WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

"Dangers of a Great City"
At the Vogt opera house tonight.
Rev. Paul Kruger will preach in the Dalles Christian church next Sunday morning and evening.
Girl wanted to do general housework in a family of two; no children. May attend school or otherwise. #11-1w
Professor Sandvig has postponed the opening dance of the coming season till Saturday night September 22d. 14 2t
Mrs. Phillips is prepared to furnish cut flowers and all kinds of floral designs on short notice. Phone number 307. #10 1m
J. B. Eddy has retired from the Forest Grove Times, and the paper is to be continued by Geo. H. Himes and R. H. Pratt.
M. Fitzgerald, a prominent sheepman from the Mitchell country, is in the city looking after the sale of his wool. Just before he left home his neighbor, James Connelly, sold a bunch of 700 lambs to Duncan Chisholm for $2.10 a head.
President Mac Allister, of the Eastern Oregon District Agricultural Society has left at this office a number of copies of the premium list for the twelfth annual exhibition to be held at Antelope October 16th to 21st inclusive. Any person desiring a copy can obtain it here.
Mrs. C. A. Borders left at this office today two winter pairs that measure round the "waist" 11 1/2 and 12 1/4 inches respectively. They were the first fruit of a little tree growing in her lot on the bluff, and while yet immature were blown from the parent stem during yesterday's storm.
Annual fall and winter opening of millinery will take place at the Campbell & Wilson millinery parlors Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 18th and 19th. Everyone cordially invited to call and inspect an elegant display of pattern hats, ladies' and children's trimmed hats, street hats and tam o' shanters. 12s-18
Judge Thomas O'Day, of Portland, arrived in town today on the noon train to attend to some legal matters before Judge Bradshaw in relation to the proceedings instituted by D. O'Reilly against the Columbia Southern Railway Company. Judge O'Day was accompanied by his client, Mr. D. O'Reilly.
The Seattle Times says: "Black leg is becoming quite prevalent among Washington cattle. State Veterinary Surgeon Dr. L. B. Nelson and his assistants have vaccinated over 5000 head of cattle during the present year. The doctor and his corps have gone to Fairfield to examine cattle in that vicinity and to assist the owners in curing them.

The Glacier humbly acknowledges that The Dalles can beat Hood River this year on big peaches, but we are ahead on big apples. We ask the Chronicle editor to await reports from the Wasco county fruit exhibit at the Portland carnival and see if Hood River doesn't make the better showing.—Hood River Glacier.
A fruit tree propagator has at last produced a seedless apple, and the fruits have been seen by many interested in pomology, so that in a few years' time a good supply of these pipless apples will be found on the market, says the London Globe. It is said, too, that these apples are superior in flavor to the ordinary kinds. Already high prices are being paid for the trees, which for some time yet will be bought up by rich amateurs.
The Telegram says: "Baptist ministers of Portland are preparing to attend the Oregon state convention October 17-21, at The Dalles. The meetings will be held in the Calvary Baptist church. The ministerial conference will meet at 7:30 p. m., October 16th. Rev. Ray Palmer, of the Second Baptist church of this city, will deliver the address. The annual sermon will be preached October 17th by Rev. Dr. Alexander Blackburn.
Geologists assert that the island upon which Galveston is located is slowly sinking and that in a few hundred years it will be entirely submerged beneath the waters of the gulf. The recent fearful catastrophe which nearly destroyed the city is likely to be enough in itself to lower the value of insular and coast real estate in that part of the South, but when the assurance of coming permanent submersion is added, a prosperous future for Galveston seems impossible.
Hon. George J. Barrett, representative-elect for Wasco, Sherman, Gilliam, Grant and Wheeler counties, is laid up at his home in consequence of a kick he received from a horse whose hoof he was cleaning. The animal kicked Mr. Barrett in the right leg, which was badly cut, and in coming in violent collision with the side of the barn Mr. Barrett sustained severe scalp bruises. Although no bones were broken, a number of stitches had to be taken to repair the scalp wound and close up the cut in the leg.
Charles Craig was sentenced this morning in Justice Brownhill's court to a fine of $25 for an assault on the 10-year-old daughter of Mrs. Katie Fleck. The offence was committed a year and a half ago, and would have been overlooked by the mother of the child had not Craig attempted a similar assault a few days ago on a younger sister whom he met in the sand drift south of the mission gardens. The little one was on horseback and so broke away from him. Craig pleaded guilty, but tried to excuse himself on the ground of drunkenness.

