

THE TREATY IS IN FORCE

Attitude of England on the Canal Question—Declines to Modify Its Terms

LONDON, March 9.—The reply of the British government to the note conveying the amendments of the United States to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty should be formally delivered by the British ambassador at Washington to Secretary Hay within a few days. The foreign office here did not originally contemplate delaying the British answer until now. The plan, it appears, was to transmit the answer previous to the date on which the treaty lapsed which, according to the British view of the case, would have put the onus of its lapsing on the senate.

As previously set forth in these dispatches, the main object of the British government throughout is to make an entirely new arrangement. At no stage of the proceedings has there been any inclination to accept the senate's amendments.

It is understood here that the nature of the British government's reply has already been informally communicated to Secretary Hay. Great Britain has no intention of modifying the Clayton-Bulwer treaty without a satisfactory quid pro quo. The treaty, according to the foreign office view of the case, remains as much in force now as the day it was signed. The speeches made in the senate do not disturb Downing street. They are dismissed with the remark that "treaties cannot be abrogated without the consent of both the contracting parties." There is, however, an apparently genuine belief here that a satisfactory arrangement will eventually be arrived at. There is a freely expressed disinclination on the part of the British officials to commit themselves to any further treaties until they are thoroughly assured of the views the senate holds on the matter in question.

Abolition of the Canteen.

CHICAGO, March 9.—Army officers at headquarters of the department of the lakes express the opinion that last night's rioting at Highwood, near Fort

Sheridan, during which a number of soldiers were injured, was due entirely to the abolition of the army canteen. General Otis, in command of the department, said tonight:

"I was strongly opposed to the army canteen when first proposed, but from investigation I found it worked so much better than I expected that I was compelled to indorse it. Under that system the profits went to buy delicacies for the men's tables. Now the men spend more and the profits go to the owners of private gin mills."

Harrison is Worse.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 10.—The condition of ex-President Harrison is serious. Dr. Jameson stated today that the upper part of General Harrison's left lung was inflamed. There is some danger of the congestion extending to the rest of the lung and to the right lung. Until 3 o'clock this afternoon, General Harrison was resting easy, but at that time he became slightly worse and Dr. Jameson was called. He said he was certain nothing was to be apprehended for the next 48 hours but the age of the patient renders all calculations uncertain. At 8 o'clock this evening General Harrison was suffering some pain, but was resting comparatively easy.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 11.—At an early hour this (Monday) morning there was no change in the condition of General Harrison, either for the worse or better. He was still resting easily, with little pain, but rather a high fever. His temperature at midnight was 102.3. Dr. Francis O. Dorsey remains at the residence all night, to be in readiness at any unfavorable symptom in the patient.

He Kept His Leg.

Twelve years ago J. W. Sullivan, of Hartford, Conn., scratched his leg with a rusty wire. Inflammation and blood poisoning set in. For two years he suffered intensely. Then the best doctors urged amputation, "but," he writes, "I used one bottle of Electric Bitters and 11-2 boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and my leg was sound and well as ever." For Eruptions, Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Sores and all blood disorders Electric Bitters has no rival on earth. Try them. G. C. Blakeley will guarantee satisfaction or refund money. Only 50 cents.

J. H. MITCHELL IS SWORN IN

His Appearance Was Greeted With a Demonstration—Appointed to McBride's Place—On the Inter-Oceanic Committee Upon Request of Senator Morgan, of Alabama.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—After proceedings lasting only six days, the extraordinary session of the senate was declared adjourned sine die at 1:55 p. m., today.

During the session very little business except of an executive character was transacted. John H. Mitchell, recently elected senator from Oregon, was presented by his colleague, Senator Joseph Simon, and took the oath of office. He was given a cordial reception by his colleagues on the floor, many of whom had served in the senate with him, and by his friends in the galleries, who greeted his appearance with hearty applause.

Several baskets of beautiful roses and jonquils, arranged in delicate designs, adorned the desk of Senator Mitchell when the senate convened today. Senator Simon, of Oregon, announced that his recently elected colleague, Mr. Mitchell, was present and requested that the oath of office be administered to him, as a matter of privilege. On the arm of Senator Simon advanced to the vice-president's desk. As they ascended the platform, the galleries, recognizing Mitchell, cordially applauded him, and the vice-president sharply rebuked the spectators for the applause.

Morgan, chairman of the committee on inter-oceanic canals, asked unanimous consent that Mitchell be appointed to succeed his predecessor, McBride, as a member of that committee. He realized, he said, that it was an unusual request, but it was made because of the notable interest in canal legislation always manifested by Mitchell, who, like McBride, was an earnest and able advocate of the construction of the canal. After the request had been granted without comment, Hoar, addressing the chair, remarked that for very obvious reasons no objections were made to the request of Morgan, but he felt bound to say that it was likely to give rise to a great inconvenience on both sides of the chamber. If any further requests of such a nature were made by individual senators, he said, he would feel bound to object.

Is Close to Death.

