PEASE & MAYS

SALMAGUNDI.

Mark Twain thus refers to an institution of recent growth in some eastern cities: "The Daughters of the Royal Crown—there's an American idea for you! God knows what specified form of insanity it represents, it isn't softening of the brain; you cannot soften a thing that doesn't exist. There are none eligible but the American descendants of Charles II. How the fancy products of that old harem still hold up."

A reader of the Atlanta Constitution writes to the editor from Liberty county, Georgia, as follows: "Desiring to embark in the literary business, I will state that I will swap one mule and two grown hogs for a first-class bookcase containing Byron's poems, Bunyan's 'Pilgrim's Progress,' Colonel Scott's novels, Mr. Dickens' 'Lampwick Papers' and a few 'Guides to Literary Composition.' This offer open for thirty days."

A High valley farmer drove into La Grande one day last week. He had a top box on his wagon, but over the edge could be seen the heads of several sheep end some young stock. As he drove on he was accosted by a swell city dude, who thought he would crack a joke on the hay-seed, and sang out: "Say, Noah, your ark seems to be pretty well crowded today!" The farmer looked and unconcerned he replied: "Don't you worry; I have reserved a place for the jackass, and you can step right in." The city upstart looked like thirty cents, never squeaked, and the farmer drove on.—Cove Courier.

Congressman Cushman's somewhat caustic utterances on the Columbia river bar recalls a question once asked by Jerry Simpson of a southern legislator, who wanted an appropriation for the mouth of a stream called Fishing creek. "May I ask the honorable gentleman a question?" said the inquisitive Jerry. "Certainly, sir," was the reply. "Is the water deep enough on the bar at the mouth of Fishing creek to enable the fish to get over the bar without lightening?" Jerry's question added somewhat to the fame of that gentleman as a humorist, and also killed the appropriation for Fishing creek.

Tony Gioveni, 2 years old, was seized and carried off by an immense gray eagle recently while the child was in the yard of his home in a Denver suburb. The child's screams brought the father and two other men to the door in time to see the bird and the child disappear over the bluff of the Platt river. The men gave chase and saw the eagle alight on a small island covered with underbrush, half a mile from the child's home. When the men arrived at the island the bird attempted to rise again with the boy, but his clothing caught in a bush, and the eagle, seeing the men close at hand with clubs, dropped his prey and flew away. The boy is not badly hurt.

The other day a stranger came to town and was being shown about the lower end of the island when, reaching Broad street and Exchange place, where a monster sky-scraper is rearing its head, he inquired: "What building is that?" "Why don't you know?" replied the guide. "Part of it's yours." "Mine?" "Yes; you own $300,000 worth of it." In Nassau street he saw another cloud obstructor. "What building is that?" he asked. "Yours; your money built it, and you own every brick in it." In Broadway the same inquiry was made about a third firmament support, and a similar reply was elicited—"it belongs to you and two others." The visitor turned out to be a patent medicine proprietor from a neighboring state, who was looking upon some of his investments for the first time.

The pie-biters of Belmont held their weekly meeting at G. D. Woodworth's last Friday evening, says the Hood River Glacier. The proceedings of this society are said to be entertaining and of a high intellectual nature. The members line up at the supper table with their hands tied behind their backs. The man or woman who can devour two pieces of pie the quickest gets the prize. When they met at Gessling's, not long ago, the champion pie-biter got a picture of a hog in a frame for his prize. Another method of the pie-biters to show their accomplishments is to see who can bite through the most pies laid up in layers. One man with a record of biting through thirteen pies, attempted to make it fourteen, but some over-zealous rival inserted a tin plate between the layers, and the champion was defeated.

Mexico has quite a curious animal in the form of a mule-footed hog. This single-hoofed animal is called chinngakoto by the Indians, meaning pig-mule. He is regarded as far superior to the razor-back and not at all like him. "The mule-footed hog's home is in the mountains. He is a very small-legged blocky little fellow; black, or black and white,

How to Cure Croup.

Mr. R. Gray, who lives near Amenia, Dutchess county, N. Y., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best medicine I have ever used. It is a fine children's remedy for croup and never fails to cure." When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has developed, it will prevent the attack. This should be borne in mind and a bottle of the Cough Remedy kept at hand ready for instant use as soon as these symptoms appear. For sale by Blakeley, the druggist.

Your Face

Shows the state of your feelings and the state of your health as well. Impure blood makes itself apparent in a pale and sallow complexion, Pimples and Skin Eruptions. If you are feeling weak and worn out and do not have a healthy appearance you should try Acker's Blood Elixir. It cures all blood diseases where cheap Sarsaparillas and so called purifiers fail; knowing this we sell every bottle on a positive guarantee. Blakeley, the druggist.

