CAMPAIGN LIES.

Roosevelt Denounced Statements Being Circulated in Kansas.

The following telegraphic correspondence between Secretary Perry S. Heath, of the national republican committee, and Governor Theodore Roosevelt was given out today at republican national headquarters:

"Chicago, Ill.—Theodore Roosevelt: The following matter is being widely circulated on handbills in Kansas and other states:

"Governor Roosevelt said in a speech in Cooper Institute, in New York City, in 1896: 'The way to get rid of Bryanism and its child-labor troubles is to stand it up against the wall and shoot it to death,' and in a speech delivered in Chicago, just after the strike: 'Any person who would join a strike, or go near one, ought to be shot.' Will a man who earns his bread by labor support the Roosevelt ticket?"

"Please wire me today, if possible, a specific answer to the above, so that I may repeat it by wire wherever it is being read."
—PERRY S. HEATH.

"Elizabeth, Ky.—Perry S. Heath, Secretary Republican National Committee, Chicago: Both statements are absolute lies, without one particle of foundation of any sort, character or description. I never said anything remotely resembling either statement in Chicago or in Cooper Institute, or anywhere else. If responsible people circulated them, I would suggest a suit for criminal libel. I explicitly denied them in my Kansas City speech. They are slanderous lies, which could only be circulated by scoundrels, and which were known to be lies by the people who invented them and the people who circulated them."
—THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

New shoes for fall and winter just received at the New York Cash Store.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to J. E. Ramus and Annie Hutson, both of Boyd.

The O. R. & N. Co. have entered suit against W. T. McClure for the condemnation of land for right of way through the McClure premises near Mosier.

Yesterday afternoon Dr. Eshelman, assisted by Miss Taliaferro, performed an operation upon Miss Gertrude Egbert of this city. The patient is doing well this morning.

The lumber used to fence the carnival grounds and for the construction of the booth of the executive committee was sold to A. R. Thompson last night at $4.50 a thousand.

The quarantine for scarlet fever has been raised from the residence of C. W. Dietzel, and after a siege of two weeks Mr. Dietzel appeared on the streets for the first time today.

We regret to learn that L. J. Davenport had his left arm fractured in a runaway last Friday, besides sustaining painful bruises about the head. He is under the care of Dr. Watts, of Hood River.

The work of laying the new water main across Mill creek to "McGinty avenue" is finished and another connecting main is being laid on Washington street between Fifth street and the alley south of Fifth.

Dr. Leavens, of Cascade Locks, has retired from business and sold out his stock in trade to Ash & Black of that place. The doctor deserves the rest that should follow a long and honorable business career.

The opening services of the Oregon Baptist State Convention will be held at the Calvary Baptist church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. Ray Palmer, of Portland, will preach. About sixty delegates will arrive on the Regulator this evening.

Sunday night some parties, apparently out of wanton mischief, broke open the large doors of the side entrance of the Vogt opera house, using force sufficient to smash the heavy iron hinges. Some glass was smashed in another part of the building but nothing is known to have been carried off.

Foley Bros. & Larsen are using on the O. R. & N. improvements near Mosier a eighty-horse power donkey engine and an endless cable invention of Pat Welch in the work of handling dirt for the grading. The invention handles five cars, and has proved a great saver of time and labor.

A. M. Stringer, who is a partner in the distillery soon to be started at the Mission gardens, says the company has a quantity of prunes now in the mash and the work of distilling will commence within the next ten days.

Real estate men claim that there is a great demand for residence property in this city, a demand far exceeding the supply. And this is in spite of the fact that a considerable number of houses were built during the summer and a considerable number is in course of erection now. There is a real lack of houses that rent at from $15 to $25.

Report has it that Curg Cates has struck it rich down at the locks. Besides a profitable drug business at the locks he acquired timber lands in the neighborhood of Stevenson that he lately refused an offer of $12,000 for, believing that he can get more out of the lands by holding on to them and selling the timber. He contracted with Morse Brothers to get out logs and has 250,000 feet at this time in the Columbia river.

Rumor has it that the O. R. & N. Co. have in contemplation the straightening of the road bed between here and Crater's Point, so as to do away with the big curve near the Anderson place. The change contemplates the track running through the company's yards and making as straight a line as possible for the Point. It is said the work will commence next spring, or as soon as the improvements now in progress near Mosier are completed.

General Clark E. Carr, who speaks here tomorrow night, addressed an immense audience at Ashland last night. A dispatch to the Oregonian says the general's hearers were more than delighted with his shrewd and homely wit and his telling points in support of McKinley and prosperity rule. He covered most of the important questions of the campaign, including militarism and imperialism as advanced by the Bryan party; discussed in a practical style the subjects of trusts and closed his address with a tribute to the possibilities opened up to the Pacific states by the latest expansion of the United States.

