

A BIG SALE OF STAR FEED MILLS.

During the Street Fair and Carnival we are going to offer the greatest bargains in Grinding Machinery ever offered in the State of Oregon. We want every farmer to have a Star Feed Mill, because it will help to pay your taxes; it will save you time; it will make your old horse fatter; it will please your wife to get cracked grain for her chickens; and this is a sure way of getting it at a sacrifice, for we are positively going to close out the mills now on hand at ACTUAL COST. A change in the business compels us to do this, and now is the time for you to reap the benefit. For further particulars inquire or write to

TRUSTS IN POLITICS.

A writer in the New York Sun gives out the following sensible remarks on the illogical and thoroughly demagogical way business combinations are treated in the United States, as contrasted with the way they are treated in the countries of Europe. The illogical attacks of Mr. Bryan and his party upon business combinations astonish the nations of Europe. Their experience with trusts has extended over a far longer period than ours, but they are not accustomed to a demagogical treatment of the question. These combinations flourished in all the great trading countries of continental Europe long before America knew them because the conditions that made them desirable existed in Europe long before they appeared in the western world.

But European demagogues have not succeeded in dragging trusts into politics as has been done in this country. Even in Austria-Hungary, where there has been some sort of organization against business combinations, the people will not follow the lead of the anti-trust agitators. The reason for this is Austria-Hungary as in Germany is, as Consul-General Mason writes from Berlin, because trusts are regarded by the people as giving steadiness and regularity to business and as necessary under conditions that tend to stimulate fierce and reckless competition which is ruinous alike both to the selling and buying public.

The European nations regard trusts as a purely business matter, serving legitimate purposes and subject to regulation by law so that the interests of all may be conserved. Trusts, both in Europe and America, acquire and retain a large volume of trade only by the merits and cheapness of their products.

Our democratic friends themselves have repeatedly defined and indorsed those views on trusts that are held by intelligent men the world over. The Hon. B. T. Clayton, democratic congressman from Brooklyn, for example, said in the house last winter: "I would not advocate or assist in passing any law that would injure legitimate business or prevent combinations, whether of men or of capital, for honest and proper purposes. We must protect capital when used to develop our resources, to establish and carry on our manufacturing establishments, our railroads, our various industrial enterprises, and our commercial business. It is only necessary that laws should be passed to prevent the abuse of the power that comes from the combination of large interests and to remedy those evils that now exist."

This is a fair statement of the views and policy not only of the republican party, but of the great business and commercial interests on both sides of the ocean.

Capt. Ben Tillman's tongue has not lost its cunning and it has been putting in some of its finest licks in Missouri. At Trenton in that state he said that democratic senators were bought to vote for the ratification of the treaty of Paris and that "the devil would roast them for it in the next world." Meanwhile the captain is roasting them in this. He said that "the pension department is a rat hole into which millions of dollars are annually poured and wasted," and he made this graceful appeal to the foreign-born voters: "There is one sentiment which is ground into my very bones and mixed with the lime, America for the Americans and to hell with all others." Capt. Ben must be making votes, but perhaps he is not making them for his own side.
