

RHEUMATISM

Is due to an acid poison which gains access to the blood through failure of the proper organs to carry off and keep the system clear of all morbid, effete matter. This poison through the general circulation is deposited in the joints, muscles and nerves, causing the most intense pain.

Rheumatism may attack with such suddenness and severity as to make within a few days a healthy active person helpless and bed-ridden, with distorted limbs and shattered nerves; or it may be slow in developing, with slight wandering pains, just severe enough to make one feel uncomfortable; the tendency in such cases is to grow worse, and finally become chronic.

Like other blood diseases, Rheumatism is often inherited, and exposure to damp or cold, want of proper food, insufficient clothing, or anything calculated to impair the health, will frequently cause it to develop in early life, but more often not until middle age or later. In whatever form, whether acute or chronic, acquired or inherited, Rheumatism is Strictly a Blood Disease, and no liniment or other external treatment can reach the trouble. Neither do the preparations of potash and mercury, and the various mineral salts, which the doctors always prescribe, cure Rheumatism, but ruin the digestion and break down the constitution.

A remedy which builds up the general health and at the same time rids the system of the poison is the only safe and certain cure for Rheumatism. S. S. S., made of roots, herbs and barks of wonderful solvent, purifying properties, attacks the disease in the right way, and in the right place—the blood—and quickly neutralizes the acid and dissolves all poisonous deposits, stimulates and reinforces the overworked, worn-out organs, and clears the system of all unhealthy accumulations. S. S. S. cures permanently and thoroughly, and keeps the blood in a pure, healthy state.

Mr. J. O. Malley, 123 W. 13th Street, Indianapolis, Ind., for eighteen months was so terribly afflicted with Rheumatism he was unable to feed or dress himself. Doctors said his case was hopeless. He had tried fifty-two prescriptions that friends had given him, without the slightest relief. A few bottles of S. S. S. cured him permanently, and he has never had a rheumatic pain since. This was five years ago.

We will send free our special book on Rheumatism, which should be in the hands of every sufferer from this torturing disease. Our physicians have made blood and skin diseases a life study, and will give you any information or advice wanted, so write them fully and freely about your case. We make no charge whatever for this service. Address, SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

GENERAL NEWS.

Pioneer day, June 15, will be fittingly observed in Portland by the Pioneer society.

George K. Dean, a capitalist who registered from Spokane, dropped dead in the Perkins hotel at Portland Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, of heart failure.

Walter Ott, a butcher who has been employed in The Dalles markets for several years, arrived yesterday and will be employed with Carter & Miller, of this city, says the Baker City Democrat.

Prince Rupert, the heir to the throne of Bavaria, dislikes very much the attention of the White Rose League of England, which, because it recognizes the claims of the Stuarts to the British throne, persists, much to his disgust, in styling him "the rightful prince of Wales."

The Seattle Times says that Miles C. Moore, Walla Walla, will be presented to the fusion state conventions this fall as a candidate for governor. Gov. Moore's friends in Eastern Washington are booming him as a candidate, and are urging that his nomination would settle all differences in the party and cause the fusion forces to present a solid front to the common enemy.

Agricultural writers sometimes get mixed in answering correspondents. One wrote and asked how to raise a pair of twins, another how to destroy young grasshoppers. The man with twins got this reply: "Put out some straw for them to crawl onto at night, pour kerosene over it, and set fire to them." The grasshopper man was told: "Give them gentle doses of castor oil and rub their gums with a rubber ring."

London newspapers are "pointing with pride" to the enormous expense they were put to in the matter of telegrams from South Africa. For example the Morning Post paid $1750 for one of Mr. Winston Churchill's telegram—put long since, and its friends chuckle accordingly. We have in mind one dispatch that cost the New York Herald $7,000 during the war with Spain, and there were several others received by other journals that were not much cheaper.

