"Wool City Special."

You will find the new paper advertised to arrive today, enclosed in THE CHRONICLE. It will bear the closest reading, for it means much to you; that is, if $100 or so is worth anything to you. The introductory sale the Eilers Piano House have inaugurated today at Jacobson's Book & Music Co's store is a bona fide method of introducing formally their line of high grade pianos—the Weber, Kimball and Chickering—to the citizens of The Dalles. Rainy, though it is, they announce four piano sales today; tomorrow they expect to get six more sales, as they know of two more sure. The fact of it is, the people here can not afford to miss this opportunity of getting a high grade piano at cost. Be sure and call at the store this evening or tomorrow and if the Eilers Piano House representatives do not show to your complete satisfaction that they are really selling a piano usually sold for $400, for $280, cold facts will in your case have been in vain. Read the "Special" carefully; it has a twofold mission: You make money now; the Eilers Piano House will make it later on.

Tomorrow evening's CHRONICLE will contain the names of parties sold to today, to any of whom the Eilers Piano House will gladly refer. Remember the place—Jacobson's Book & Music Store.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Call on Mrs. Morgan for art embroideries, also decorative work in oil and water colors. 2-6c

The W. C. T. U. of this city will meet in the Christian church tomorrow (Friday) afternoon at 2 o'clock.

One hour's instruction given with every pillow purchased this week at Mrs. Morgan's. 2-6c

A marriage license was issued this morning, by County Clerk A. E. Lake, to Guy T. Browman and Gertrude Fuller, of Antelope.

Congressman W. L. Jones will address the citizens of Klickitat county at armory hall, Goldendale, Saturday evening, Oct. 6th.

Mrs. Klein is said to be generous in answering encores, and always gives some familiar air, which is much appreciated, as will be the case at tomorrow night's concert.

The members of Columbia Lodge I. O. O. F. of this city, will visit their brethren at Moro, Sherman county, next Saturday night when special work in all the degrees will take place. A special train will leave The Dalles for Moro at 5 o'clock p. m. Saturday.

Do you want to buy an elegant little home at your own figure? We have a modern cottage and two lots, convenient to Dalles High school, that must be sold at some price. We also have two nice residence properties for rent at reasonable rates. Call on or address Hudson & Brownhill.

The school superintendent of Klickitat county says he has been unable to obtain a sufficient number of teachers for his county and is about half a dozen short. Unemployed teachers will take notice and govern themselves accordingly. They should address Professor Colburn, Goldendale.

The Pendleton East Oregonian says quite a number of young men from Pendleton have gone to The Dalles during the past few months, including Frank Murphy, Elmer Turner, Herman Peters, Jake Welch, Will Dupuis and Jake Marin. The Dalles fair will attract a good attendance from Pendleton.

The drowsy autumn weather again affected Saint Peter, and, as he nodded last evening, a little angel of the female persuasion crept through the celestial gate and slid down on a sunbeam to the house of John Panek, the Dalles merchant tailor and president of the Bohemian club, where it is going to stay for all time. When John was asked how many accidents of this kind had happened him he scratched his head and said: "I guess about six."

The annual meeting of the National Woolgrowers' Association is announced for January 19th. It will be held at Salt Lake City. Pendleton will get the annual meeting of the Pacific Northwest Association, which will be held the first Tuesday in March. As matters of importance to the sheep industry are to come up at both of these meetings, they will no doubt be well attended by Oregon sheepmen.

The Antelope Republican says, Chas. Butler, the stock buyer, was in that town Friday and Saturday. He bought 140 head of beef cattle from Bolter, B. Cram, A. J. Friday and Sam Douthitt. He paid $3.10 for cows and $3.65 for steers. The cattle averaged over $42 per head delivered in Shaniko. Mr. Butler, not being able to make rates to suit him with the S. P., drove them overland to The Dalles.

The members of the committee on amateur photography for The Dalles street fair and carnival are very anxious that every person interested in this fascinating work should bring forward specimens of their pictures, be they many or few, but the more the better. Owing to unforeseen obstacles the committee have been unable to canvass the town and country as they would have wished, but still they hope to have much help from friends who, like themselves, desire to make a good showing.

If you are thinking of buying an umbrella, you should drop in at A. M. Williams & Co.'s and look over their new line. All the newest styles of handles, including some very odd designs finished in pearl, silver and gold, are shown in choice varieties. In addition to the finest qualities they are showing a well assorted line of cheaper umbrellas as well, ranging in price from 50 cents up. Those who have a good umbrella which only needs re-covering to make it as good as new, will be glad to learn that A. M. Williams & Co. have in stock a full line of covers, which they adjust without extra charge.

J. Leland Henderson, the Hood River attorney, yesterday mailed to the county clerk a plat of Wacoma and a re plat of South Wacoma that measures about four feet square, with the request that it be placed on record. As the record books measure about 14x24 inches to the page the county clerk very naturally informed Mr. Henderson that the only way a facsimile record of Wacoma could be made was by nailing the original plat on the side wall of the court house; but as "the man who owns the court house" would probably object it was suggested that it was probably best to reduce the plat to the limits of the record books. And it was so ordered.

