A Baltimore dispatch says the Irish Historical Society will celebrate tonight the Gaelic feast of "Eidsicche Shammas," from which the feast of Hallowe'en is said to have originated. Gaelic pranks will be played and old Irish customs revived. Irish ballads will be sung, and the dishes which were eaten in Ireland in the days of ancient feasts will be served to the guests in the quaint style of bygone centuries.

The love of animals is deeply planted in the heart of every rightly constituted human being, and when to nature scientific training has been added, the interest in the trained intelligence of the patient, obedient and lovable mutes is many times multiplied and our sympathy with and affection for them correspondingly increased. Professor Barnes' superior trained dogs and ponies will be at the Vogt opera house Monday, Nov. 5th.

Deputy Sheriff Wood, of Mosier, brought up from that place last night a tough, who gave his name as C. B. Palmer, who had in his possession a valuable gold ring, bearing the initials "B. F." and a lot of gold-rimmed spectacles that had evidently been stolen. Palmer was trying to dispose of the ring when arrested and could give no reasonable account of where he got it or the gold spectacles. As no evidence could be obtained to justify his retention, the fellow was turned loose this morning.

The Mitchell News, published by Roy C. Irvine, has suspended publication. The plant is the one used by E. M. Shutt at Lone, Hardman and Twickenham, and is popularly supposed to be "on wheels." When the News suspended two weeks ago, the plant went on Shutt's hands again. Mitchell has been a hard field for newspapers. No less than four publishers have tried it, from time to time, and quit. It is rumored that an effort is being made to resurrect the paper, with Postmaster Adamson as editor.—Fossil Journal.

Nothing could more clearly demonstrate the danger of the supremacy of some of the forces that are at the back of Bryanism than the following announcement of Dick Croker, the boss of the most corrupt political institution on earth, and the man through whom Bryan expects to carry New York. The statement was made by Croker no longer ago than last Monday. "My advice to democratic voters the country over is to congregate about the polling places on the evening of election day, count noses and then if the election returns for Bryan don't tally with their count, to go into the polling places and throw the fellow in charge of the returns into the street." In the presence of such an incitement to riot and mob rule, coming from a leader of a numerically great party, and from one who is in close touch with the candidate of that party, all talk of "imperialism" and "militarism" fades into nothingness.

In Bryanism and Crokerism the country is up against the only destructive force that threatens the stability of our institutions. If this republic ever perishes it will fall not through "imperialism" or "militarism" but through such mob violence as this hellish chief of Tammany is trying to foment and incite.

Thieves broke into the store of W. A. Johnston last night and got away with about $200 worth, as near as can be estimated, of knives, razors and revolvers. The robbers effected an entrance by breaking in a window at the back of the store. This is the second time Mr. Johnston has been robbed since last February, both in the same manner and of the same goods. It is the fourth robbery of the same class of goods that has been committed in the city since that time, the other two being the stores of J. T. Peters and Mays & Crowe. There is no clue to the thieves, but the prevailing impression is that they don't live very far away.

The official announcement of the total population of the United States for 1900 is 76,295,220, of which 74,627,907 are contained in the forty-five states representing approximately the population to be used for apportionment purposes. There is a total of 134,158 Indians not taxed. The total population in 1890, with which the aggregate population of the present census should be compared was 63,693,756. Taking the 1890 population as a basis, there has been a gain in population of 13,225,464 during the last ten years, representing an increase of nearly twenty-one per cent.

"Uncle Josh Sprucey," the first of the many rural plays now being presented in the different cities, will be seen at the Vogt opera house Friday night, November 21. This production is said to be different from all others, as it contains much comedy as well as pathos, and the realistic saw mill scene is said to be the most exciting and intense effect ever produced. The scenes of the play are laid in Vermont and New York, which gives ample opportunity for portraying the simple rustic characters in country, as well as the many incidents that befall the simple country folk that visit the metropolis.

Indian George, a full-blooded Siwash who years ago followed sheep herding in this county and now owns a stock ranch of his own somewhere on the John Day, applied yesterday to Deputy Clerk Bolton for a license to marry a white woman, giving the woman's age at 38 and his own at 50. The license was refused as an act of the Oregon legislature, passed in 1866, declares that marriages between a white person and an Indian of more than half blood are "absolutely null and void." The same law denies legal sanction to white persons contracting marriages with Kanakas, Chinese or Negroes of more than quarter blood.

The state circuit court for Multnomah county has a singular case on its hands, the first of the kind, we believe, in the history of the state. To avoid the payment of a just proportion of the state tax, as many believe, the Multnomah delegation at the last session of the legislature succeeded in abolishing the state board of equalization. The board's only offense, so far as Multnomah county was concerned, consisted in increasing the county assessment, so as to make it uniform with that of other counties. The following year the assessor, being under no restraint but that of the county board, reduced the assessment some eleven odd million dollars and this year, rumor has it, that the reduction will be maintained and probably increased. Under the Portland city charter the city is authorized to levy a tax for general municipal purposes not to exceed 8 mills on the dollar of the taxable property returned by the county assessor. Under the reduced assessment this amount is wholly inadequate to meet the city's necessities and unless the assessment of last year is increased at least $10,000,000, the police and fire department and lights and streets cannot be maintained. The city, therefore, has sued out a writ of mandamus against the county assessor to compel him to make his assessment of taxable property at a sum not less than $40,000,000. In the city's complaint the allegation is made that the assessor is about to return an assessment of less than $30,000,000.

Strict Quarantine.

At an adjourned special meeting of the city council held last night, the following ordinance was passed by the unanimous vote of all present:

The people of Dalles City do ordain as follows:

SECTION 1.—That section 7 of ordinance No. 263, an ordinance entitled "An ordinance to protect the public health and safety and prevent the spread of dangerous, contagious or infectious diseases, and to provide for a board of health and the prevention and removal of all public nuisances," which passed the council of Dalles City May 3, 1893, and was approved by the mayor of Dalles City on the 8th day of May, 1893, be amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 7.—No person having, or recently having had, any contagious disease in Dalles City, shall go out in public, or pass from house to house or building to building, or appear in any street, alley or other public place in said city for a period of twenty-one days after he or she shall have become convalescent in said disease, and until he or she shall have so far recovered from such disease as to preclude all danger of infection, and shall have first obtained and caused to be filed in the office of the recorder of Dalles City a certificate of a duly licensed physician of the state of Oregon certifying that said person is so far recovered from such disease as to preclude all danger of infection.

every physician to furnish such certificate to all persons under his care having any contagious disease, when in said physician's opinion all danger of infection is passed.

"And if the marshal of Dalles City shall see or be informed of any person violating any of the provisions of this section, it shall be said marshal's duty to cause such person to be taken forthwith to his place of residence.

"Any person or persons violating any of the provisions of this section shall upon conviction thereof in the recorder's court be fined not less than $20 nor more than $100."