The justice reprimanded the prisoner severely, and said his only regret was that he could not send him to the penitentiary for ten years. The small fine imposed was at the request of Mrs. Fleck, seconded by the prosecuting attorney.
J. B. McGrath, late owner of the Richmond stables in the East End, died Wednesday at the M. Cushing place of diabetes, aged about 46 years. The deceased came here about a year ago from Sherman county, where he formerly owned a fine farm and was well to do. He was a widower and leaves one son, who is a resident of this city. He was a man of generous impulses; too generous, alas, for his own good. When he came here he had in the neighborhood of $4000 in cash and notes. He was buried yesterday from the poor house and at the expense of the county.
C. C. McGowan, the canneryman, takes a hopeful view of the prospects for salmon fishing on the Columbia river, says the Astoria Budget. He does not fear extinction of the Chinook salmon, but feels confident that the rivers may be stocked through the agencies of hatcheries. "Last year was the only one in which any great number of young fish were turned loose," he said, "and it is too soon to judge the results. In 1899 there were 21,000,000 fry let loose in the Columbia and Willamette rivers by the fish hatcheries operating in Oregon and Washington. Previous to last year there were never more than 2,000,000 to 6,000,000, and yet we have ample evidence of the good work done by hatcheries. If only one-tenth of these fry return, it would give us a pack of 400,000 cases. I am very much in favor of establishing more hatcheries, as there appears to be plenty of money on hand to be used for that purpose. Oregon has made a good appropriation, and the fund derived from fishermen's licenses is quite a good one. I look for better packs from now on, year after year."

WASCO'S FINE EXHIBIT.
The Dalles Also Have Shown What This Region Will Produce in the Line of Fruit and Wool.
The Oregonian compliments Wasco county by publishing in today's paper a handsome picture of the county's fruit and wool exhibit. Speaking of the exhibit the Oregonian says:
"There is one spot in the fair that never fails to attract the careful attention of the passing throng. It is the Wasco county exhibit, in the southwest corner of the horticultural building, which was prepared by Cascade Lodge, N. 303, B. P. O. E., after designs furnished by George Orton, of Portland. It occupies three sections of the building, and contains a display of fruit and wool from The Dalles and an exhibit of the famous apples of Hood River. E. H. Merrill, of The Dalles, and Hon. E. L. Smith, of Hood River, are in charge and are occupied every minute in answering the questions of the curious.
In the center section is seen the extensive display that represents the great wool industry of Wasco county. Huge bales, containing over 400 pounds of snow-white wool, show the manner in which it is prepared for shipment to the woolen mills, while overhead of the entire exhibit is a canopy formed of alternate strips of the scoured and unscoured article. Fully a ton of wool was used in carrying out the design.
"The south section is given up to showing the elegant samples of fruit and vegetables that grow in such abundance around The Dalles. Artistically arranged in a semi-circle around the front are scores of large plates, every one of them being piled high with apples, pears, peaches and grapes. In the background are monster onions and egg-plants, and nearly every other form of toothsome vegetation that finds a home in a well-ordered garden. Nearer to the front and far more noticeable are some examples of what Wasco county can do in the way of raising gigantic squashes and water-melons—squashes that would furnish pie for a boarding-house table throughout the winter, and watermelons of such remarkable size and charming appearance that extra precautions are required to keep the crowds from breaking in and devouring them on the impulse of the moment. Monster bunches of grapes, whose weight is measured in pounds, depend from stout cords, and cause the eyes and mouths of the beholders to open with astonishment. Twenty-ounce Pippins, Alexanders, Gravensteins, Ben Davis and other big apples that have won Oregon an international name as a fruit-producing state, beautiful Hielop and Siberian crabs, Bartlett and Spanish Beauty pears, Albertina and Late Crawford peaches, and Chasler Rose grapes attract the admiration of all who pass that way.
"The growers of Hood River have filled the north section with what has often been spoken of as the best display of choice apples that has ever been seen here. They are shown by the box, and every specimen is the most perfect of its kind. There are the Arkansas

