Major Consens, commander of the Salvation Army in the North Pacific, lately from the East, will speak in the army hall tonight; also Major Farris, his secretary. The public is cordially invited.

A remonstrance against the cutting off of the southeastern portion of this county and attaching it to Sherman county was circulated over town today and was signed by everyone to whom the opportunity was given.

The mandamus proceedings brought by Drake C. O'Reilly against the Columbia Southern Railroad, to allow him to examine their books, was dismissed yesterday morning by Judge Fraser, costs being assessed to neither party. This is only one of the minor actions connected with the litigation between these parties. Three important suits are still pending.

THE CHRONICLE is reliably informed that the sentiment in the Antelope and Bakeoven precincts against that district being hitched on to Sherman county is very strong, especially among the stock men and large property owners.

The rumor that has prevailed here for the last three days of the death of Mrs. Neal Paulsen, we are pleased to say had no foundation in fact. Mrs. Paulsen has been very ill, but at this writing her friends have strong hopes of her recovery.

From the Walla Walla Union we learn that J. D. Lee, superintendent of the state penitentiary, is in Walla Walla this week for the purpose of examining the workings of the local prison and particularly to inspect the construction of the recently added dining hall, with the object in view of making a similar addition to the institution of which he is manager.

From the Telegram we learn that Charles Tracey, the man who struck Captain Johnston, mate of the steamer Dalles City, of the Regulator line, because the latter refused him work, pleaded guilty yesterday morning before Judge George to a charge of simple assault. He will not be sentenced until Wednesday, as the court desires to look into the matter further.

The Wasco News pays the following handsome compliment to the sister town of Moro: "One thing certain, no one can throw mud at Moro. Let it rain ever so hard; in a couple of days the sun shines, and the streets become so dry and clean you could drop a hot cake on the buttered side and pick it up without injury." We presume the News means without injury to the street.

Mr. J. Yager, for some months manager of the H. P. Isaacs Milling Co.'s flouring mills in Wasco, has resigned his position and accepted the same place with the company that is going to put up a 500 barrel flouring mill in The Dalles. Mr. Yager left Wednesday to take up his duties with the new company. He will be engaged for several weeks working out the many details for the plant. He will then superintend its construction and assume its general management. While we know but very little of the special requirements for the milling business, we are advised, and believe that Mr. Yager is thoroughly qualified to meet all of them, and we know from his record while among us that he has that strong personality and good judgment that commands the respect and confidence of solid business men.—Wasco News.

Two young fellows, who gave their names as A. C. Lewis and Al Hubbard, and claim to be from Newberg, Yamhill county, were arrested by Marshal Driver last night in an East End lodging house, while occupying the same room with a couple of girls, of about 18 years, from the same town. The girls were also placed under arrest. The boys claimed that they were married to the girls, but the girls own that the boys induced them to go off with them on a pleasure trip and that they had visited Astoria and Portland before coming here. The marshal has proof that the boys have been trying to put the girls on the town, probably with a view of deserting them, or more likely, as the marshal thinks, with a view of living on the wages of their infamy. The girls say their fathers' names are W. I. Smith and J. T. Bryan, and the marshal has sent a dispatch to these names asking what disposition they wish made of the girls. Meanwhile it is in order to remark that if there is any way by which these young Lotharios can be prevented ruining other young girls for a good long term of years, it is hoped the authorities will see to it that full justice is meted out to them.

PEGASUS AT HIS OLD TRICKS.

Recently Kicked a Sheep-Header With the Following Marvelous Result.

It will be news to many readers of THE CHRONICLE to learn that the very Pegasus that sprang from the body of Medusa after she was slain, and which, subsequently, with a kick of his off hind hoof, started the inspiring fountain of the muses from the bowels of Mount Helicon, visited the Sherar's Bridge country lately and with the same old hoof kicked the cranial vacancy of a sheep-header, or somebody of that ilk, so that there gushed forth the following elegant pastoral, which we reverently publish verbatim et literatim, et punctuatum.

PEOPLE COMING AND GOING.

S. A. D. Gurley, the Arlington attorney, was in town today. The CHRONICLE acknowledges a pleasant call.

Julius Baldwin, a former esteemed employe of this office, and for the past eight years with the Walla Walla Union, is in the city on a short visit with his old friends.

Max Lueddemann, of the Antelope Herald, arrived here yesterday to meet his mother, who arrived here yesterday from Alabama. Mrs. Lueddemann and her son left for Antelope on the noon train.

Another Irish Bull.

In the lobby of the house two members of parliament were discussing the honor being paid to Ireland and Irish troops. One was a Scotchman, the other an Irishman. The man from Scotland said, condescendingly:

"It's a' very weel to praise the Irish soldiers," and he proceeded to explain that while he was glad they were to wear the shamrock on St. Patrick's day, it must not be forgotten that the Highlanders had been fighting bravely, too; "they expected no special mark of favor for their services, they were always ready to brave death for their queen, and their loyalty was beyond reproach."

The Irishman interrupted indignantly: "I would have ye know, sorr," he cried, "there's as thrue a heart beats under an Irish soldier's tunic as beneath any Highlander's kilt!"

In less than ten minutes the story had gone round the house.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to tender our heart-felt thanks to the many friends and neighbors who in various ways manifested their sympathy for us in the loss of our beloved child, and in this connection we specially mention the name of Rev. D. V. Poling.

MARRIED.

Monday evening, January 21st, at the European House, Rev. W. Brenner officiating, Mr. James Dennis and Miss Margaret Isabel Scott, both of Grass Valley, Sherman county.

Taken dry as a powder, well washed down with copious libations of water, salt has been used for years as a simple home remedy. The only reason that the cure is not worse than the disease is that it gets washed down immediately, and a half-teaspoonful, which is usually a dose, is gone in a wink. One woman, well known in New York, vows it is better to salt now as a life-preserver. On the chateleine which she wears hangs a little box always filled with salt. Occasionally she takes a half-spoonful, the "grains of prevention," she calls them.