Today's Oregonian says that negotiations for an amicable adjustment of the affairs of the Central Navigation & Construction Company have failed, and Paul F. Mohr's transportation enterprise is again embarrassed. The construction company has failed to perform its contract with the parent corporation. Mr. Mohr says he expects to refinance the construction company in five or six weeks—after the election shall be settled—and then all will move forward serenely again. The trouble comes, he says, from the fact that the company had not sufficient capital to carry through the work it undertook. Its authorized capital was only $250,000. Mr. Mohr proposes to file supplementary articles increasing this capitalization to about $450,000, which, he says, will be ample for all the purposes in view.

Wedding Bells.

The marriage of Mr. Harday Allen and Miss Daisy Davidson was celebrated at high noon last Sunday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davidson, of Endersby, Rev. Mr. Smith of Dufur officiating. The bridegroom is a prosperous young stockman of the Matola, Crook county, and a former resident of Fairfield, this county.

The marriage was celebrated in the presence of about thirty friends and relatives who subsequently sat down to an elegant wedding dinner. On account of the high esteem in which the young couple are regarded in the neighborhood where they both grew up from childhood, the wedding presents were both numerous and valuable, many of them of such a character as indicated that the donors did not want to be soon forgotten. After spending a delightful afternoon with the young couple most of the guests retired to make room for another crowd of young folks who wished to offer their congratulations and say good-bye to Mr. and Mrs. Allen, in view of their leaving for their new home in Crook county.

PEOPLE COMING AND GOING.

R. W. Osborn, manager of the Pennsylvania Fire Insurance Company, and an old-time friend of T. A. Hudson, is in the city on a friendly visit.

Deputy Sheriff E. B. Wood, who has been through Hood River, Mosier and Cascade Locks collecting personal property county tax, left this morning on the same business for the regions south of The Dalles as far as Antelope.

Roe Heisler came in from Dufur this morning to take home his son who, with Mrs. Heisler, has been here for the past month while receiving medical treatment for stomach troubles from Dr. Geisendorfer. The young man returned home much improved.

TIMES-MOUNTAINEER SCORED.

Veteran of the Civil War Thinks Bryan and His Friends Are as Bad as Vandringham.

THE DALLES, Oct. 14, 1900.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:

SIR:—In the Mountaineer of October 11th I find under the heading "Patriotism and Politics" an editorial in which is included an alleged speech by a certain Earl Sanders at the meeting of veterans in Portland. This article is so full of downright misstatements (I will not say falsehoods) that it can hardly be overlooked by any person who had any part in the meeting held here on the 8th. The idea that parties "wearing the collar of Mr. Hanna" (or Mr. Bryan either) could "whip into line" any single individual member of that meeting is an insult to every soldier in the land. It is abominably false, and I think the editor of the Mountaineer entirely forgot the dignity of his position when he gave utterance to such a sentiment.

The soldiers themselves called that meeting and conducted it also. The resolutions were their own, dictated by no outside influence. Many of us served through the entire civil war and have for thirty-five years since that time fought the battles of civil life. We have learned enough by all this experience to enable us to do our own thinking. We are not in the habit of asking advice as to our political views. If ever we are obliged to do so, we will consult no green school boys or ex-colonels who have given up the uniform of Uncle Sam and retired to civil life seemingly for the express purpose of degrading the service in which they enlisted and vilifying the government under which they served.

The editor of the Mountaineer describes Mr. Earl Sanders as one whose "patriotism is not to be questioned." I do not wish to question the patriotism of Mr. Sanders, nor of Mr. Bryan; but had I enlisted to uphold the government in a just war, which we could not avoid, worn the uniform and aided in acquiring for the union, as a result of that war, a great and rich territory, which will for all time be extremely valuable to us, I would call it a curious kind of patriotism that would allow me, after this was accomplished, to come home, take off the uniform and start out on a crusade to undo all that had been gained; say to our soldiers yet in the field "Take down the flag; you are working and fighting in a bad cause; retreat from the Philippine islands and give it all up to a handful of Tagals. Aguinaldo and Mr. Bryan are not satisfied with what you are doing. Gather together the bones of your dead comrades, collect your sick and wounded, and come home, leaving all the fruit of your hardship and valor in the field."

Mr. Editor, this may be patriotism, but it is badly diluted with ingredients of a much cheaper commodity. A person holding such ideas and trying to instill them into the minds of his neighbors may be patriotic, but he is in great danger of being mistaken for a lunatic. In 1863-64 we had a number of people in the United States who said "The war is a failure." They tried every means to hamper the government, to aid our enemies, to discourage our soldiers in the field and our citizens at home. Vandringham, the most prominent and active of this party of "patriots," was finally sent across the border into the rebel lines, but the latter looked upon him as a traitor, had no use for him and refused to receive him. This man, Vandringham, and his aids never talked nor wrote more treasonably about the civil war and the administration of President Lincoln than Mr. Bryan and his friends have about the Spanish war and the administration of McKinley. I do not wish to denounce any person for his political opinion, but in case of war or any great danger to our government, it is our duty to stay with and uphold that government as it is constituted, no matter what party is in power. This is patriotism. Any other cause will not stand criticism. If the editor of the Mountaineer and Mr. Sanders can elect Mr. Bryan, the old veterans will still cheer for the flag. My personal opinion, however, is that some of our school boys will be in danger of dying of old age before Mr. Bryan enters the white house.