An item in a recent issue of the Minneapolis, Minn., Journal states that in two weeks of September 100 carloads of fruit has been received in that city. Of this amount sixty carloads had come from Oregon and Washington and forty from Michigan, Indiana and Illinois.

It is such facts as these that indicate in a practical way the wonderful natural resources of Oregon. A gentleman, who had recently come to Portland from Minneapolis, informs the Telegram that Oregon apples sell readily in the latter city at $2 and $2.50 per box, and that no better fruit is seen there than that which comes from this state.

With its distinct air of originality, magnificent scenic environments and presented by a good company, the "King of the Opium Ring" will undoubtedly meet with the same phenomenal success at the Vogt opera house on Wednesday night next that attends its presentation in other cities. The play, based as it is on the real Chinatown of the country, and the way one thrill follows another, is enough to satisfy all who crave for sensations. There are so many thrills that it necessitates the work of no less than four heroes to meet the emergencies and foil the machinations of the villain who attempt to make away with an American girl through the medium of opium. There is so much in the play that is slightly and picturesque, so much that is novel, amusing and instructive, such rapid movement, so generous a provision of unquestionable strong acting, that one may venture upon emphasis in proclaiming its merits. The "King of the Opium Ring" is a welcome relief from the marring monotony of the brand of "London thriller," with which the popular priced American theaters have long been overloaded.

HIS CREDITORS SATISFIED.

Paul Mohr Agrees to Raise $200,000 in Ninety Days.

According to the Telegram Paul Mohr promises to raise $200,000 with which to pay his creditors their dues and resume work on the portage road at the Dalles within ninety days. This promise was made at the creditors' meeting held in the chamber of commerce building in Portland yesterday. All the creditors present agreed to give Mr. Mohr the time he stipulated for raising the money. The representations he made to them seemed to satisfy them that the money would be forthcoming. His confident manner, together with facts which he submitted, seemed sufficient proof that he will succeed in raising the amount.

It is understood the money will be furnished by New York parties. The deal is now being negotiated. Representatives of these capitalists, who, it is thought, may be identified with the Northern Pacific, have been looking the property over and are reported as being satisfied. Several creditors were seen and they said they did not have an idea of where Mr. Mohr expected to get the money and did not care if it came from the North Pole, so long as it was raised. What they are most interested in is being paid for the material and labor furnished by them towards the road's construction.

If the negotiations are successful and it turns out that the purchaser is the Northern Pacific, it will be good evidence that that road purpose to build down the north bank of the Columbia. In that event the road would be a link in a railway line, instead of a steamboat line as originally intended. However, speculation regarding the future of the road is premature, as all depends upon the successful issue of the negotiations now under way.

Elder Kruger's Reply to Rhoades.

THE DALLES, Oct. 3, 1900.

EDITOR DALLES CHRONICLE:
 DEAR SIR:—In your paper of the 31 inst. appears my reply as quoted by the Portland Oregonian regarding the statement of J. S. Rhoades written to said paper from Spokane, when in reality J. S. Rhoades' home is at Huntville, and he is pastor of the U. B. church at that place.

I want to thank you for the stand you took in this matter in waiting to hear the other side as well. It is a fact that whenever a report is circulated on a minister of the gospel, no matter how false, there are always people ready to believe it, and to some it is a sweet morsel. And this also holds good with some newspapers. I may state here that the Oregonian did not publish my reply in full. However, I am ready to drop the matter, not that I cannot prove every statement I have made, but simply because it would help Christianity very little and my aim and object in life is to do all I can to aid the cause that will make my fellowman better. The whole sum and substance of the attack of Mr. J. S. Rhoades upon me is stated briefly:

First, my stand against a part of the board of Huntville Seminary, in allowing a man to teach whose breath was at all times full of whiskey, and who would send the pupils to get whiskey for him.

Second, Mr. J. S. Rhoades being a bitter enemy against the secret society fought me on that issue. I myself being a member of the A. O. U. W. as well as a member of the order of Washington, naturally called down upon me the wrath of the gentleman, and being away from Huntville he begins to attack me. I lived at Huntville for over a year and nothing was said against me, but no sooner had I left said place than the dogs begin to bark and a sad bark it is.

I invite all and every one of the people of The Dalles to come out to our services next Lords day and evening.

PAUL KRUGER.

THE NEW RAIN-COAT.

Unlike the old-time mackintosh, there is no rubber used in the construction of the cloth. It is perfectly odorless, and use nor abuse, heat, cold nor age will destroy nor impair their water-proof quality.

The cravenette Raglan rain-coat is the most popular because this style overgarment is just now so fashionable. It is made in olive, tan, brown, cambridge and oxford gray cravenette cloths, and those that are sold by A. M. Williams & Co. are the best tailored garments that can possibly be made.

The Raglan can also be worn in fine weather, as it looks no different than a swell Raglan overcoat.

Woodmen of the World, Attention!

There will be a special meeting held tonight in T. Brownhill's office, opposite the land office, at 8 p. m., for the purpose of arranging a float or something suitable for the parade next week. All members are requested to be present.