The New York democrat expressed their "unqualified opposition to these immense combinations of capital commonly known as trusts, which are controlling and monopolizing industry and business and crushing out independent producers of limited means," and then sent one of the Van Wyeke, a prominent stockholder in the notorious ice trust, that is plundering the people of New York out of $15,000,000 a year, as a delegate-at-large to the democratic national convention.

W. L. Eddings, of Honolulu, whom President McKinley has appointed one of the United States judges for Hawaii, was a motorman on a Seattle street car line in 1893. He came to that city from the south, where he had been raised and educated, seeking an opportunity to practice his profession, the law. He found the field overcrowded, and secured a position as abstract clerk. Later he married a daughter of P. D. Moore, of Olympia. He was engaged subsequently as a motorman on the Union Trunk line, one of the street car lines of Seattle. He remained in this employment but a few months when he removed to Honolulu, which has since been his home.

The Belgian hare industry in the part of the state and southern Michigan is assuming an extent not dreamed of a few months ago, says a dispatch from Auburn, Ind. The animal is remarkable for its fecundity, the young attaining their growth rapidly, and for this reason have developed a commercial worth exceeding that of poultry. The Belgian hare industry is rapidly taking the place of the chicken fad in many places in the United States. Breeders pay fancy prices for the best blood, some of the bucks selling as high as $500. The rabbits breed every thirty days, and it has been estimated that one doe will produce from 300 to 400 pounds of meat annually. The object of rare cultivation is to introduce the hare for food, and its flesh is said by epicures to be superior to that of chicken and beef. The common animal without pedigree sells from 75 cents up.

The best methods for dehorning calves, says the San Jose Mercury, is by means of caustic potash, which may be purchased in stick form at any drug store. Just before the horn comes through the skin is the best time to apply the potash. Wet the stick of potash, after wrapping the end held in the hand with heavy paper, and apply it to the place where the horn is located, covering a space the size of a quarter of a dollar. Be careful that none of the potash touches any of the hair or skin of the animal, and be especially careful that none of it gets into the eyes. When using have some strong vinegar handy to apply to any spot where the caustic is accidentally dropped. A little care in using is necessary. Remember that the end of the stick should be moistened only, not wet until it drops. One thorough application will be all that is necessary, if done at the stage of horn growth indicated; but the growth should be watched and if necessary another application made.

Obituary.

On Sunday morning, Mary Wigle Taylor, wife of William H. Taylor, died at her home near this city after months of intense suffering from that dread disease, cancer.

Mary Elizabeth Wigle was born in Adams county, Illinois, April 30, 1846. She came with her family across the plains to Oregon in 1852, arriving late in the fall and settling in Linn county, near the present location of Halsey. She was married to Mr. Taylor, who was also a pioneer of 1852, on December 20, 1865. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor moved from the Willamette valley in the fall of 1870, locating on Willow Creek, Umatilla county, near the present town of Heppner, and resided in that place till the fall of 1876 when they moved to their present home in Wasco county, near The Dalles.

Ten children were born to them, six of whom are living and who were, to the great comfort of the mother, present with her during the last ten days, the eldest son, John A., coming from Riverside, Calif., and the oldest daughter, Ella (Clark) from Brownsville, Ore. While in Umatilla county they lost two children by diphtheria and two from this present home.

Mrs. Taylor was 54 years, 1 month and 10 days old when called to her eternal rest. Though never publicly professing christianity she lived her religion. She never hesitated, no matter how malignant the disease, to visit and minister to the sick, and to do good to mankind whenever opportunity afforded. Her friends say that no duty, no work was ever too urgent, too pressing, the day never too stormy, the night never too dark, when her neighbors and friends had sickness and trouble, but she would go to their help. It was while exercising this spirit of self sacrifice that the germs of diphtheria were carried to her own home so fatally. About four years ago a cancer developed upon her side, the result of a terrible burn received in childhood. It was then that the true spirit of the woman was revealed in the utter absence of all complaint and repining, always enduring the intense suffering towards the last with a calmness and patience almost to be wondered at. "Good and faithful," which she was, she surely received a welcome of "well done" when she entered the presence of her Lord.
