New and Dainty Wash Fabrics.

While wearing-time has not yet arrived, still Wash Goods are selling every day. Ladies in furs and winter garments buying the thinnest of summer dresses seems strange, but therein they show their shopping wisdom of "coming early." So many and varied are the patterns that they would really become tiresome, were it not for their entrancing beauty.

E. H. Flagg, editor of the Salem Weekly Sentinel, who published a red hot daily in opposition to Corbett during the recent session of the legislature, has been rewarded for his services by an appointment to the position of deputy United States collector of internal revenue for the Nome, Alaska, district, with headquarters at Circle City. This is an office made vacant by the removal of T. C. Malone, of Portland. Mr. Flagg was a member of the state legislature from Marion county two years ago.

The revival meeting at the Methodist church was well attended last evening. The many young people taking part in the singing made the service bright and interesting. Rev. E. Charles Parker will conduct a fifteen-minute song service this evening beginning at 7:30. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present.

Mr. C. L. Schmidt, assessor of Wasco county, calls the attention of parties interested to the following: In making conveyances of real property, transferring ownership of land or town lots from one party to another, to have the deed recorded without delay in the Wasco county records of deeds. The omission of recording the same will lead to assessing such property to the wrong owner, as also sometimes to double assessment. This will, of course, apply to U. S. patents or to patents from the state of Oregon. The point is that where these are promptly recorded, as they ought to be for the owner's own safety, mistakes in assessment are not liable to occur.

Philip Sousa says in his description of Herr Schott: "Among the matchless heroes of German dramatic art, the names of the peerless tenors, Anton Schott and Albert Niemann will go down to posterity among the first. Wagner has had no higher exponents of his grand muse, and as for Schott, he is equally great as an interpreter of the exacting Wagner roles or of the tender sentiments of an Italian serenade. With his noble presence, his exalted style, his pure method and his feeling and soulful expression of every phase of the lyric art he has commanded the enthusiastic plaudits of the audiences of all great theaters in Europe. Anton Schott, the favorite alike of German, Italian, French and English audiences, will record new triumphs among the appreciative music lovers of the New World." At the Vogt Saturday night.

John Rehren, a stranger here, who had been in the city only about four days, died suddenly at the Columbia hotel last night. Rehren claimed to have been working in a tie and wood camp on the Washington side of the river and to have come here for medical attendance. He appeared to be about 50 years old and had money to pay his way. He took to his bed for the first time yesterday morning, and before 11 o'clock last night he was a corpse. When Mr. Toomey saw that the end was near he inquired of the stranger if he would not like the services of a priest or minister, and was informed by the dying man that he had no faith in God nor devil, heaven nor hell, and therefore had no use for a clergyman. All inquiries touching the man's antecedents were in vain. All that could be got out of him was that he had been working in McKeagan's tie and wood camp down the river on the Washington side. And so he died. The remains were removed to Crandall & Burgett's undertaking rooms, from whence the funeral is expected to take place tomorrow.

Some members of congress have queer ideas of consistency, to say nothing of reciprocity. The Texas delegation voted almost solidly against the Louisiana purchase exposition bill, and then as solidly went to the white house and presented a candidate for government commissioner. After that, when the attempt was made to get the senate amendments into conference, without unanimous consent required, a Texas member, Shepherd, of Texarkana, was the only man in 357 to say "I object," and thus blocking progress at a most critical stage of the legislation. And, notwithstanding all of this, a member of the Texas delegation sent to the Missouri congressmen a petition to be signed asking the appointment of their candidate on the government commission. A whole book wouldn't have answered the request better than Congressman Joy's terse endorsement, "What has Texas done for us?"

"Between Two Hearts" will be presented at the Vogt opera house on Tuesday evening, March 19th. The company is managed by Earl and Nelgen, who are well-known throughout the East, where they have made a reputation for themselves by trying to present to the public only those plays which are clean, moral and instructive. They announce that their present attraction is one of the strongest ever brought to the coast. The company is headed by Miss Catherine Tabor, an actress of more than ordinary talent. In addition to being an actress of rare ability, she also has the added charm of beauty, and in "Between Two Hearts" she has an opportunity to wear some handsome gowns. The one she wears in the third act is said to be a model of good taste and imported by her direct from Paris. Miss Tabor will be supported by the following company of artists: Edward F. Felt, Wm. H. Ballantyne, Wade Rhine, Arthur Miller, John H. Story, Miss Leona Leigh and Anita Allen. Good specialties are introduced and an evening's entertainment assured at prices to suit all.

