In the future till further notice the general delivery at the postoffice will be open Sunday from 2 to 3 o'clock in the afternoon instead of from 3 to 4.

There recently died in New York, says the Boston Journal, at the age of 119, a man who attributed his longevity to his habit of taking four egg-nogs a day; and there recently died in New Jersey, at the age of 129, a man who thought well of the fact that he never ate or drank an egg in his life.

Died, February 23d, of pneumonia, at Seattle, Wash., Arch Wilson, aged 63 years and 10 months. The deceased is the father of Mrs. William Glassius, of this city. He was a resident of The Dalles for about sixteen years, and left here for Seattle about three years ago. The funeral took place at Seattle today.

Robert Mays, Jr., who arrived here today from the ranch near Antelope, says that among his numerous friends and neighbors in and around Antelope he knows only one republican who was in favor of Corbett's election. There may be others, of course, but Mr. Mays does not know them. Senator Mitchell's election gives great satisfaction.

Alex. Drysdale, a Pendleton wheat buyer, arrived here today and identified the horse stolen by Ed Wilson, as described in yesterday's CHRONICLE, as the property of Mr. Drysdale's mother-in-law, Mrs. Day, of Dayton. The chain of evidence against Wilson is now so complete that it is highly probable that his horse-stealing is ended for a term of years.

Umatilla county women have been infected with the Carrie Nation contagion. About a dozen angry wives went in a body to a saloon at Freewater, armed with axes and hatchets, and threatened total demolition if the proprietor refused to promise to quit business. The women were diplomatically enticed out of doors, when the place was locked and further disturbance was avoided.

Gumbert, the cigar man, has in his store a brand new $300 piano, which he proposes to give away to somebody, absolutely free of cost. For the next three or four months every purchaser of 25 cents' worth of goods, whether in the line of tobaccos and cigars, periodicals, or anything else in his store, will get a ticket entitling him or her to a chance on the piano. This is an unparalleled offer which ought to greatly increase his business.

"The Star Boarder," a clever farce comedy, with numerous good specialty features, including an excellent chorus, was the attraction at the Grand last evening. Chas. H. Boyle, as the star boarder, kept the audience in a prolonged state of hilarity, and he was ably assisted by a capable company. The play is well deserving of patronage for those who wish to spend an evening in never ending amusement.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat. "The Star Boarder," will be at the Vogt opera house, Wednesday, March 6th.

J. M. Dennecker, the Newark man who began to eat cats a few weeks ago, because he thought they were good for consumption, was fined $50 for slaughtering animals within the city limits. Dennecker told the judge he thought he had tuberculosis, and he knew that cat flesh would benefit him. He also wanted to bring his children up to eat cats, and he demanded why he should not be permitted to do so. Judge Lamb called Dennecker a brute and fined him the limit. Dennecker promised to fore-swear cat diet.—Walla Walla Statesman.

Governor Roosevelt, in speaking once of his experience in the far West, made this confession: "You know I am not nearly so fond of 'broncho-bussing' and riding wild horses as some persons might have you think. It wasn't because I liked that kind of work that I did it. But I always took just what came, and if it happened to be the wild-est animal in the bunch I got on, and stayed on, too, for when I got on I made up my mind to stay, and I have yet to see the broncho that could make me give in."—March Ladies Home Journal.

"When Theodore Roosevelt has closed the door of his home behind him the soldier, the statesman, the reformer, the writer, are all shut out, and only the husband and the father enter, says the March Ladies' Home Journal. "His devotion to his wife and children is ideal. To the latter he is not only a father, but also a big, overgrown brother. One of his chief delights is to get down on all fours in the nursery and play bear with the younger ones. When the little bears tire he sometimes sings old Dutch folk-songs for them. Though his voice was never intended for singing, there is a certain quaintness and rough charm about these memories of Holland that greatly delight the children."

Hon. E. L. Smith, president of the state board of horticulture, places the acreage of commercial apple orchards in Oregon at 16,500, with an average value of $100 per acre. In making this estimate he feels convinced that the valuation would be increased fully 20 per cent if the trees were planted on an average of 30 feet apart instead of as in so many orchards from 10 to 20 feet apart, and that there would be another increase of 20 per cent in value if not one of these orchards contained not over a few varieties. There are too many early varieties and too many of unknown fame to draw a good trade in the markets. At one fruit fair he counted as many as 130 varieties.

