

The President - WILLIAM MCKINLEY, at Wash.

The Vice-President - THEODORE ROOSEVELT, at New York.

INFANTS BEHOLD US DEANS.

The supreme court of the United States in the well-known Knapp case, decided in effect that congress has no power to control manufacture or production except as they become a part of interstate commerce.

Knowing this, as every well-informed person ought to know it, the Republicans at the last session of congress, possessed an opportunity to the constitution giving congress power to define, regulate, prohibit or dissolve trusts, monopolies or combinations, whether existing in the form of corporations or otherwise.

of the so-called trusts have been important factors in the country's material advancement. It believes that many of the so-called trusts have unmeasured hundreds of commodities that enter into every day consumption and use, while the wages of the labor that produced these commodities have been increased rather than diminished.

This may be all wrong and wicked, according to the Bryanite code of ethics, but we cannot help it. We are built that way and have no desire to be reconstructed. We believe as firmly in the rights of capital as we do in the rights of labor and, finally, we believe that the country has no greater enemies today than the men who are holding every effort to ride into political power by presenting the minds of the poor with envy and hatred against the rich.
