WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

The Fortnightly will meet with Mrs. Ed French tomorrow afternoon.

The "Talent Gatherers" will hold their reception on the evening of February 22nd.

Miss Maude Michell began teaching a term of school in district No. 10, Chenoweth creek, last Monday.

Lost—An elk charm engraved F. J. B. A liberal reward will be given for its return to F. J. Bonn at Mays & Crowe.

James Harper and Sidney Kelly have done a very handsome job of painting and papering on the county judge's rooms in the court house, making them the handsomest rooms in the building.

The La Grande Chronicle has decided to abandon its weekly and semi-weekly editions and issue only a daily. La Grande is a small town for an experiment of that kind and the result will be watched with interest.

C. J. Crandall received a dispatch this forenoon informing him that the remains of the late Rasmus Rasmussen may be expected to arrive here on the 9:30 p. m. train. The funeral has, therefore, been fixed for 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Lutheran church.

Sullivan and Harris' scenic production, "The Angel of the Alley," at the Vogt last night, did not draw as good a house as the merits of the play warranted. The scenic work, under the direction of Chas. E. Bonnell, was very realistic. Especially can this be said of the electrocution scene.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Palmer, of La Grande celebrated the sixty-sixth anniversary of their wedding last Monday. They are aged 89 and 87 respectively. They claim to be one of eight couples who rode on the first railroad ever carrying passengers in the United States. In 1824, when Mrs. Palmer was a girl of 10 years she met and shook hands with La Fayette.

R. F. Wickham, of Dutch Flat, who was found guilty in Justice Brownhill's court last October of the larceny of hay, and was arrested here last Saturday on his persistent refusal to pay a fine of $25 after the justice had given him nearly three months in which to pay it, was released from custody yesterday, and from all punishment as well, on a writ of habeas corpus sued out before Judge Bradshaw by Wickham's attorneys, Messrs. Moore & Gavin. Wickham's escape is due to a technical error in the docket entry of the justice.

Among the heirlooms of the Reiff family years hence that will no doubt be very highly prized will be the following dispatch received by the diminutive jockey, Johnny Reiff, from King Edward VII. of England in response to a message of condolence sent him on the death of his mother, the queen: "My Dear Little Johnny—Your tender message of sympathy to me in this, the saddest hour of affliction that I have ever known, will be one of my most cherished assurances of a brave American boy's love. I thank you. Your true friend and comrade in the old days. Edward VII."

Municipal Judge Cameron, of Portland, yesterday fined five young men $5 each for playing poker for drinks. The court admitted the evidence of two of the defendants that they were merely playing "freezes out" for drinks and not for money, but held that the smallness of the stake, or the use to which it might be applied by the winner, had nothing to do with the statute; gambling for a glass of beer or a cigar came within the statute as truly as for a barrel of beer or a box of cigars. If the Portland authorities really mean to enforce the law against gambling, this decision of Judge Cameron will be very far reaching in its effect. Should the decision be sustained and the law enforced, the nickle-in-the-slot machines have received their death blow.

The regular editor of the Oregon City Enterprise is doing time in the Oregon legislature as senator from Clackamas county, and he has a substitute who is a genuine wag, as the following will indicate: "Mrs. Nation, Mrs. Nation, what the mischief do you mean? Why, your conduct there in Kansas is the worst we've ever seen! Smashing bars and bowls and pictures—that's no way for you to act. If you don't let up a little, folks will say you must be cracked! Mr. Sheldon's little booklet would, we think, be good for you—'In His Steps,' you know. Mrs. Nation, or 'What Would Jesus Do?' Take the book home Mrs. Nation; cut the leaves and read it well. That will be a whole lot better than your way of raising—well, we think, good Mrs. Nation, that it's time for you to quit. We don't like your style, Mrs. Nation, not one tiny little bit."

S. Ban filed in the circuit court of Wasco county this morning a complaint against the Columbia Southern Railway Company, A. E. Hammond, Archie Mason and the New York Security and Trust Company, praying for a decree and judgment against the defendants for the sum of $25,365.86, with interest at six per cent per annum from July 10, 1900, and the further sum of $54 for preparing, filing and recording mechanic liens on the property of the defendants to cover the claims of the plaintiff, and the further sum of $6000 as attorney's fees. Exhibits attached to the complaint show that the claim is for the contract price of work done by the plaintiff in the construction of the Columbia Southern on that part of the road lying between Moro and Shaniko. The complaint was filed by Attorney A. C. Emmons, of Portland.

A Singular Case of Cruelty.