PEKIN, March 10.—Li Hung Chang is again seriously ill, and his physician says his life hangs by a thread.

Prince Ching and Earl Li seem to think that by spreading rumors of the court's unwillingness to return to Pekin, unless this or that thing is done, they can influence the deliberations of the ministers of the powers. As a matter of fact, according to reliable reports from Sinan Fu, the imperial personages are extremely uncomfortable at Sinan Fu, where they live in the house of the governor, which is only a small structure. French missionaries who have just returned from Sinan Fu believe that the empress dowager would bring the court back to Pekin on the first offer of the allies, having as a basis the removal of the troops, except the legion guards.

PETTICOAT COLONELS

Royal Ladies of Europe Who Don Regimentals.

Queen and Princesses Lead Troops, Participate in Drills, and Ride with Skill and Grace—Kings Are Poor Horsemen.

It is not generally known that most of the royal ladies of Europe are colonels of both infantry and cavalry regiments, and that some of them even devote a good deal of time and attention to their subordinate soldiers. Nearly all of them, when arrayed in their regimental garb, seem to lose every vestige of feminine appearance, and at a distance they certainly look very manly.

Foremost among the feminine royal colonels is the German empress. Her majesty is chief of the famous First regiment of imperial cuirassiers. Often on parade days the empress may be seen riding at the head of this military body, and, after saluting the emperor, rein in beside him and let the regiments pass. She cuts a dashing figure, as she is tall and well formed. Her regimental uniform is very showy—red facings on a pure white material, surmounted by a three-cornered hat with large, drooping heron's plumes.

Queen Margherita of Italy has grown quite stout of late, and just before King Humbert's assassination ordered a brand new colonel's uniform, in which she appeared at the head of a regiment of Hessian rangers. This royal amazon is very seldom seen on horseback in her own country, but when on a visit to the duchy of Hresin she delights in honoring her regiment, of which she was made an honorary chief by Kaiser Wilhelm. Her late husband's most devoted friend and ally.

The kaiser's mother, ex-Empress Frederick, is chief of the Second regiment of imperial hussars. She is perhaps the only royal woman who has retained her feminine looks on horseback. Despite her advanced age she looks quite pretty. She is also commanding officer of the Eighteenth infantry, battalions of which are stationed at Homburg and Wiesbaden, within a couple of hours' ride of her summer residence. During her stay there she frequently invites the acting colonel, staff and the line officers to dine with her and discuss regimental matters, and at times she attends the field exercises of her men.

A very manly appearance has the Grand Duchess Victoria of Hesse when dressed in her regimentals as colonel of the Third regiment of Hessian infantry. She is very enthusiastic about her soldiers, and does not regard her position as honorary. She is often on the parade ground, even when the regiment is at work. Then she appears in undress uniform, consisting of a dark blue coat, red collar and cuffs, edged with blue, and a heavy black skirt. What gives her a manly appearance more than anything else is her peaked helmet, tightly strapped about her chin.

The Crown Princess Maria of Roumania is another royal female colonel, who considers herself bound to her regiment in more than name. She is the chief of the Fourth regiment of Roumanian hussars. She looks very imposing at the head of her troops, and is a very skillful horsewoman. This petticoat colonel is a woman of versatile talents; she has written voluminously in the sphere of fiction and histrionics. As an amateur actress, both in the German and Roumanian languages, she has displayed wonderful talents, and it is said of her that she is the power behind the throne in Roumania.

Among younger royal female colonels are the Crown Princess Charlotta of Saxe-Meiningen and Princess Adolph of Schaumburg-Lippe. The former is chief of the King Frederick III. regiment of grenadiers, and the latter commands the 147th Westphalian infantry.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, the youngest of all, is chief of a number of Dutch and German regiments. She looks exceedingly pretty in the uniform of a general of the royal horse guards, dark blue, with gold facings, epaulettes and the numerous insignia of rank. Sometimes she appears at the head of her troops riding on her favorite pony "Baby," wearing a white amazon riding habit, with the regulation tall black hat.

It is a curious fact that while nearly all the royal ladies of Europe are superb and picturesque horsewomen, few of the reigning sovereigns are even tolerable riders. Emperor William has not a firm seat, and is at a disadvantage because of his crippled arm, and always mounts with assistance of some kind.

King Humbert of Italy was famous for his falls, the emperor of Russia is not a master of the equestrian art, and the kings of Sweden, Greece and Denmark absolutely abhor riding. The king of Portugal finds no enjoyment when mounted because of his "emboupoint." Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria cannot ride for an hour at a time, and King Alexander of Serbia is afraid of horses.

Fox Hunting a Costly Luxury.

Fox hunting comes high in Britain. Some interesting particulars relating to the first cost of the sport were given by Lord Bathurst. There are now 221 packs of foxhounds in the United Kingdom—180 in England, 26 in Scotland and 15 in Ireland, and these packs consist of 8,000 couples of hounds, and they necessitate the employment of 100,000 horses of the value of $35,000,000, involving an outlay of $25,000,000 per annum for their maintenance.
