SHALL WE
be clothed?

As the icy breath of old Boreas sweeps around the corner it carries that question right home to us. Humanity can no more stand such weather unprotected than can the lilies of the field. Remember right now that underwear is cheaper than funerals and overcoats cost less than undertakers. Therefore we say "come unto us all ye who shiver and are lightly muffled and we will warm you up!"

Preparation for Thanksgiving this year will be made lighter from the fact that the best cooks of the Good Intent Society will prepare all sorts of cooking, such as pumpkin and mince, as well as other kinds of pies, cake, salt rising bread, doughnuts; in fact everything that will make your dinner more palatable. They will be on sale in Cross' window next Wednesday.

Ed Card was indicted in the recorder's court yesterday afternoon charged with larceny from a dwelling. By permission of District Attorney Menefee, Card was permitted to plead guilty to simple larceny. While drunk he had stolen a blanket worth a dollar from the Star Lodging house. When sober he owned to having taken the blanket and told where it was. Mr. Menefee asked for a light sentence and the recorder sentenced Card to twelve days in the county jail.

A romantic comedy drama, suggested by one of Bret Harte's popular sketches, entitled "Tennessee's Partner" will be staged at the Vogt opera house Dec. 4th. The success this play achieved in the past has been the absorbing topic in theatrical circles for some time. As to plot and story it is complete, and the situations and climaxes are thrilling and interesting. Its characters are original creations and the play throughout is refined and free from stage exaggerations so common in most melodramatic productions of the present day. When there is a suspicion of a tear in the eyes of the men and more than a suspicion in the eyes of the ladies, then there is something that strikes the heart. When the heart is appealed to there is an element of success. The past seasons fully demonstrated that "Tennessee's Partner" is a play of more than ordinary merit, and as Manager Arthur C. Aiston has retained the principal members of his original company for this season's tour the record of this attraction's success will be more than duplicated.

C. B. Cushing has developed by the veloc process a very handsome picture of the queen's pavilion of the late carnival, with C. L. Phillips occupying the throne with a grace and dignity, not to say elegance of tout ensemble, that looks as if he were to the manner born. The original was a snap shot taken near the closing hours of the carnival when Charley for a moment ascended the royal chair to show to the gazing multitude how becoming the environment of a throne was to his peculiar style of beauty. Mr. Cushing has made a beautiful picture out of a very discouraging subject.

Geo. W. Turner, of Morrow county, gives it as his experience that the cultivation of flax in that section is a failure, says the Heppner Gazette. The experiment has cost him a few thousand dollars, and he has now abandoned the business and seeded 1000 acres of his land to wheat. Hereafter he will be plain George Turner, and no more Flaxseed Turner. When he saw wild flax flourishing around his neighborhood near Lexington he thought there was a fortune in sight. He put in 600 acres, and it came up all right, but soon so much died out that Mr. Turner could not get his seed back. Why, he does not know, but that was the plain result.

A stack of some 15 tons of hay belonging to D. J. Cooper, of Ten Mile, was destroyed by fire. The fire was plainly the work of an incendiary. The miscreant had entered the field, where the hay was, on horseback, leaving the gate open as he retired on a lope. His tracks where he alighted from the horse and struck the match were plainly visible. It is reported that an attempt was made about the same time to set fire to a load of Mr. Cooper's hay that was standing on a wagon near a barn in which there was about 50 tons of hay. This last fire was happily discovered in time and put out. It looks as if the Ten Mile folks might need a new supply of hemp rope in the near future.

A Misappropriation.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:

One of the readers of the Oregonian and CHRONICLE has been anxiously waiting a denial by some citizen of The Dalles, careful of her good name, of the statement made in a former paper of the application of the surplus funds remaining after the carnival expenses were paid.

We all enjoyed the carnival; many of us much more than the faire of years past, because of the apparent absence of the horsey element. This adjective is not derived from the noble animal we all admire and love, but rather from the style of men that hang around him. And many of us were glad that something was at last found which could be a source of pure enjoyment to the multitude without bringing this horsey element into prominence.

Had this surplus been set aside for a nucleus for the expenses of another carnival for 1901, it would have met with warm approbation. Or had it been used to make the horrible approaches to our town more like roads which are coaxing instead of forbidding to country people, whom we want to visit our town, it would not only have been a lasting source of comfort and pleasure, but also of profit. But such a misappropriation as is intimated is a matter of distress to the best friends of our town. We know what a "pure agricultural horse trot" is from years of experience. We distrust any power residing in any array of names to make a race track anything but a race track, and to be accompanied by its usual belongings. We hope the Oregonian's informant was mistaken. J.

AN INTERESTING STATEMENT.

Comparative Statement of Apportionment from School Fund Interest for the Past Nine Years.

At the request of THE CHRONICLE Superintendent Gilbert has furnished us with the following comparative statement of amounts apportioned from the common school fund interest from the year 1891 to 1900 inclusive. The statement has peculiar interest as showing that the amount of interest derived from the irreducible school fund and the consequent per capita felt all the fluctuations of prosperity and adversity that have characterized the history of the past nine years. In the hard years of 1893-4 the per capita fell more than a hundred per cent below the prosperous years of 1891-2. The fund, as everybody knows, is loaned out on real estate, and in 1892-4 many of the borrowers could not pay the interest on their loans. Since 1895, under the stimulus of good times, notwithstanding that the rate of interest has been lowered, the per capita has increased till it now touches $1.56 as against 70 cents in 1893. The statement came to us over the signature of State Superintendent J. H. Ackerman.

Year	Persons of school age	Per capita	Amount.
1891	105,622	$1.45	$153,151.99
1892	111,770	1.45	162,066.50
1893	120,645	.70	84,451.50
1894	123,786	.87	107,693.82
1895	126,935	1.05	133,281.75
1896	129,623	1.05	135,472.05
1897	129,956	1.05	135,154.24
1898	130,753	1.20	156,903.60
1899	132,388	1.51	199,905.88
1900	133,181	1.56	207,457.34

PEOPLE COMING AND GOING.

H. W. Wells went to Prosser, Wash., yesterday on a visit to his sheep ranch at that place.

Mrs. H. W. Wells and children will leave in the morning for Portland to spend Thanksgiving there.

Miss Cassie Thibourn, who has been seriously ill for the past month, is again able to sit up a short time each day.

Miss Maude Gilbert has returned from attending a session of the Portland Business College. She will resume her work in Menefee & Wilson's office Monday morning.

J. H. Oakes, of Prineville, is in the city. Just before the election Mr. Oakes invested largely in sheep and sheep ranches on the faith that McKinley would carry the state, and the result, it need scarcely be said, gives him great satisfaction.

Payment by United Artisans.

The secretary of The Dalles Assembly, No. 25, this morning received a warrant for the payment of the claims in full under the policy held by J. M. Huntington, who died Nov. 3, 1900. The following explains itself:

I hereby acknowledge that I have this 24th day of November, 1900, received a warrant for $2000 in full payment of the benefit certificate held by my husband, J. M. Huntington, in the United Artisans, and I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation for their promptness. I heartily recommend the United Artisans as a safe and reliable insurance and fraternal order. MARY B. HUNTINGTON.