The Goddard Concert.

One of the most pleasing entertainments of the season was that which took place at the Congregational church last night, when Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Goddard made their first appearance before a Dalles audience. There was a fair-sized house that would probably have been considerably larger but for an accident that occurred at the electric light plant, which left the church and the entire western part of the city in darkness at the hour when the concert should have begun.

Mrs. Goddard proved herself to be an artist of rare ability. Her rendering of "The Creeds of the Bible," a selection from "Les Miserables," were warmly applauded as, indeed, were all her numbers, and these were sufficiently varied to show the remarkable versatility of the artist.

Mr. Goddard's rendition of his numbers showed him to be a singer of unusual ability. His interpretation of Piniati's "The Arrow and the Song" was beautifully conceived and the remarkably easy manner in which he brought his voice from a double forte to pianissimo proved his thorough training. Mr. Goddard is gifted with a grand organ and his easy, unconscious manner before an audience proclaims him an artist of mature experience. "Dolly Grey," which he sang in response to an encore, following "The Arrow and the Song," was enthusiastically received and proved the singer to be equally at home with the lighter class of ballads.

Mr. and Mrs. Goddard were ably assisted by Misses Schmidt and Patterson in a piano duet, and by Mr. Poling in a vocal solo, which was deservedly enjoyed.

It is safe to say that Mr. and Mrs. Goddard will receive a warm welcome whenever they are again pleased to appear before a Dalles audience.

Oregon Woolgrowers Association.

The Oregon Woolgrowers Association, which has a membership of about a hundred persons, was called to order in the Commercial Club rooms of this city this afternoon by President F. N. Jones. About forty woolgrowers were in attendance. The forenoon had been spent listening to an address by Captain Ormsby, in which he laid before the woolgrowers the latest rulings of the department of the interior on the matters pertaining to the grazing of sheep on the forest reserves. He could give no assurance to the woolgrowers that sheep would be allowed any longer to graze on the reserves, although he hoped no radical steps would be taken. It was evident the enemies of the sheep were on the alert, for repeated efforts had been made to have the reserves placed under the control of the agricultural department, a step that would prove disastrous to the wool-growers, as Secretary Wilson, of the agricultural department, is known to be violently and unreasonably opposed to allowing any grazing on the reserves. Every effort made in this direction has been hitherto met with a solid front and battled.

Captain Ormsby had some time ago received orders from the department to receive applications for grazing permits, and these had been followed later by instructions of an exactly opposite character. He had determined, however, to receive applications for grazing privileges for 200,000 sheep and hoped for the best results. No objection was likely to be made on the ground of number, as this was about a hundred thousand less than formerly.

Following Captain Ormsby's address the work of filling out applications occupied the time till the noon hour.

The afternoon was occupied with making changes in the constitution and by-laws of the association and electing officers for the ensuing year.

Lost Heavily on Sheep.

ARLINGTON, March 11.—A. Smyth, one of the most prominent sheep dealers in this section of Eastern Oregon, whose home is in this city, returned here yesterday direct from St. Paul. Mr. Smyth recently put on the market at Chicago 25,000 head of sheep which he wintered in Colorado. Owing to the extremely stagnant market, and the high price of feed, he suffered a loss of more than $10,000. It was another severe blow such as he suffered two years ago under similar circumstances.

Of the product of this well-known brewery the United States Health Reports for June 28, 1900, says: "A more superior brew never entered the laboratory of the United States Health reports. It is absolutely devoid of the slightest trace of adulteration, but on the other hand is composed of the best of malt and choicest of hops. Its tonic qualities are of the highest and it can be used with the greatest benefit and satisfaction by old and young. Its use can conscientiously be prescribed by the physicians with the certainty that a better, purer or more wholesome beverage could not possibly be found."
