For President—
WILLIAM McKINLEY, of Ohio.

For Vice-President—
THEODORE ROOSEVELT, of New York.

COLUMBIA RIVER SALMON.

The suggestions of Fish Commissioner Reed are probably wise, says the Telegram, and if so they are very important. The catch of salmon in the Columbia river has fallen off half in a few years, and there is no present prospect that the hatcheries established will be sufficient to restock the river and supply the supply. Mr. Reed thinks the only remedy is to shorten the fishing season, so as to allow a larger proportion of salmon to ascend the river. This proposition will be fiercely combated by fishermen and others, but the legislature must look beyond the interest of any locality or class of people, and do what is best for the people of the state as a whole. Little can be accomplished, however, by Oregon alone, without concurrent laws and action by the state of Washington, and to secure uniformity of laws and co-operation in administration in and by the two states has hitherto been impossible.

Since the good times came to the country under republican rule a great many men who were leaders in the free silver party in 1896 have realized the absurdity of the representations they then made, says the Union. They see ignominious defeat staring them in the face this year, and they have worked every way they knew how to relegate the money question to its present form to the rear. There have been rumors that Bryan was also coming to his senses. But the Nebraskan is so thoroughly soaked with the free silver idea that its fumes intoxicate him and he cannot listen to reason. With Bryan it is silver or nothing. He cares naught for the international question of bimetalism, and his representatives from Nebraska have clearly defined the leader's position. He proposes that the convention shall follow his wishes, and he probably will save the silver plank in the platform. Imperialism and militarism are secondary considerations.

One good and exceedingly gratifying piece of news for the nation, and especially for the people of Oregon, is that the magnificent battleship Oregon has been floated, and will not be the wreck which it was feared she would be on the second anniversary of her splendid performance in Santiago harbor. It was two years ago Tuesday when the Oregon performed such valiant work in destroying Cervera's fleet, immediately after her notable and record-breaking voyage around Cape Horn. Her destruction on a Chinese reef that seemed imminent two or three days ago, would have lain heavily, almost as a personal calamity, upon the heart of every patriotic Oregonian, and the announcement that she has been floated, and is not seriously damaged, will rejoice all the public-spirited people of this state.—Telegram.

"Senator Hoar's loyalty to a party which he condemns indicate that he considers himself wedded to republicanism for better or worse and is faithful to his vows," says the St. Louis Republic. No; the old gentleman is in the situation of the cross old woman who scolds the members of her own family, but seriously objects to outsiders doing so.

One of our bright exchanges says: "What Oregon needs is the free and unlimited coinage of machine shops and factories. The raw material is already here."

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I saw a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child was entirely recovered. The child is now rugged and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail.—Mrs. Cornie Bauer, Breckenridge, Ohio. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

GOING EAST.

If you intend to take a trip East, see your ticket agent to route you via The Great Wabash, a modern and up-to-date railroad in every particular.

Through trains from Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha or St. Louis to New York and New England points. All trains run via Niagara Falls and every through train has free reclining chair cars, sleeping and dining cars.
