

"PROPERTY IS ROBBERY."

The anarchists do the underground work, the socialists the above-ground work, but it is one work, says the Fortnightly Review.

"What is property? Property is robbery," said Proudhon. The germ of all the evil is in that. "Whoso hateth his brother is a murderer." Hatred is murder in the germ. Similarly, whoso coveteth his neighbor's goods is an anarchist. Covetousness, the desire to possess what is not our own, lust of property, envy of the man who has more than we have—this is anarchy in germ.

Sometimes one man enunciates ideas, and another carries them into effect.

So it was with regard to this doctrine of property being robbery. Proudhon taught this as a principle; his disciple, Bakunin, carried matters a step further, and sought to apply the principle logically. If property is robbery, he said to himself, then all who own property are robbers and enemies of society—all such must be killed.

So he began to propagate socialism and anarchism and nihilism—they are all one in essence. And today the harvest is being reaped from the evil seed which he sowed. It is a melancholy reflection that for much of this evil England is responsible. Bakunin, after spending eight years in various Continental prisons, was exiled to Siberia, and if any enemy of the human race deserved his exile he did. But he was a Russian noble, and appears to have had some friend in authority who aided him to escape. He made his way to England, as all such men do when they can prosecute their fiendish work nowhere else, and, making England the center of his operations, he sent his agents and his literature all over Europe on their murderous mission. Hundreds and thousands of similar men are doing similar work today in London and New York, and in the various large industrial centers throughout England and America.

Our democratic contemporaries are shedding rivers of briny tears over the announcement that the National Salt Co. has put up the price of "common table salt of a fair quality" to $2.50 per hundred pounds. "This company," we are told, "controls directly 95 per cent of the salt output of the country and is able to dominate the remaining 5 per cent." If this statement is true how comes it that "common table salt of a fair quality" is at this writing, November 21st, retailing in The Dalles for 65 cents a hundred, and that the best quality of table salt in the American market is retailing at $1.20 per hundred, or 60 cents for a 50-pound sack? When our democratic contemporaries essay to answer these questions they will please remember the rule to not all speak at once.

A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N.Y. The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing.
