

It is the full dinner pail more than anything else that broke the neck of Bryanism.

The very latest returns indicate that Bryan has carried Texas, Wamic Kingsley and Nansene.

McKinley's popular majority will be considerably larger than it was four years ago, while his electoral vote will be nearly two to Mr. Bryan's one.

It may be in the interest of ethnology as it is certainly in the interest of archeology, that a few specimens of the genus Bryanite are still left in the Kingsley, Wamic and Nansene precincts.

At the close of the national campaign of 1896 Bryan wrote an account of it and called it "The First Battle." It is dollars to doughnuts that Bryan will never write an account of the second battle.

In Norway before a girl is allowed to marry she must have a state certificate that she can cook. And yet there is a disposition among ignorant people to consider Norway some distance behind the advance guard of civilization.—New York Press.

The election was anomalous in this respect, that hundreds of thousands of democrats voted for Bryan or refused to vote for McKinley, while they devoutly prayed that Bryan might be buried so deep that he would never have a resurrection.

The New York World publishes the following estimates as representing Tammany's tax each year on crime in Greater New York: 150 poolrooms, $750,000; 100 swell gambling houses, $520,000; 1000 little gambling houses, $1,300,000; 500 policy shops, $650,000; 1000 dives, $900,000; illicit tax on crime per year, $4,150,000. And the institution which levies this tax on crime is the one of which Mr. Bryan, a few days ago, said: "Great is Tammany and Croker is its prophet." Bryan's connection with this infamous blotch on humanity was his fault as well as his misfortune.

Simultaneously with the report that McKinley has carried Nebraska, and that the Nebraska legislature will probably be republican on joint ballot, Mr. Bryan announces through the New York Journal that under no circumstances could he be induced to accept the office of United States senator, even were it tendered him; that he made his fight for the presidency and lost and is not now going to take other men's positions from them. Bryan's magnanimity is on a par with that of the Irishman who vowed he never would stay where he would not be kept.