A report has reached La Grande, says the Journal, of one of the most cruel and inhuman cases in the criminal annals of Wallawa county. It seems that two boys the son of R. C. Greig and the son of Widow Ward, had quarreled. The quarrel was no more serious than the average boys' quarrel, but R. C. Greig, who is a druggist, prompted by parental partiality coupled with a cruel nature, provided his son with an acid which the boy threw in the face of the other boy. The effect was just what was contemplated; it disfigures the boy for life and caused damage to, if not complete loss of eyesight.

There is strong feeling against Greig. Some talk of publicly mobbing him and others even of lynching. He had his preliminary trial and was held to appear on $500 bonds, but at last reports he had not been able to secure bonds, owing to the feeling against him. The boy was held on $300 bonds.

OREGON LEGISLATURE.

No Significant Change in the Senatorial Vote

Special to THE CHRONICLE.]
SALEM, Feb. 6, 1901.—The following business was transacted in the house this forenoon:
A number of senate bills were read the second time and referred.
A number of reports of standing and special committees were read and adopted.
The Oregon Industrial College bill was not acted on but was ordered printed.
Several senate bills were passed, the most important being the bill to reduce the interest on the loaned school funds.
Representative Eddy offered a resolution providing for an appropriation of $250 to help purchase a sword for Captain Clark of the battleship Oregon.
The senate transacted the following business:
Marster's bill was passed providing for the execution of all criminals sentenced to capital punishment at the state penitentiary, instead of at the county jails as heretofore.
Senator Kaykendall's bill was passed providing for county and district high schools.
The vote for senator resulted as follows: Corbett, 30; McBride, 21; Smith, 26; Hermann, 7; Fouton, 2; Moore, 1; Lowell, 1; absent and not voting, 2.
Reeder, who has hitherto voted for McBride, voted today for the first time for Corbett, and Dresser, who has been voting for Moore, voted for the first time for McBride.

MINISTER HAS A QUEER CAT.

A New York Pet That Can Tell an "at Home" Day and Knows His Mail.

Not the least important dweller in the home of the pastor of a popular and fashionable uptown New York church is a marmoset cat, beautifully marked and of rare breed, which shall be called Jim. That is not the real name of this household pet, who would probably scorn so common a one as Jim, but there are reasons why he should not be too closely identified. Jim is no common cat. He knows his friends among the callers at the home of the minister, and those to whom he does not take a fancy are pretty apt to find it out. He knows the "at home" day as well as any member of the family, and on that day takes a prominent place on the divan, ready to receive the attentions of those of the callers whom he numbers among his friends and purr his satisfaction when they fondle him, says a New York paper.

This minister had occasion to move his residence a short time ago, and of course Jim moved with the family. He did not seem to like the new place. He went from room to room, looked carefully at the wall papers, seemed to sniff at them as though they did not meet his approval, and then he disappeared. An hour later he appeared again, somewhat battered and bruised, took another look at the wall decorations and seemed to decide that, unsatisfactory though they were, it was better to endure them than the perils to be encountered abroad.

Next door to the old home of the minister lived a woman who was very fond of Jim and who regretted the circumstances that brought about a change of residence. She wrote a letter the other day and addressed it to "Jim." This letter was placed by a maid on a hatrack in the hall, along with the other letters delivered at the same time. Jim seemed to know this letter was intended for him, because when a member of the family came downstairs that morning he was found trying to tear open the envelope. Strangely enough, he had never taken such a liberty with a letter before that time and has not disturbed any letter since.

Although Jim has lived all his life in the home of a minister, he does not always show that humility which would naturally be expected. He likes to make visits, but no other cat is allowed on his premises. Next door to Jim's home is a house he likes to visit. He will roam all through it and play with the cat which comes there, but the other day when the neighbor's cat came, as if to return a call, Jim met him at the door, hit him on the side of the head with a paw and marched proudly up the stairs, as though he had done something worthy of a minister's household.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised 'Electric Bitters'; and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c, guaranteed, at Blakeley's drug store.

How to Cure Croup.

Mr. R. Gray, who lives near Amenia, Dutchess county, N. Y., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best medicine I have ever used. It is a fine children's remedy for croup and never fails to cure." When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has developed, it will prevent the attack. This should be borne in mind and a bottle of the Cough Remedy kept at hand ready for instant use as soon as these symptoms appear. For sale by Blakeley, the druggist.

Your Face

Shows the state of your feelings and the state of your health as well. Impure blood makes itself apparent in a pale and sallow complexion, Pimples and Skin Eruptions. If you are feeling weak and worn out and do not have a healthy appearance you should try Acker's Blood Elixir. It cures all blood diseases where cheap Sarsaparillas and so called purifiers fail; knowing this we sell every bottle on a positive guarantee. Blakeley, the druggist.
