Prominent local capitalists are making arrangements to locate a clam cannery at Naboota, says the Morning Astorian. The razor and bay clams are both found in abundance at that place and the location will be an excellent one.

Pianos and organs offered for sale now at Nickelsen's music store are those representing all creeds and all nations in pianodom. Here you will see the most costly Knabe, the reliable Ludwig, or the Franklin, Martin, Irvin, Kingsbury. Sacrifice sale is now going on.

There is a tolerably good umbrella at the court house, which somebody left there and evidently forgot all about it. It is in charge of John Fitzgerald who is guarding it carefully so that only the real owner can get it, and then only after he has accurately described its brands and ornaments. Such a description and two bits for this notice will secure an umbrella worth a dollar and a half.

Rev. J. B. Lister, of Eugene, is now preaching every night in the Christian church. The friends of this work express themselves as well pleased. The audiences are growing from night to night. The subjects to be treated on Sunday 16th are announced thus: 11 a. m., "Every Man in His Place;" at 3:30 p. m., "Temple Growth." The sermon tonight will be on Christian evidences. Subject: "The Testimony of the Monuments." A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Bryan says prosperity killed him. Why should it not have killed him? Did he imagine that the farmers, who as a class were dead against him, did not know enough to let well enough alone? Said one of them from Klickitat to THE CHRONICLE today: "In 1894 I sold 28 steers in this town for $875 that averaged, gross weight, over 1100 pounds each. Today I could cash a like number of like weight for $1100, and I have refused an offer of $14 a head for my spring calves."

British Museum Newton, the archaeologist, was a capital story-teller and Mr. A. J. Hare, in the story of his life, has preserved two or three of his tales. One is a spiritualistic seance where an old cockney was informed that the spirit manifested was his deceased wife, whereupon the following dialogue took place: "His that you, 'Arriet?" "Yes, it is me." "Are you lappy, 'Arriet?" "Yes, very 'appy." "Appier than you was with me, 'Arriet?" "Yes, much 'appier." "Where are you, 'Arriet?" "In 'ell."

Four or five boys of the High school persuasion had a whole bushel of fun this afternoon, in part at least, at the expense of the young ladies who presided over the sale of pies and cakes at

Pease & Mays'. After blowing themselves in for a whole raft of pies and candies they adjourned to another store and bought a big lot of degenerate cranberries that they got for a song and had a boy deliver the package C. O. D. to the young ladies of the pie counter. The ladies paid the bill, so the boys say, and the last heard of the cranberries was that one of the girls had carried the package home to see if pa or ma had ordered them for Sunday's dinner.

A band of 400 head of Indian ponies from the Warm Spring agency passed through town Tuesday, bound for the Linton horse cannery, says the Dufur Dispatch. In the morning as they were being driven from the pasture of A. J. Dufur, where they had been kept over night, they stampeded, breaking thro' the wire fence, killing two outright and severely wounding others. One poor beast had the leaders of his hind leg entirely severed and was driven through town with the blood spurting from the wound at every step, and perhaps will be taken to its destination in this condition.

The officers of Cedar Circle, Women of Woodcraft, for the next term as elected last night will be: P. G. N., Jessie McArthur; G. N., Georgia Weber; Adv., Inez Filloon; clerk, Chas Brown; banker, John Filloon; attendant, Kathryn Sargeant; captain guards, Insley Huston; assistant captain, Minnie Gossier; pianist, Mae Cushing; I. S., James Taylor; O. S., J. Snipes; manager, Mrs. Murch. The officers-elect of Mt. Hood Camp, Woodmen of the World, are as follows: P. C. C., T. Brownhill; C. C., Hans Hansen; clerk, J. M. Filloon; adviser, Chas Brown; banker, Jas Snipes; escort, J. I. Huston; captain guards, Joe Ferguson; W. Perry Morgan; S. John Pashek; manager, George Joles. These two orders will hold joint installation on the first Tuesday in January.

One of the best entertainments of the season, or of any season, was the "Temple of Fame" given at the Vogt opera house last night by the ladies of the Good Intent Society of the M. E. church. The test of a good play lies ultimately in the pleasure it gives to the audience, and judged by this test the program of last night was a surprise and delight from start to finish. The one regret is that the house was not nearly as large as it ought to have been. This was probably on account of the inclemency of the night, but whatever the cause those who staid at home missed a treat such as they only rarely have an opportunity of enjoying. We believe the entertainment would bear repetition at some future period and would command a better house than it did last night.

GETTING DOWN TO FACTS.

The Alleged Hold-Ups in The Dalles Reduced to One, and It Not as Bad as Reported.

Hood River has repudiated its four alleged hold-ups, and The Dalles, in the interest of truth, is obliged, practically, to follow suit. Young Abrams was held up. At least the evidence is in favor of that supposition; but it is gravely doubted if he was relieved of $30, or one-tenth of that sum. The officers have sifted the matter pretty thoroughly and have come to the conclusion that he could not have had anything like $30 on his person. They are of opinion, moreover, that the time, place and circumstance of his alleged hold-up indicates that it was done by local talent and by men who must have learned where Abrams was going and learned it from his own lips.

The Stewart hold-up is believed by the officers to be a fake, a creation of the alleged victim, for the sole purpose of accounting to his employers for his having blown his money in on a harlot. The place he selected for the scene of the hold-up is the last place a highway man would select, for the reason that it is particularly well lighted. The officers of the law wondered why Stewart never reported his loss to any of them till they learned for themselves the following facts that we find related in last night's Telegram, showing that there was a woman in the case. It only needs to be added that Stewart is still here—or was last night—and so is the woman. The Telegram says:

C. W. Hayes, a traveling man, who was on the train with Fred Stewart, the young traveling man of this city, and stopped at The Dalles with the latter, has a story to tell which he claims throws some light on the hold-up of Stewart and his loss of $45. According to Hayes, there is a woman in the case. "I was on the train the day Stewart made the trip from Portland to The Dalles," said Mr. Hayes, "and during the ride I struck up a traveling acquaintance with him. On another seat of the car, near us, sat a young woman. She did all in her power to attract our attention and finally Stewart changed his seat for the one directly in front of her. They talked until a few minutes before the end of their journey, when Stewart came to me and asked me where I was going to stop at The Dalles. I named the Umatilla House, and Stewart remarked that he could do better than that, and that he intended to get a room and board around where he pleased. I noticed that Stewart lingered about the young woman's seat and am convinced that he took a room somewhere about the town at her suggestion, and that she or some one in her interest separated Stewart from his $45."

A Reliable Firm.

John C. Freund, editor of Music Trade, gives a hint to piano purchasers: "Ludwig & Co., a popular and progressive firm, both members of which John H. Ludwig and Charles A. Ericsson are practical piano-makers, familiar with all the branches of piano building, and give their personal attention to the supervision of the factory, enjoy the reputation of making first-class instruments. Capacity of factory and actual output, 2,500 pianos yearly. This firm has a modern and up-to-date plant, equipped in a first-class manner. Make their own cases. Their pianos are attractive in design, well and conscientiously made of the best selected materials, and are of superior workmanship. The firm enjoys and deserves the reputation of making an excellent piano of powerful and brilliant tone quality. Their instruments are sold all over the United States by responsible dealers who find them salable pianos, on which they can thoroughly rely. Financial and commercial standing of the highest."

The Ludwig piano makes friends wherever it is sold. At Nickelsen's music store you can buy one below ebb tide.
