PEASE & MAYS

Mays & Crowe

The only store in this city where the Genuine Imported Stransky-Steel Ware is sold.

A little higher in price, but outlasts a dozen pieces of so-called cheap enameled ware.

BEWARE!

Other wares look like it, but the genuine has the name Stransky-Steel Ware on each piece. Do not be deceived. First prize at 10 International Exhibitions. Highest award at World's Columbian Exhibition, Chicago. Preferred by the best cooking authorities certified by the most famous chemists for purity and durability. It is cheapest because.

BEST.

Remember this celebrated enameled ware is specially imported for and sold in this city exclusively by us.

It does not rust nor absorb grease, does not discolor nor catch inside, is not affected by acids in fruits or vegetables, will boil, stew, roast and bake without imparting flavor of previously cooked food and will last for years.

We caution the public against imitations.

PEOPLE COMING AND GOING.

Hon. F. N. Jones, of Sherar's Bridge, is the guest of the Umatilla House.

C. B. Durbin, of Antelope, was in town last night and left for his home on Antelope creek on the noon train.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Crandall left this morning overland for North Yakima, where Mr. Crandall goes on business, and his wife to take in the growing little city.

To Delinquent Taxpayers.

The County Court having authorized the immediate collection of delinquent taxes, I am compelled to comply with its request, and will therefore proceed at once to advertise. If you are delinquent you will save cost and expenses by immediate payment. All personal property unpaid will be attached at the cost and expense of the owner without further notice.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

New shoes for fall and winter just received at the New York Cash Store.

License to wed was issued yesterday by County Clerk Lake to Mark A. Cameron and Belle Day, of Cascade Locks.

Elmer O. Shepherd and Jennie A. Moore, both of Dufur, were united in marriage at that place Saturday, the 22d inst., Rev. W. C. Smith officiating.

A Yellowstone county man in Montana, who sold a herd of cattle the other day gave as his reason that the cows were growing long woolly hair, and this was a sure indication of a hard winter.

Nearly, if not quite, 20,000 bushels of wheat were received at the warehouses in the East End yesterday. Hauling has just commenced in good earnest and the average receipts for the next three or four weeks will fall little short of 10,000 bushels a day.

During the week ending last night County Clerk Lake issued seven marriage licenses, or one a day. Mr. Lake thinks this beats the record. A sour old bachelor suggests that this abnormal mating as the winter frosts approach indicates a hard winter.

John Little, who has been in town for some time looking after the sale of his wool, left for his home at Antelope on the noon train. Like many other flockmasters Mr. Little prefers to bank on McKinley's election and better prices as the natural result than sell at present prices.

The plans for the buildings for the accommodation of the coming street fair have all been drawn and placed in the hands of builders who will submit their bids some time tomorrow. As soon as these preliminaries are out of the way work will commence on the structures and be rushed to completion as fast as men and money can do it.

Mr. Hoering, who owns the old Horn vineyard on Mill creek, brought to the Carnaby market this morning a bunch of Tokay grapes that weighed 3 3/4 pounds. The bunch was simply a part of Mr. Hoering's usual morning delivery and THE CHRONICLE doubts if the lot from which it was taken could be beaten for size and flavor on the American continent.

It is now understood, said the Harney County News, that the Willamette Valley & Cascade Mountain Wagon Road Company are about to change its policy and place the entire grant on the market at an early day, and will sell any quantity of land desired. Many parties have already filed their applications through Gowan & Cornish, attorneys for the company, who are authorized to receive them. The applicant has preference to purchase in final adjustment or sale.

The executive committee of The Dalles street fair and harvest carnival met last night and appointed the following committees: On fish exhibit, Frank Seufert; wool, J. M. Russell and Ed Williams; mineral and cereal, N. Wheelton and G. T. Parr; fruit, E. Schanno, R. H. Webber and E. L. Smith; parade, C. W. Dietzel, F. S. Gunning and G. E. Bartell.

A Trout Lake, Wash., cattleman, while in town the other day, remarked that if he imagined for a moment that Bryan was going to be elected he would dispose of the last hoof in his possession and thus get prepared for the business depression and fall in prices that he is certain would inevitably result. There is any number of stockmen that feel the same way.

Hudson & Brownhill, the leading real estate dealers, can accommodate you in anything that you desire in their line. They have city property, improved and unimproved, ranging in price from $50 to $3000. They can sell you a farm any size you want, from one acre to a section. If you have not sufficient money to pay the full purchase price, they will loan it to you at a reasonable rate of interest.

A crowded and very appreciative house greeted the Macey Comedy Company last night at the Vogt opera house, in "A Circus Girl." The entire cast was excellent but Mr. R. A. Graham deserves special mention for his very excellent presentation of Arthur Hummingtop, and Miss Maud Sutton for her able and pleasing rendering of "Rose Columbia." Tonight the company presents "An American in Cuba" and their excellent work last night ought to insure them a full house.

The marriage of Mr. M. Fitzgerald, a wealthy sheepman of Wheeler county, to Miss Evelyn Maddron, of this city, was celebrated in the Christian church last night in the presence of a church full of friends and acquaintances of the bride and bridegroom. Elder Kruger, pastor of the church, officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald left this afternoon for their home near Mitchell, where they will stop for a few days and then go on a wedding trip to the bridegroom's old home in Tennessee.

From Leon W. Curtiss, who came across the river this afternoon, we learn that his father A. H. Curtiss, of the Diamond Flouring Mills, who was severely injured a few weeks ago by falling to the ground on his head from a scaffold at the back of the mills, is improving, although, as was expected from the severe nature of his injuries, quite slowly. He is able to walk a little with the help of a cane and the effects of the injury done to his head seem to be slowly passing away.

