

For President—WILLIAM M'KINLEY, of Ohio.

For Vice-President—THEODORE ROOSEVELT, of New York.

TRUE AS HOLY WRIT.

The declaration of independence belongs to no self-constituted set of men or political party.

The republican party can well resent the demagogic assumption of the demo-pops, that they hold a special guardianship over our charter of human liberty.

The people will learn that imperialism, as employed by the democrats, means that they would have the country shirk its duty.

The British correspondents are getting "sassy" because Uncle Sam refused to go to John Bull for his instructions in regard to China.

The democratic party is consistent in opposing the growth of the country, for it is on record as favoring the division of the country.

"If there is any one who believes the gold standard is a good thing, or that it must be maintained, I warn him not to cast his vote for me, because I promise him it will not be maintained in this country longer than I am able to get rid of it."

From the speech of William Jennings Bryan, delivered at Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 16, 1896.

The democratic editors will never forgive Secretary Hay for the success he had in handling the Chinese situation.

The political party that rejoices in the reverses of the troops over the country it purports to support is not to be trusted.

"Show me a man who really believes this country is in danger of imperialism and militarism," says Mr. Dunsmore.
