The Glacier says: It is rumored that the O. R. & N. Co. will take charge of Cloud Cap Inn next season, and make the same a great attraction for their tourist travel from the East. Additional hotel accommodations will be provided for at the Inn.

The Washington state board of grain commissioners met last Monday, at Tacoma, as required by law, and re-adopted the grades established last year, which are 58 pounds for No. 1, which is the standard grade; 56 for No. 2, and 54 for No. 3. Choice milling is 60½ pounds.

J. P. Weberg, of this city, has bargained for a stock ranch near Supplee, Grant county, with the intention of going into the sheep business from which he retired in comfortable circumstances some fourteen years ago. He will leave for his new home in two or three weeks.

The Astorian says surveyors are at work straightening out the curves on the I. R. & N. road from Ilwaco to Naheotta. It is the intention of the O. R. & N. to change the road from a narrow to a broad gauge during the coming winter, and to otherwise improve the road for the travel next season.

D. H. Clough, from a piece of ground 11x80 feet in size, sold 600 pounds of dry onions for which he received $8.00. He sold, besides, green onions to the value of $4, making a total of $12.00. This, he estimates, is at the rate of 19-20 pounds to the acre, valued at $403.25.—Hood River Glacier.

J. M. Benson, of Five Mile, brought into town this morning a box of peaches of almost uniform size, one of which measured 1½ inches in circumference. And the box, be it remembered, was only one of a back load of the same kind. THE CHRONICLE challenges the whole Oregon "footstool," with Washington thrown in, to beat this.

There will be services tomorrow at the Congregational church as usual. All the regular services, which were discontinued during the heated term, have been resumed. The pastor will preach both morning and evening. The public will observe that the time for the evening service is 7:30 instead of 8 o'clock. Morning subject, "For or Against." The evening topic is one that will be of interest to all. Dr. O. D. Doane will sing the offertory in the morning.

While some of us are shipping Gravenstein apples and realizing 75 cents a box in Portland, and think we are doing pretty well, thank you, D. H. Sears of the East Side is shipping Ben Davis apples at $1 a box, spot cash, in Hood River. He shipped 100 boxes of the much-abused Ben Davis to Dawson, for which he received $100. He is now filling an order for 50 boxes to go to China, and has still another order for 250 boxes for the Alaskan trade at $1 a box. What's the matter with the Ben Davis?—Hood River Glacier.

An old Dominican friar, who had served his church for forty years in the Philippines, was asked by his fellows to write a book describing the characteristics, habits and customs of the Filipino people. To this he agreed, with the proviso that no one should see his work until after his death. When he died in Manila this year the book was found among his effects. On the first page was the title and all the other 300 pages were blank except the last, on which was written: "This is all I know, after forty years' study of the Filipino people."

Yesterday's Telegram announced that Alice, queen of the carnival, and Bess, queen of the flora, with their maids of honor, would give a grand reception to their loyal subjects at 8 o'clock p. m. in the women's building at the Portland street fair. The royal train, with courtiers, cavaliers and court attendants, would arrive at the palace gates in a blaze of glory and be escorted under the Arc de Triumph and through the grand bazaars to the throne room in the women's building. That's all very fine; but what we folk up this way would like to know is, where does our "Queen" George A. Young, of the Royal Eastern Oregon Shepherd Dynasty, come in?

As the "Queen" Appeared.

Here is how the Astorian describes the figure the Dalles Elks cut in last Thursday's parade at Portland:

The most unique costumes were those worn by the Elks of The Dalles and consisted of suits of pure white wool made to represent sheep; the head of the wearer being encased in a wool cap with sheep's ears attached. The delegation pulled a wagon in which a fellow representing King Wool sat. He was adorned with populist whiskers and attended by two maids.

Wouldn't that confounding of sex and calling our Queen George "a fellow" with populist whiskers jar you, as it were. The description of our own Frank Egan, who didn't know the queen from Mother Eve, is better. "Our boys," says Frank, "had a big woman on a float, and she couldn't have been less than three yards wide."

Wild Creatures Tamed.

On the French-Glenn ranches in Harney county, deer and elk that were formerly wild have become tame and roam at will among the stock, and among the hay makers in hay mowing season. They come up like cattle among the men. As the long list of mowers drawn by teams cut the hay down in rows, these deer and elk caper back and forth and smell the new mown hay and follow the men. This has been brought about by a rule of the ranchers that prohibits the discharge of firearms and makes it a heavy penalty to kill or maim any of the wild or domesticated animals. The deer and elk have become tamer, and finally realizing that there was no danger, have practically become domesticated. They are a little "leary" of the stranger at first, but soon become acquainted and confident. There are as many as 200 deer in some of these herds. In winter when the snow is heavy on the ground these deer go into the foothills on the company's property and feed on the tender grass until the snow leaves the valley. They are very careful with their young. When in the hay fields in the spring they will leave dozens of their fawns in charge of one doe in some cove of timber or in the high grass and go browsing, but in case of disturbance they go to the rescue of the young with a lightning speed and fire in their sparkling eyes.