Blacks, the Gano, the yellow Newton Pippin—"the king of all apples"—the Gloria Mundi, the Wolf River, the Gravenstein, Hyde's King of the West, nearly all of which are large enough in size for three tiers to fill the ordinary bushel box. Besides the more than 30 of the most select varieties of well-known apples on exhibition, there is one box of Flemish Beauty pears that cannot be excelled for form and color. One of the oddities of the collection is the Flory or winter banana, a handsome apple, that has the fragrance and a slight taste of the banana of the tropics. This is frequently referred to as the most beautiful apple in the world.
"The whole exhibit is remarkable for its completeness, for the quality and quantity of its samples, and for the novel and artistic manner in which it has been prepared."
Mr. Dooley on the Campaign.
"No, 'tis no aisy job bein' a candy-date, an' 't'ud be no aisy job if th' game iv photygraphs was th' only wan th' candy-dates had to play. Willum Jennings Bryan is photygraphed smilin' back at his smilin' corn fields, in a pair of blue overalls with a scythe in his hand borried fr'm th' compny that's playin' 'The Ol' Homestead, an' the Lincoln Gran' Opry House. Th' nex' day Mack is seen mindin' a rastle chair with a monkey wrench. Bryin has a pitcher took in th' act iv puttin' on a shirt marked with a union label, an' they're another photygraph iv Mack carryin' a scuttle iv coal up th' cellar stairs. An' did ye ever notice how much th' candy-dates looks alike, an' how much both iv thim looks like Lydia Pinkham? Thim wonderful boardin' house smiles that our gifted leaders wears, did ye ever see onythin' so enthrancin'? Whin th' las' photygrapher has packed his arms homeward I can see th' great men retirin' to their rooms and lettin' their faces down fr a few minyts before puttin' thim up again in our papers fr th' nex' day display.

PEOPLE COMING AND GOING.

THE CHRONICLE acknowledges a pleasant call from Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Husband, of Mosier.
S. F. Blythe, editor of the Hood River Glacier, came up here on the Irada this morning and made THE CHRONICLE office a pleasant call.
Ted Hannefin, of Kent, Sherman county, has returned from spending a week at the St. Martin's springs, and is a guest of the Umatic House.
Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Hadley, who have spent the summer at Collins Landing, arrived on the boat last night on their way to their home at Moro.
Mrs. Lou Stevens, of Lone Rock, who is visiting in The Dalles is going to take her son to Salem to school in a few days, is at present visiting Mrs. Mat Shore on the bluff.
Rev. U. F. and Mrs. Hawk returned home last night, leaving their little son under the care of the Sisters at St. Vincent's hospital. The boy is getting along encouragingly, and it is hoped will soon be able to come home.
BORN.
Yesterday, Sept. 13th, at Grand Dalles, to Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Crawford, a son.
Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sickness of the stomach," says O. P. M. Holliday, of Deming, Ind. "His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoonful of water and he got better at once. Sold at Blakeley's drugstore.
"My baby was terribly sick with the diarrhoea," says J. H. Doak, Williams, Oregon. "We were unable to cure him with the doctor's assistance, and as a last resort we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I am happy to say it gave immediate relief and a complete cure." For sale at Blakeley's drug store.
A full line of boys' clothing at the New York Cash Store.

Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size, Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.
The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation. With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.
