

For President—WILLIAM M'KINLEY, OF OHIO.

For Vice-President—THEODORE ROOSEVELT, OF NEW YORK.

THE OUTLOOK.

The Spokesman-Review has said that the surface indications point to the re-election of President McKinley. This will appear the more clearly upon consideration of the electoral vote. The states of Ohio, New York, Connecticut, Illinois, Iowa, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Vermont are reasonably counted in advance by the republicans. It would be a surprise if either of them went for Bryan. They have a combined electoral vote of 171, or 53 short of the required 224.

Into a doubtful column place California, Delaware, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, New Jersey, North Dakota, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin, with a combined electoral vote of 114. Of this number 53 would elect McKinley, and it would be a political surprise if Bryan should carry a majority of these states.

In other words, the chances seem against Bryan's breaking into the first column, and also against his carrying a majority of the votes in the second column. His one chance, as has been said before, lies in the possibility that the republican defection in republican strongholds may be greater than the republicans anticipate, and may extend also into the doubtful states and states carried four years ago by Bryan, but now claimed by the republicans.

John McDonald, a Kansas journalist who is touring Scotland, says in a letter to one of the papers of the Sunflower state that he recently went into a store in a little Highland town and inspected the goods displayed for sale, finding among them the following American products: Corn flour, canned beef, canned peaches, canned apricots, canned pears, soap, rolled oats, washboards, churns, cheese, hams, flour, salmon, apples, forks, hoes, axes, hammers, saws, joiners' tools, braces and bits. "This partial list of things used in a Scotch mountain village," says Mr. McDonald, "will give some idea of the immense trade between the United States and Great Britain."

Senator Tillman—he of the pitchfork and shotgun for Southern negroes who attempt to vote the republican ticket—says that the democratic senators were bribed to vote for the ratification of the Paris treaty. As Bryan was busy lobbying for the ratification of that instrument, the charge suggests a host of speculations, says the Salem Statesman.