Reports show a greatly increased death rate from throat and lung troubles, due to the prevalence of croup, pneumonia and grippe. Carl Peetz, one of Sherman county's solid farmers, was in town today.

Murdock J. Finlayson, who has been stopping at the European House for a few days, returned today to his home in Antelope.

Moro has a well-developed case of smallpox in the person of the wife of George Higgenbotham, the livery stable keeper of that town.

A delayed train going west this afternoon carried two carloads of human kids. It is suspected that they are an eastern contribution to the Oregon orphan asylum.

The city sewer at the foot of Washington street caved in last night, making a large hole immediately south of the main railroad track on First street and a lake of sewer water in the vicinity. As soon as the cave-in was discovered the marshal put men to work repairing the damage.

Dr. James Sutherland, of Spokane, who with Mrs. Sutherland arrived here a couple of days ago from a month's sojourn in California, left for home this morning. Mrs. Sutherland will remain here with her parents for a couple of weeks.

This afternoon the circuit court took up the case of J. J. Hecker vs. the O. R. & N. Co. This is a case wherein Mr. Hecker seeks to recover damages for an accident received from a passing freight train at a railroad crossing below Crate's Point. Bennett & Sinnott appear for the plaintiff.

All men are equal the day they are born and the day they are buried, but the man who has traded at A. M. Williams & Co.'s generally has a little cash laid by. That reminds us that there's a little extra saving just at present on those $2.50 brown Fedoras at $1.75, and several other bargains mentioned in their ad. Read and be posted.

The Goldendale Sentinel says there are several coveys of Chinese pheasants near that town and they are doing well. "In the winter time," says the Sentinel, "when snow is on the ground, these birds get very tame, coming into barn yards and feeding with the chickens; and our farmers throw them a little feed if they come to their fields during the winter months."

Hon. R. E. Misener, of Mitchell, was in town today on his way to Dawson City, where he expects to remain for the next couple of years if things turn out as he hopes they may. He will be accompanied by a brother-in-law, who will meet him in Portland and who has large business interests in Dawson. Lee Vanover, of Mitchell, also accompanies Mr. Misener. The party expects to sail from Seattle on the 18th.

The case of August Reese, administrator, against Wasco county, was given to the jury at 10:30 last night. No agreement was reached till after 4 this morning, when a sealed verdict was returned in favor of the county. It is said that the first ballot showed 11 to 1 in favor of the county, but the single juror held out for about six hours before yielding. The attorneys in the case were Moore & Gavin for the plaintiff and Menefee & Wilson for the defendant.

George Crofton, of Crofton Prairie, Klickitat county, died Monday at Centerville from the effects of la grippe. He was born in the county of Roscommon, Ireland, sixty-two years ago last October, and immigrated to America when he was 20 years of age, settling in the state of New York, coming to this county and settling at Crofton Prairie in July, 1873. He leaves a wife and two daughters, who reside in New York state. Mr. Crofton was a man well liked and esteemed by all our people, and was a good neighbor and citizen.—Sentinel.

A well-known farmer in the Lower Fifteen Mile neighborhood worked a nice little game on a deputy sheriff, the other day. The deputy, armed with a subpoena, went out to the farmer's place to bring him here as a witness in the Reese case against the county. The farmer suspected that he would be wanted and kept a sharp lookout. As the deputy hoveed in sight the farmer rushed to the house, undressed as quick as lightning and wrapping a cloth around his head, crept into bed. In trembling whispers the farmer told the deputy that he was "awfully sick."

hadn't slept a wink nor eaten a bite for ever so long and was so weak that he could not leave his bed without assistance. The scheme worked like a charm. The deputy's sympathies were deeply moved. The dangerous illness of the witness was duly reported and the case was decided without any help from the farmer.

OREGON LEGISLATURE.

Herman Gains One Vote But the Old Man of the Sea Still Holds His Thirty-two.

Special to THE CHRONICLE.

SALEM, Feb. 15, 1901.—The house this morning passed a bill that provides that all changes in city charters shall be made by the resident voters and not by the legislature.

Also Watson's bill fixing the salary of the sheriff of Multnomah county.

Also Bernard's bill providing that all schools chartered by the state shall be furnished with copies of the proceedings of the legislature and of the session laws.

Watson's bill, known as the anti free lunch bill, was defeated.

Smith, of Multnomah, introduced a bill providing for reducing the salary of the state printer to one-half what it is at present.

The senate resolved to meet hereafter every morning at 9 o'clock and every evening at 7:30.

The measure relating to the election of road supervisors was defeated. Also Wehrong's bill to reimburse Washington county for taxes stolen from the county treasurer.

The vote for United States senator resulted as follows: Corbett 32; Hermann 30; Inman 25; Williams 1; Robertson 1; absent 1.
