The king of Omaha newsboys and bootblacks, "Moggy" Bernstein, recently wedded Miss Nellie Saneld, of Kansas City, an heiress to considerable property. Moggy began life in Omaha as a bootblack, has supported his brothers and sisters, and is reputed to be worth $25,000. Yet Bryan would have us believe that the "young man Absalom" has no longer a chance in this country.

From the Telegram we learn that fire was discovered in the purser's cabin of the steamer Reliance, of the Regulator line, Wednesday evening, but, fortunately, it was extinguished before any serious damage was done. The conflagration started in the purser's sleeping apartment, and after consuming some of the bed clothing, spread to the piles of laundry, but this was only scorched. The fire is supposed to have originated through the carelessness of some member of the crew who had visited the office with a lighted candle in quest of clean linen. The loss is small.

Those who have attended the special meetings held at the Methodist church during the week have felt a special interest from the fact that a former Dalles boy has occupied the pulpit and labored earnestly, in connection with the pastor, for the salvation of his hearers. It has also been a great satisfaction to them to note the wonderful progress Mr. Nickelsen has made in a few years and to feel that he has a promising future in store for him. The duties of his charge at Heppner demand his attention, and tonight he will probably preach his last sermon in connection with these meetings. The public is therefore especially invited to be present.

Otis Savage Pardoned.

Governor Geer yesterday issued a pardon to Otis Savage, of this city, who was convicted of larceny of money from the Pacific Express Company six years ago and sentenced to four years in the penitentiary. At the close of the trial an appeal was taken to the supreme court and Savage was admitted to bail, pending the hearing of the appeal. For some reason that no one has ever been able to explain the appeal was not perfected on the part of the state till about five and a half years after the trial and not till almost six years had passed was the matter decided by the supreme court and the judgment of the lower court affirmed.

When the decision of the supreme court was announced a petition for Savage's pardon was signed by a large number of the taxpayers and business men of Wasco county. It was urged on the grounds that six years had elapsed since his conviction, during which time he had been out on bonds, while the sentence itself was for but four years. It was urged that the delay was without fault on his part, and the district attorney who prosecuted him advised that no good purpose would now be served by his incarceration. Besides it was urged, in absolute good faith, that Savage's health was such that he could not stand the confinement to which he was sentenced.

The signers of the petition were, in addition, largely influenced by the fact that, whether guilty of the crime charged against him or not, the boy has since led a quiet and orderly life and has made no attempt to escape the consequences of his sentence by flight.

If THE CHRONICLE understands the sentiments of the people, and it thinks it does, the action of the governor will meet the approval of a large majority of the people.

Griffith Pleases His Audience.

Griffith, the hypnotist, opened a three nights' engagement at the Vogt last night to a small but very appreciative audience. The performance opened with a few brief remarks upon the subject, after which a class was invited upon the stage. The conditions under which they were invited were somewhat different than is customary in such cases. Mr. Griffith invited everyone and anyone, and in a way asked skeptics to experiment. While he did not really challenge anyone the audience was made to understand that he could handle his class under any and all circumstances. He did not ask the consent or assistance of his class, but after he had obtained fourteen, some of whom were doubting Thomases, he fell to his work with a zest and proceeded to put the fixings on them all, only one of the group escaping.

Mr. Griffith has a way of handling his subjects which is extremely interesting and catchy, and the clever antics performed by his semi-somnambulists kept his audience in an uproar of laughter from the rising to the falling of the curtain. At the conclusion a young man of 18 or 20 was put into a hypnotic sleep and placed on exhibition in one of Clarke & Falk's show windows where he remained all day. He will be awakened tonight at the opening of the performance.

Circuit Court Proceedings.

In the circuit court the case of the State against C. H. Bateham, charged with assault, was given to the jury yesterday afternoon and a verdict of not guilty rendered.

The action of Rothschild Bros. against Joe Parodi occupied the court this forenoon. This action grew out of an action wherein Rothschild Bros. were plaintiffs and W. T. Wiseman defendant. In that action Joe Parodi was garnished as having money in his possession belonging to Wiseman. At the time Parodi was served with the notice he answered that he had no money of Wiseman's in his possession. In today's action the plaintiffs claimed that he had. The plaintiffs were not suited.

Mead Hughes was fined $50 for simple assault on a plea of guilty. The information filed against Hughes charged him with assault with a dangerous weapon. By consent of the prosecuting attorney he was allowed to plead guilty to simple assault.

John Wilson, alias Howard, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for robbing the store of W. A. Johnston.

DEATH OF MRS. MARY JOSLYN

Wife of a Pioneer Settler of White Salmon Formerly Well Known in The Dalles.

From the Colorado Springs Telegraph of November 8th we learn of the death at that place on the 7th instant of Mrs. Mary L. Joslyn, wife of E. S. Joslyn, who will be remembered by the older generation of Dalles people as pioneer settlers of the White Salmon country, they having located on what used to be known as the old White Salmon farm in 1852. They were living there during the Indian troubles of 1855-6, when their dwelling and contents were burned by the Indians. They sold out and moved to Denver, Colorado, about 1876 and from thence moved to Colorado Springs, where they have since resided. Mr. and Mrs. Joslyn were charter members of the Congregational church of this city, and Mr. Joslyn was at one time a member of the territorial legislature of Washington. They were particular friends of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Brooks, to whom they often expressed the desire of returning to The Dalles and spending the remainder of their days here.

The following is the obituary notice of the Telegraph:

Mrs. Mary L. Joslyn, wife of E. S. Joslyn, died suddenly last evening at her home, 127 East Bijou street. She was not ill, and her sudden death shocked her husband and friends. In fact, Mr. Joslyn was at prayer meeting and Mrs. Joslyn was in the company of her niece, Miss Tuck. Mrs. Joslyn started for her bedroom about 8:30, but fell after taking a few steps and died quickly. The deceased was the wife of E. S. Joslyn, and came here with her husband years ago, both being pioneer residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Joslyn came to this city in 1876 from the state of Washington, although Mrs. Joslyn was born in Massachusetts. About two years ago the couple celebrated their golden wedding. They were widely known, and the celebration attracted much attention. The bereaved husband has the sympathy of the entire community in his great loss. Mrs. Joslyn was a member of the First Congregational church during the twenty-four years of her residence here.

Inspecting Arid Lands.

In Eastern Oregon, Wisconsin and Minnesota capitalists are inspecting the country in the interests of the Des Chutes Consolidated Irrigation Company, says the Telegram. As stated before, the company has for its objects the irrigation of 80,000 acres of semi-arid land. In case the experiment proves successful, and the promoters have no doubt regarding the result, there are 1,000,000 acres of the same kind of land that can be made to blossom as the garden by the aid of water, which will be easily obtained by digging canals and utilizing a part of the large water flow of the Des Chutes river.

H. A. Moore, treasurer of the company, is in charge of the expedition. With him is L. H. Moore, the proprietor of the Pipestone quarries in Minnesota. The place was so named because the Indians used to make pipes out of the red clay. Mr. Moore's health has improved so rapidly since coming to Oregon that he seriously contemplates closing out his business there and making his permanent residence in Portland. Mr. Moore is a personal friend of President Mohler, of the O. R. & N.

Just as soon as the expedition returns from Central Oregon, plans will be outlined for beginning active operations upon the ditch or canal which is to furnish water to irrigate the section mentioned.
