HENRY WOODPILE CORBETT.

It was in 1872, says the Eugene Register, that Corbett's term was about to expire, and the story goes their old friends and as many new ones that over his own signature he pub. as need anything in the line of watches, lished in the Oregonian a statement clocks, jewelry and repairing. Optical to the effect that while he would like goods a specialty. Eyes examined free to succeed himself, he would abide by the decision of a caucus. When the legislature assembled the republican caucus unanimously chose the and the Weekly Oregonian, price $1.50, young and popular Portland attor- both papers for $2 a year. Subscriptions ney, John H. Mitchell; but Corbett, under this offer must be paid in adnotwithstanding his public letter, re fused to be bound by the caucus and organized a revolt. He succeeded in getting the democrats and eight republicans, who had stayed out of caucus to support him, and for a time it looked as though he would succeed in tying up the election. At that stage of the proceedings he came to grief through the skillful food, and that is Kedol Dyspepsia Cure. work of two of Mitchell's supporters, It cures the worst cases of indigestion Sam Corwin, of Grant county, and Sam Johnson, of Tillamook county, who, without the knowledge of Mitchell, undertook to expose the corrupt methods by which Corbett was endeavoring to secure the Don't forget this. election. Being satisfied that Corbett's managers were using money, they permitted themselves to appear willing to accept a bribe, and finally met Corbett's chief agent behind the woodpile near the old Chemeketa hotel in Salem, at night, and were paid $2000 each, with the understanding that they, on the vote next day, desert Mitchell and support Corbett. They waited until a few minutes before the hour of balloting when they handed Mr. Corbett a letter in which they threatened to expose him unless he withdrew his name. So successful was their plan that that gentleman made haste to notify his supporters that the game was up, and Mitchell was promptly elected. It was this circumstance that gave the unsuccessful candidate LOWNEY'S, just opened, fresh from the name of Henry Woodpile Corbett, that has so often appeared in for Christmas trade, and at prices to public print, but which has not perhaps been understood by the later LOWNEY settles it. generation of Oregonians.

In view of his record in 1898, in holding up the legislature by a cor. Geo. C. Blakeley, rupt combination in which populists, democrats and renegade republicans, such as Jonathan Bourne, of Portland, assisted, carrying out Corbett's plot to defeat the unanimous choice of the republican caucus, it is a little short of ridiculous to find him the stalwart advocate of the caucus system now.

The Heppner Gazette very truly says: "During the time that Senator McBride has represented Oregon he has done his full duty and has looked after the state's interests as well as any man could have done. He deserves a re-election on general principles, and the experience he has gained will inure to the benefit of the state."

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured. with local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hali's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials,

THE CELEBRATED

AUGUST BUCHLER, Prop.

Of the product of this well-known brewery the United States Health Reports for June 28, 1900, says: "A more superior brew never entered the labratory of the United States Health reports. It is absolutely devoid of the slightest trace of adulteration, but on the other hand is composed of the best of mait and choicest of hops. Its tonic qualities are of the highest and it can be used with the greatest benefit and satisfaction by old and young. Its use can conscientiously be prescribed by the physicians with the cersainty that a better, parer or more wholesome beverage could not possibly be found."