Orchardists in Wasco county lose 80 per cent of their product this bountiful harvest for want of purchasers, even at bankrupt prices. We have seen hundreds of tons rotting under the trees, and carloads of delicious melons going to waste that could not be given away. What's the matter with The Dalles folk that they don't awaken to a realization of the pressing needs of a few canneries to co-operate with the "man behind the hoe?" Shame!—D. C. Ireland in Observer.

Workmen engaged in clearing a lot in Seattle Friday uncovered a loaded six-inch shell, with the fuse attached and unburned. According to Secretary T. W. Prosch, of the chamber of commerce, it is evident that this shell has been lying where it was found for nearly half a century, his opinion being that it had been fired on the memorable January 14, 1856, when, as he says, "the United States gunboat Decatur lay in the harbor and all day long fired solid shot all over the entire townsite to disperse the large bodies of Indians."

A plumber who was sent to the house of a stockbroker to execute some repairs, was taken by the butler into the dining room and was beginning his work, when the lady of the house entered. "John," said she, with a suspicious glance towards the plumber, "remove the silver from the sideboard and lock it up at once." But the man of lead was in no wise disconcerted. "Tom," said he to his apprentice, who accompanied him, "take my watch and chain and these coppers home to my missus at once. There seems to be dishonest people about this house."

In a little cobbler's shop of this city, where gentlemen of leisure often congregate to discuss politics and religion, there met, the other day five persons. While talking over the political issues of the hour an expression of presidential preference was asked, and it was found that four of the five had voted for Bryan four years ago, but would vote for McKinley this time. The fifth was an old soldier, who always votes as he shot. If this is a sample of the way Bryan's former Oregon friends are going to treat him in November, Oregon ought to give the republican ticket 20,000 majority.

Eighteen men, aided by the fastest mailing appliances, are kept on a rush every month getting the Ladies Home Journal off to its subscribers. The first shipments are started about the middle of each month, and from that time until the 25th the magazines pour out of the Journal's publishing office by the two-horse-dray load. On the 25th of each month every Journal has reached its destination, and work in the mailing department slackens for a few days. Some idea of the tremendous size of the Journal's subscription list may be gained when it is known that forty tons of mailing type are required to set up the names of subscribers. There are three-quarters of a ton of each numeral, and it requires 20,000 galleys to accommodate the subscribers' names in type. This stock would equip six or eight large daily newspapers. As many as sixty-five compositors are employed setting the names of the Journal's subscribers in type—printers enough to set the type for the biggest metropolitan daily newspaper. The expenses for postage paid by the Journal approximate $75,000 a year.

"I want a McKinley button," said a familiar voice the other day to the CHRONICLE man, who looked up and saw before him a man that voted for Bryan and free silver four years ago; who voted the democratic ticket in '98 and 1900; who, in fact, had been born and bred a democrat and had never voted any other ticket in all his life. "What do you want with a McKinley button?" was asked. "I want to wear it," was the answer, "because I mean to vote for McKinley. I have played the fool long enough. A vote for Bryan is a vote to take the bread and butter out of the mouths of my wife and babies. Four years ago, when I voted for Bryan, I could with difficulty find work or wages sufficient to keep my wife and little ones from starving. Now I have constant employment at good wages and I am going to vote to let well enough alone." He got a McKinley button and is wearing it.

The Ella Lark-Klein concert, given last night at the Baldwin, will rank in the memory of those who were present, as one of the most delightful entertainments ever given in this city. Mrs. Klein was most ably supported by Mr. William Birgfeld, Miss Alma Schmidt and Miss Sampson. Mrs. Klein generously responded to numerous encores with "The Last Rose of Summer," "One Heart's Enough for Me," "Sing, Smile, Slumber" (Jullaby) and " 'Twas Within a Mile of Edinboro Town." Mrs. Klein's rendering of these old-time songs was surpassingly sweet. It even surpassed the expectation of an audience whose expectation ran high. The CHRONICLE man makes no pretension to musical criticism; he only knows when he is pleased, and to say that he was delighted is the highest testimony he could pay to this talented lady. It is fairly due to Miss Myrtle Michell and Miss Elizabeth Bonn to say that their duet, "O, That We Two Were Maying," richly deserved the hearty encore it received.

Millinery Opening.

Miss Haven, successor to Mrs. C. L. Phillips, announces her fall millinery opening of French pattern and house-trimmed hats on Wednesday, Thursday Friday and Saturday, Sept. 26, 27, 28, when the most authentic styles in new and novel millinery will be displayed. A new shipment of ready-to-wear street hats just arrived.

"THEY'RE ALL COMIN'."

You ought to see the letters I'm gettin' here of late. Sometimes there's a dozen, An' sometimes only eight, Relatin' to the Street Fair, Which I writ some lines about, An' what the bloomin' management Had printed an' sent out.

They're comin' from all over, The North, East, South an' West, An' I'm that busy answerin' 'em, That I don't git any rest. One feller says: says he: "Dear Rog, I've read them lines you writ About that Street Fair bizness An' I most nigh had a fit."

"I've bin a wunderin' what to do When wurk was done this fall, So Mandy an' I decided To take in yur Carny vall. We're goin' to fetch the children, An' saller's feller's comin' too. We'll be there when ye open, An' we'll stay till ye git through."

"We're a goin' to tell the nabers That ye want 'em all to cum, We'll tell 'em what ye writ us 'Bout makin' the ole town hum, So, Rog, jes watch out fer us Fer we're comin', sun or rane, An' say, I'll git shut of Mandy, An' I'll help ye raise Ole Cane."
