Dr. Mackenzie extended his acreage until he became owner of the present large and extremely valuable groves.

Of course he has made a fortune out of his oranges. He has taken care of his wealth and is now perhaps the richest clergyman in California.

PROJECTILE AIR.

New Theory That Bubbles Driven by Mauser Bullets Explode in the Body.

Physicians in South Africa now have another theory for explaining away the charges made by both Briton and Boer that the other is using explosive bullets, says the New York Sun. The extensive laceration often found in bullet wounds is now said to be due to the air which the bullet drives before it into the wound. The existence of this phenomenon can be proved easily. If a round bullet be dropped into a glass of water from the height of a few feet it will be seen that when the bullet touches the bottom a large bubble of air will become detached and rise to the surface. In this case the bubble will usually be from ten to twenty times the size of the bullet. Now a Mauser bullet traveling at high speed is said to carry before it a bubble of compressed air of large dimensions. Experiments made by a surgeon who fired a pistol ball into a glass of water showed the bubble to be one hundred times the size of the ball. From the appearance of the wounds and from these experiments it is concluded that the mass of air driven by a Mauser bullet explodes in the body of the wounded man with sufficient force to cause extensive laceration. This destructive air bubble is well known to surgeons under the name of projectile air.

Economical Padding.

Bake any remains of bread a golden brown and crush them to a fine powder while hot. Of these take four ounces, two ounces of brown sugar or golden sirup, two ounces of raisins or dried cherries, half a pint of milk and the same of boiling water, together with half a teaspoonful of allspice. Pour the boiling water on the crumbs, stir well, and let them soak till soft, then mix in all the other ingredients, and pour the mixture into a dish plentifully rubbed with butter or well clarified dripping, and bake for 20 to 25 minutes. —Philadelphia Press.

Ways to Wear the Hair.

Many ladies are wearing their hair parted a little to the side, slightly waved, and a few soft curls straying over the forehead on one side only. Young girls dispense with the waving and fold the hair loosely on either side, so that it falls over in an artistic fashion, but a girl needs to be pretty to wear her hair this way.

Judge Blakeley Captures the Prize.

THE DALLES, JUNE 1, 1900.
TO THE EDITOR:—I have just returned from the Forest Reserve Association's barbecue at Dufar, which was a grand success. There were plenty of well-roasted beef and roast chicken. The picnic was attended by a large crowd and the day was well spent. In the afternoon the whole herd of candidates were on the ground and political chips were flying in every direction; and to cap it all the merry-go-round gave a prize to the ugliest candidate. I left before they had decided but I heard it whispered around that Blakeley would get the prize.
