Met Their Match This Time. The "Great African Salesman," and his party, who are vividly remembered in The Dalles for the slick method by which they fleeced the dear people out some $250, met their match at Oregon City Tuesday night after they had successfully worked their game for all there was in it. When the audience waked to the consciousness that they had been fleeced about 50 persons forced their way upon the stage after the curtain had dropped, demanding return from the auctioneers of their money. The auctioneers drew revolvers in defense, and solicited the protection of the officers of the law. The crowd was soon placed under control, and, accompanied by the officers, the auctioneers preferred to take judgment in the jail rather than venture to Portland, and the mob dispersed for the night. Wednesday morning about 20 persons sent in a petition again demanding restitution. The auctioneers expressed surprise at the attitude, insisting that the arrangement was explained to them fully, and willingly assented to by them all, and that the auction was merely a method of shrewd selling, and not a fake in any respect. It was finally agreed that demands amounting to over $91 should be paid back to the persons aggrieved, the prisoners then being released from custody and permitted to quit the town.

Council Proceedings. A special meeting of the common council met Wednesday night to consider what was best to be done with the Court street sewer.

A committee of residents of the bluff, who have to use the old brewery grade going to and coming from their homes to the business part of the city, appeared before the council and asked for assistance to build a sidewalk from the brewery to the top of the grade. On motion the council contributed $50 on condition that the parties interested shall bear any additional expense that may be incurred.

In the county court today the petitions of S. F. Petersen and J. S. Wisener for licenses to sell liquor at Mosier occupied the attention of the court. The petitioners were represented by F. W. Wilson and the remonstrants by N. B. Sinnott. The court took the questions raised by the counsel under advisement.

"There has only been one clip of wool sold in The Dalles during the past month," said a wool buyer to the Chronicle man today. There are seven or eight wool buyers in town, but there is a difference of two to two and a half cents between their price and that of the wool-growers. Hence no sales.

Dr. Logan was called yesterday to Grass Valley on a visit to Joseph Morris, a highly respected resident of that district and a former resident of this county, who was reported dangerously ill. Word was received this afternoon that Mr. Morris died last night. The remains will be brought here for interment probably Sunday.

R. B. Gilbreth today received by express from C. M. Smith, of Jefferson, a four-months-old boar of the Poland-China persuasion that is as fine a specimen of hog flesh of his age as we have ever seen. He was farrowed April 25th and weighs, in very moderate flesh, 160 pounds. Mr. Gilbreth will send the animal out to the ranch.

One of the most remarkable instances of forgetfulness that we have heard of for some time occurred the other morning south of Grant station when Sherman Frank, of this city, who was up there on a goose hunt, after going eight miles out on the Sherman county prairie, at 3 o'clock in the morning, to pits he had dug the night before, found he had forgotten to bring his gun along.

The many friends of Murdock Finlayson, who was shot recently at Antelope by Bert Rogers, will be pleased to learn that his condition today is favorable for his recovery. Mr. Finlayson is at the European House, and his attendant physician, Dr. Geisendorffer, reports that his patient's temperature at noon today was only half a degree above normal.

Very few modern dramas have the dash and vigor, fun and pathos of the best of all comedy-dramas, "Tennessee's Partner." This play was one of the big road successes of the past three seasons. The company which will present it is strong in every particular and has not one weak member. The tour is directed and managed by Arthur C. Aiston, who has in former seasons brought several prominent stars and productions here.

The Dalles Chronicle is pulling for the Antelope Herald, so does the Oregonian against the Republican, so has other papers. They are clippings items out of the latter and giving credit to the former. Never mind boys, the Republican will overcome all difficulties and come out victorious in the end. It is in the right, and right will win. We will manage to keep our head above water, though the sea is rough. We may not be very good swimmers, but air cannot sink, you know.—Republican.

A truck load of miscellaneous household supplies, clothing and reading matter was collected by the children of the public schools and shipped today to the Boys' and Girls' Home at Portland. Among the collection were about 200 jars of preserved fruit, five sacks of potatoes, a sack of flour, no end of dried fruit, three big pumpkins, two squashes, a large quantity of children's clothing and reading matter adapted to the little folks of the home and other articles too numerous to mention.

At a recent spiritualistic meeting in the forks of the Santiam the spirit of Elijah Crosser was called for. He had died there many years before, but was remembered for his immense stature, six feet five inches. A voice in the darkness said he was Elijah. "Are you in heaven?" asked an old-timer. "Yes," came the answer. "Are you an angel, Lige?" "Yes." The questioner paused, evidently having exhausted his fund of questions, and then suddenly inquired: "What do you measure from tip to tip, Lige?"

A very pleasing and profitable union Thanksgiving service was held at the Congregational church yesterday, in which Revs. Clifton, Hawk and Pelling participated as speakers. The opening prayer was made by Rev. Warner, after which Professor Landers read the president's Thanksgiving proclamation. Mr. Wilson, of the Boys' and Girls' Home, addressed the audience in a few brief words, urging the importance of being doers of the word rather than hearers. The attendance was not large, owing, probably, to the fact that the meeting was not sufficiently advertised.

The accident at San Francisco yesterday, while the Berkeley and Stanford teams were playing their annual game of football, in which thirteen people lost their lives and one hundred or more were badly hurt, should not be charged up against this popular sport, for it was the direct result of human dishonesty, in endeavoring to secure something for nothing. Those who had climbed to the roof to see the game did so to avoid payment of admittance fee to the grounds. They wished to secure something for nothing and got more than they bargained for. If they had entered the grounds honorably and decently as men and boys should, the management of the football grounds would have provided for their comfort and safety, and broken bones and bescarred bodies would not today be the result. When people who expect to be ranked as men, climb up on box cars and high eminences to get something for nothing, they are taking risks, besides doing a "cheap" and contemptible act, and no community or organization for amusement should worry if their reward be broken limbs or necks. This applies to The Dalles as well as San Francisco.
