them that they could reproduce the destruction in Galveston, Texas, and show it as it appeared after the storm, showing wreckage in streets and demolished buildings, saying it would be shipped with haste, trying to put it on here. Men were on the spot in twenty-four hours after the storm to get it as it actually appeared. If received in time, it will be exhibited here in The Dalles and show you the condition the storm left Galveston in.

This exhibition will only be here a few days. Don't fail to see it and the work of the greatest inventor of the day, the crane in theaters of New York City.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

"Our Irish-American Cousin"
At the Vogt opera house tonight.

United Artisans are requested to be present tonight at the social meeting. Ice cream and cake.

Girl wanted to do general housework in a family of two; no children. May attend school or otherwise. s11-1w

Mrs. Phillips is prepared to furnish cut flowers and all kinds of floral designs on short notice. Phone number 307.

The funeral of the late Francis Ross, of this city, took place from the residence of Mrs. Maude Eddon this forenoon.

All members of the Degree of Honor are requested to attend the regular meeting tonight, as business of importance will be transacted.

Miss Pittman, one of Portland's most experienced and best trimmers, arrives this evening to be with Miss Haven during the millinery season.

The trial of Meade Hughes, who is confined in the county jail, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, has been postponed until Friday morning.

The board of fire delegates met last night in the recorder's office and, after transacting the usual routine business, granted an exemption certificate to J. P. McNerny.

Mrs. White, of Mosier, died at that place yesterday after a lingering illness and was buried today. She was aged about 50 years, and leaves a husband and three children.

The members of The Dalles M. E. church and the citizens of this town, generally, will be pleased to learn that the conference lately held in North Yakima has reappointed Rev. U. F. Hawk for another year's service at this place.

Remember the Oregon state fair opens next Monday, Sept. 17th, and will continue six days. It will be the biggest and best fair ever held on the grounds, and every farmer should make a strong effort to attend at least one day if not the whole week.

Grass Valley held its first city election last Monday, when the following officers were chosen: Mayor, C. W. Moore; aldermen, J. D. Wilcox, Alex. Scott, R. H. King, J. O. Elrod, G. B. Bourhill, J. Harvey Smith; recorder, W. E. Westerfield; treasurer, A. B. Croft; marshal, C. French.

Annual fall and winter opening of millinery will take place at the Campbell & Wilson millinery parlors Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 18th and 19th. Everyone cordially invited to call and inspect an elegant display of pattern hats, ladies' and children's trimmed hats, street hats and tam o' shanters. 12e-18

The marshal has a chain gang of seven drunks and hobos, including two Indians, working on the streets. They are today in charge of Frank Connelly. A couple of hobos arrested in the East End last night refused to work, denying the jurisdiction, as they put it, of Judge Gates' "hydrophobia court," and demanding a trial.

The Gamecock left this morning for Portland with a cargo of 4000 sacks of grain. On the way up yesterday she brought a party of emigrants, who were on the way from the Eugene neighborhood to the Grande Ronde valley. They had eight prairie schooners and twenty-two head of horses, and proceeded overland from here.

Messrs. Haight, Bolton and Kelsey, who were on the bonds of the subcontractor of the mail route between Heppner and Canyon City when the latter failed, and was compelled to abandon the contractor, have made a settlement with the original contractor, who has taken charge of the route and relieved the bondsmen of all further responsibility. It is understood their loss was not nearly so great as they, at one time, supposed it would be.

"Our Irish-American Cousin."

The above will be the title of the play at the Vogt tonight.

The audience last night was not so large as on Monday night, although "Suzes o' Tennessee" was produced in a more creditable manner than the performance of the night before. The characters were well handled, Effie Darling as "Suzes," Miron Liffingwell as "Dick Grafton," and Tom Welch as "Miggs" being the best. The specialty of Chas. Burch was the life of the performance.

As a popular priced organization the Crawford company ranks among the best that has ever played in The Dalles. The members of the company have found that by not speaking so loud and slower they are heard more distinctly from the front. This was noticed last night by the audience.

PEOPLE COMING AND GOING.

Miss Emma Bonney, of Tygh valley, is registered at the Umatilla House.

George Summers, the postmaster of Prineville, was in town last night on his way home from Portland.

Perry Reed, a prosperous stockman of the Hay Stack, Crook county, country, was in town today, accompanied by his wife and daughter. The party came here to purchase supplies.

James Frasier, a wealthy sheepman formerly of Sherman county, now of Yakima county, Wash., arrived here on the noon train from Portland, accompanied by his wife and children, and registered at the Umatilla House.

A HARVEST CARNIVAL ASSURED

It Was so Decided Last Night—No Effort Will Be Spared to Make It the Biggest Thing of the Kind Ever Seen in The Dalles.

The Dalles is to hold a harvest fair and carnival. This much is certain. The committee, appointed Monday night to confer with the citizens and come to a final decision, met in the council chambers last night and reported favorably.

R. B. Sinnott took the chair and announced that sufficient funds had been pledged, together with what might be reasonably expected from parties who had not yet been asked to subscribe, to make it certain that sufficient money could be raised to insure the success of the undertaking. He believed the fair would prove one of the most profitable ventures The Dalles has ever undertaken. It would attract thousands of people from the surrounding country who have not been able to take in the Portland carnival and who will not attend the fair at Pendleton. It would be worth to the business men of The Dalles many times its cost. This was the prevailing sentiment of the meeting.

The committee were in favor of having as many free entertainments as their means would afford, and it was determined to avoid the objections raised by many against the management of the Portland fair for allowing charges to be collected—however small each might be—at almost every turn. If we treat our visitors generously we will insure their friendship and appreciation, and even if it cost a little more at the time The Dalles will be the gainer in the long run.

On motion the chair appointed the following gentlemen to act with himself as an executive committee, with full power to do all that may be deemed necessary to promote the success of the undertaking: E. C. Pease, C. L. Phillips, Ben Wilson, Chas. Stephens.

The committee met again this morning and appointed a sub-committee of three to go down to Portland and see what can be done along the line of procuring entertainment and other attractions.

Caught the Wrong Man.

Constable Hill returned from La Grande this morning, whether he went Monday to bring here one George Macey, alias Bill Davis, who obtained $30 from Bob Hahn, of the California chop house, a few days ago on a forged check. Marshal Driver had supposed he had traced Macey to Arlington, and from there to Pendleton, and from Pendleton to Walla Walla, and from Walla Walla to La Grande, but events prove he must have been on the wrong scent. The man brought here by Mr. Hill is not the man wanted, and only faintly answers the description given of Macey. He gives his name as George Davis, and says he had just arrived at La Grande when arrested and had procured work with a telephone company. Macey was at least six feet in height and stoop shouldered. Davis is about 5 feet eight inches and as straight as an arrow. Macey was squint-eyed; Davis has a defect in one visual organ, which Deputy Sheriff Sexton, who is skilled in all matters pertaining to visual defects in horses, describes as "wall-eyed." Macey's mustache was "shaved off;" Davis has a light mustache and a beard of about a month's growth. Both men, however, had lost a finger, and it is presumed the authorities up at La Grande thought that was all the identity needed.

Davis claims mileage back to La Grande, and ought to get it. Bob Hahn is out the $30 he advanced on the check and $7.25 which he paid for telephone messages inquiring after Macey, and has not even the poor satisfaction of having the check, for that, being a forged instrument, is in the hands of the sheriff. Bob, however, has had some experience, the value of which has not yet been definitely determined.
