

ANOTHER "BOMBSHELL" FROM OUR GREAT REDUCTION SALE.

The Great Event is meeting with such favorable response that we have decided to make a bigger cut than ever.

...And Still They Go Down...

Despite the unfriendly elements, the happy throng still crowds our place for "plums." They know—the people do—that our stokes are merciless and our cuts are deep. When we say "our goods are cheap," we don't mean "cheap goods." There's as much difference between the former and the latter as there is between "an ardent lover" and a "lover of the ardent."

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

"The New Waifs of New York." At the Vogt opera house tonight. You can always get bargains if you go to the Fair.

An adjourned regular meeting of the city council will be held tomorrow night.

Professor Sandvig announces that his usual Wednesday night dance will not be given tonight.

The Fair wants to thoroughly introduce the mascot kid gloves, and will have a special price for Saturday. Watch this paper tomorrow.

The Rathbone Sisters are especially requested to attend the regular meeting of that order tomorrow night, as business of importance will come before the meeting.

A hobo, who gave his name as George Forward, was arrested last night by Officer Like, and on being arraigned before his honor, Judge Gates, this morning, was given his liberty on the promise that he would leave town immediately.

The Salem Statesman says: "Senator J. N. Williamson, of Crook, made a dignified temporary president and his occupancy of the chair was a strong reminder that 'coming events cast their shadows before.' Mr. Williamson will be a member of the senate in 1903."

The Fossil Journal says: "Seven quartz claims were located on January 1st in the West Branch section, in Wheeler county, about ten miles southwest of Mitchell, by Hon. W. P. Keady, ex-speaker of the Oregon house of representatives. This section is destined to be a great mining region some day, and that, too, before long. Good discoveries are being made almost daily.

If President McKinley will come to Burns during his western trip, Harney county will barbecue a yearling calf worth $20 and present the president with a pair of socks made from the wool of a sheep worth $3 after her twin lambs have been sold for $2 each, says the Harney County News.

The Salem correspondent of the Astoria News, writing to his paper on the eve of the opening of the legislature, says: "All the prominent politicians in the state are here, the stragglers having arrived today, and the city presents an animated appearance. Experienced politicians express the belief that Corbett is already as good as defeated, though money is being freely used in his behalf."

Wasco Tribe, No. 16, I. O. R. M., raised up their elected chiefs for the ensuing term last night, D. D. G. S. A. A. Keller acting as installing officer: Sachem, C. E. Hayward; S. S., N. Blaser; I. S., B. Ulrich; Prophet, D. Hockman; C. of R., J. Mitchell; K. of W., Frank Menefee; First Sannap, J. Canfield; Second Sannap, Frank Marquiss; G. of the W., Chas. Friedly; G. of the F., Adam Kaufman.

The Fossil Journal suggests that Eastern Oregon members of the legislature should do no "log-rolling" that does not have the coyote bill in the pile. If this be repealed, the money that has been spent will have been practically thrown away; whereas, if the state bounty is continued, the coyotes will be exterminated in a few years, all croakers to the contrary notwithstanding. All talk of parties breeding coyotes for their scalps is the veriest bosh, unworthy the consideration of sensible legislators.

Tonight at the Vogt opera house Mr. Lorin J. Howard will present "Merry" Katie Emmett, and a splendid company of actors will be seen in this best and most lasting of American sensational comedy dramas, "The New Waifs of New York." The play depicts many scenes of both high and low life in the most faithful and striking manner, and all special scenery of familiar points, with wonderful mechanical effects, etc. In the Bowery concert hall scene many new, bright and original specialties are introduced, and in such an artistic way that each one in a measure aids in developing the story of the play. Seats are now on sale at Clarke & Falk's drug store.

For ladies only. Special in corsets. A few left. Sizes 18 to 20; 24 to 27. Only 25 cents while they last. At the New York Cash Store.

A head-end collision occurred last night on the O. R. & N. this side Hood River, between a double header freight train that left here about 10 o'clock and the No. 6 passenger, due here at 12:45 a. m. From the scanty information that could be procured we learn that the accident occurred through the mistake of the engineer of the first locomotive of the freight train who passed a signal board when he ought to have stopped and given the right of way to the passenger train. The engineer who gets the blame is reported slightly hurt. He is a stranger, who has not been long on this division.

Jim McMenamy, a logger or chopper or saw mill man or rancher, or something of that sort, down on the Chenoweth, was arraigned this morning before Judge Gates on a charge of drunkenness. Jim had made his couch on the sidewalk and was sleeping like a top when Officer Lake came that way and transferred him to a boudoir in the Hotel de Driver. On his arraignment the judge mistakenly charged Jim with vagrancy and Jim responded by saying he did not know he was as bad as that. Jim pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness and was fined $5. But the night's debauch had made him a busted communitarian and he was remanded to the calaboose to serve out his fine.

The Dalles correspondent of the Portland Telegram reports to that paper that "fully six inches of water" fell here in a few hours last Saturday night, and the Telegram, not to be beaten by a mere country correspondent when it was simply a question of the expansion of the imagination, puts a scare-head on the dispatch and makes it out that we had a cloud burst here that ripped things up in great shape. Now, the truth is, rain began falling Saturday afternoon about four o'clock. At that time there was about three inches of snow on the ground. The rain continued with scarcely any intermission till Monday afternoon. In all, the storm lasted about 24 hours, and during that time the precipitation was exactly 2.47 inches, an extraordinary amount of rain to fall in 48 hours at The Dalles, but a good deal short of the six inches reported by the correspondent of the Telegram.

Word reached here this morning of the death yesterday, at his home on the White Salmon, of J. R. Warner, an old and highly respected resident of that neighborhood and a man who was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. The deceased was a veteran of the civil war and for many years held the office of chaplain of the G. A. R. post of this city. No particulars of his death have reached here to our knowledge. It is supposed it must have been sudden, as no one here seems to have known that he was ill. From a short telephone message it was learned that the remains were taken on today's boat to Portland, to be buried by the side of his first wife.

We understand that a written request will be presented to the business men of the city asking for the closing of the stores and other places of business, as far as it may be possible, from 2:30 to 4:30 next Friday afternoon, in order to give the employes a chance to witness the last football game of the season. We cannot doubt for a moment that the request will be granted, for to put it on the lowest scale, nobody is going to lose anything, as business is sure to be practically suspended during the time of the game. Besides, the closing of the stores for two short hours will be a deserved compliment to our own boys of The Dalles team, as well as an honor paid to the visiting team. It may be added that when our boys went to Heppner not only the stores closed while the game was in progress, but the teachers of the public schools gave the children a half holiday.
