MODERN BATHROOMS.

Many of the Fine Houses Fitted with Expensive Pools.

Large Swimming Tanks in a Number of Private Residences - Fine Furnishings of Swimming Faddists.

Bathrooms in dwelling-houses are a comparatively modern convenience, but public bathing places are as old as civilization. The Greeks and Romans spent large sums in fitting up public baths, which were popular resorts for all classes, but a private bathroom in one's own house would have been hard to find. Even to this day the people of India consider bathing in anything other than a river or smaller stream of running water to be a disgraceful act. Pent water was considered defiling to the body by the ancients and the public baths of Greece and Rome were so constructed that the outflow of water was equal to the inflow so as to secure as nearly as possible pure water for every bather, says a Chicago exchange.

The bathroom in hotels and dwellings passed rapidly from the realm of luxury to that of necessity; to-day a house without a bathtub is the exception. But with the belief, or knowledge, rather, that cleanliness is next to godliness came a sort of rivalry in bathroom furnishings and sanitary engineering skill and inventive genius were called upon to do their best. A few years ago a little room in an obscure corner with a zinc tub was something to boast of, but in these days of great individual wealth and palaces the bathroom often involves a large expenditure of money.

Many of the wealthy construct their bathrooms on lines that are as far removed from the old tub style as it is possible for the ingenuity of the architect and plumber to construct them. Instead of a $25 zinc tub a pool 55x8 feet or larger is constructed of porcelain in the center of a large room, say 14x20. Entrance to the pool from the curbing level is by marble steps, and the depth of the water may be as much as four or five feet. The curbing is of marble and the walls and ceiling of the room are lined with tile or onyx. The windows are of cathedral shape and great palms and smaller plants are placed about where they will give the room "all the comforts of home" and the picturesqueness of a garden. But that is not all that is required of such bathrooms. There must be another, but smaller, room adjacent, lined throughout with marble, with the floor inclined to the center, for the shower bath. Then there must be another small room at hand for a porcelain foot tub and still another for a wash basin, to say nothing of an elaborately appointed dressing-room. All the floors should be in tile, done in mosaic pattern, with rugs here and there. Such a bathroom costs from $5,000 to $7,000, and it is said there are a few of them in Chicago.

In most modern mansions in Chicago the cost of the bathroom and accessories range from $700 to $2,000; the latter includes a pool instead of a tub. Cathedral windows are dispensed with, the pool is porcelain lined, the shower is over the pool, and, in fact, one room serves for everything except the dressing apartment. It is a fact with some wealthy people to have the tub set on a solid block of marble, but such folks are few and far between. There is another style of tub that is used. It is solid steel porcelain lined, sets on the floor without legs and when in place looks as if it might have grown out of the wall. These tubs are low and roomy, but the shower has to be a separate work of art stationed on a marble slab in another part of the room.

There are many private houses in Chicago that have bathrooms costing from $300 to $1,500, and some dwellings have one on each floor, as well as a lavatory, but as a rule from $150 to $300 is all house owners care to invest in that department.

A few swimming faddists have pools occupying most of the space in the cellar. Of course the cellar must be constructed to admit of such a thing and also to give the pool the required depth. "The correct house for a gentleman to live in has a swimming pool in the cellar and a billiard-room in the top story," says a man who has both.

Plumbers say that few zinc-lined tubs are used these days. An iron body with enamel lining costs little more and outlasts a dozen zinc tubs.

A gentleman who has a costly bathroom says the way to enjoy a bath is to submerge oneself in the water to the chin, then light a cigar and sip ice-cold champagne between puffs. "Keep it up until the cigar and the wine are used up, then go to bed and dream of fairy lands."

Almonds and Rice.

Cook half a pound of rice in a quart of milk (add a little more milk, if necessary, but only enough to cook the rice). Cook slowly and add a pinch of salt, four ounces of butter, half a pound of sugar, six ounces of well-pounded almonds and the beaten yolks of five eggs. Cool, butter a plain mold (butter it well, else the contents will not come out whole), line it with blanched almonds, halved lengthwise, and pour on the rice. Set the mold in a larger pan of cold water, place in the oven and bake slowly for one hour; then remove from the oven, place in a pan of cold water for a few minutes, then invert onto a round platter. Serve hot with a rich fruit compote.—Ladies' World.

A WONDERFUL WATCH.

One in Maryland Known as a Mattie. Which Aroused Mark Twain's Admiration.

What is perhaps the most wonderful watch in the world is in the possession of a resident of Prince Gregory county, Maryland, says the Washington Times.

This remarkable timepiece, known as the Mattie watch, from the name of its maker, was made at Loos, Switzerland, about 40 years ago. It formed a feature of the Swiss exhibit at the centennial held at Philadelphia in 1876, and was purchased on that occasion by its present owner. A description of the watch by Mark Twain (S. L. Clemens) is as remarkable for accuracy as it is humorous. The well-known writer thus gives his impressions of the marvelous piece of mechanism:

"I have examined the wonderful watch made by H. L. Mattie, and, indeed, it comes nearer to being a human being than any piece of mechanism I ever saw before. In fact, it knows considerably more than the average voter. It knows the movements of the moon, and keeps exact record of them; it tells the day of the week, the date of the month, and the month of the year, and will do this perpetually; it tells the hour of the day, and the minute, and the second, and even splits the second into fifths, and marks the division by stop hands, having two of the latter; it can take accurate care of two race horses that start, not together, but one after another; it is a repeater (wherein the voter is suggested again), and musically chimes the hour, the quarter, the half and the three-quarter hour, and also the minutes that have passed of an uncompleted quarter-hour, so that a blind man can tell the time of day by it to the exact minute.

Such is this extraordinary watch. It elicits to admiration. I should think one could add another wheel and make it read and write, still another and make it talk; and I think one might take out several of the wheels that are already in it and it would still be a more intelligent citizen than some that help to govern the country. On the whole, I think it is entitled to vote—that is, if its sex is of the right kind."

The watch was sold for $1,400, and it is still performing its complex functions with the greatest regularity.

Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size, Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation. With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.