Willie, the 5-year-old son of Jaylor Fitzgerald, while playing with some companions on the foot-log across Mill creek, near the company's shops, fell into the creek, which is now a raging torrent, and, before being rescued, was swept down the creek a distance of probably a hundred yards. While the child was struggling in the water and a woman on the bank was trying to reach him, Oscar Syreen, a waiter in the Columbia hotel, rushed to the spot and dashing into the stream at the risk of his own life landed the lad safely on the bank. The stream at the point where the boy was rescued took Mr. Syreen to the neck. The little fellow could not swim, but he beat the water with his arms and fought bravely for his life. He was none the worse for his bath and was able to walk home.

The following birth notice appears in the Fossil Journal: "Arthur Hodges, ex-county clerk of Crook county, kept the telephone wires of Oregon hot on the 18th inst., informing friends throughout the state that he had just become the father of the finest girl in Oregon. The new county of Wheeler is partially responsible for the event that has thrown Arthur nearly out of his head this week, for he had the reputation of a confirmed bachelor until Ex-Senator Alonzo Gesner, of Salem, got the contract to transcribe the Wheeler county records, and his pretty daughter went over to Hodges' office at Prineville to assist with the transcribing. The rest of the story is recent history.

CHANGE OF BILL.

The Famous Play "The Wife" to Be Given Instead of the Minstrel.

Owing to unforeseen circumstances, the minstrel performance of the D. C. & A. C. football team has been indefinitely postponed, and will not be given on the 28th as advertised. Instead, Mr. Percy Levin, who will be remembered by the people of The Dalles, will produce, with local talent, the great New York success, "The Wife." This is a play they ran for two nights at the Lyceum theater, and is produced by Mr. Levin by special arrangement with Mr. Daniel Frohman. The scenes are laid in Washington City, and the play deals with life at the national capital. It is in four acts. The comedy is splendid and the pathos and heart interest some of the most beautiful ever written. Herbert Keley and Effie Shannon played it during its long run on this coast. The famous Frawley company, with Blanche Bates, presented it with much success. Some of the leading features that were to be used in the minstrel will be placed between acts, thus making a continuous performance.

The cast will be announced later, and also the special features. The date has been set as March 12th.

Those who saw "A Summer's Fancy" presented under Mr. Levin's direction will look forward with keen pleasure to this production.

It will be for the benefit of the D. C. & A. C. football team.

Work at Cascade Locks.

Contractor H. W. Campbell, who was awarded the contract for repairing both paved slopes on the sides of the lower entrance to cascade locks canal, has completed the work; in fact it was finished several days ago and fully two months in advance of the time specified, according to the Telegram. The government awarded the contract for $70,000. After being inspected by United States Engineer Captain W. W. Harts, the work was pronounced satisfactory, with the exception of a small amount of grading to be done above the rock work. The contract was concluded profitably by the contractor.

The damage to the locks was the result of the flood of 1894, and the delay in starting the work was due to the division of opinion held by many. Some thought the repairs being made by contract would not be satisfactory, and that the work could not be finished within the time specified. Mr. Campbell has been at work there since 1899, with Captain Harts as supervisor.

As the pavement has a thickness of three feet it was necessary to utilize a large amount of stone, which was obtained a short distance below the scene on the river bank. The pavement has been backed with rock and not sand, as was the case before, and it is believed the work will withstand coming floods.

AUGUST BUCHLER, Prop.

Of the product of this well-known brewery the United States Health Reports for June 28, 1900, says: "A more superior brew never entered the laboratory of the United States Health reports. It is absolutely devoid of the slightest trace of adulteration, but on the other hand is composed of the best of malt and choicest of hops. Its tonic qualities are of the highest and it can be used with the greatest benefit and satisfaction by old and young. Its use can conscientiously be prescribed by the physicians with the certainty that a better, purer or more wholesome beverage could not possibly be found."

East Second Street, THE DALLES, OREGON.

A Gentle Hint.

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature,—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day,—it is no wonder that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Boschee's German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill, and perhaps death, by the use of three or four doses. For curing Consumption, Hemorrhages, Pneumonia, severe Coughs, Croup, or any disease of the Throat or Lungs, its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you. Get a sample bottle free from Clarke & Falk. Regular size, 75 cents. Get Green's prize almanac.
