WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Remember Professor Sandvig's regular Wednesday night dance tonight at the Baldwin.

The Fortnightly will meet with Miss Beulah Patterson tomorrow afternoon, when a new book will be read.

The family of Dr. John Hudson will leave in a few days to rejoin the doctor and make their future home in Antelope.

Over in Idaho several wheat-growers are feeding their wheat to hogs, claiming that it brings them sixty cents per bushel.

George Vineyard, a Wheeler county lad, has killed fifty coyotes during the past winter, according to the Wheeler County News.

At the municipal election held in La Grande last Monday the reform forces elected a mayor pledged to suppress all forms of gambling and keep them suppressed.

Eight years ago the silver production of Colorado was worth six times the gold production. Last year the gold production was two and a half times the value of the silver.

Fruit trees ornamental trees, shrubs, roses, herbs, etc., for spring planting. W. E. Payne, representing the Oregon Nursery Co., Salem, will be at the Columbia hotel the remainder of the week and will be glad to see any one wanting anything in this line. 13-16

Attorney G. W. Phelps, of Heppner, reports that Senator Mitchell's election gives great satisfaction to the republicans of Gilliam county. Mr. Phelps says, in point of fact, he does not know a Corbett man in the county, of any party, unless it be that one solitary gold democrat that he wots of be an exception.

Anton Schott's farewell concert last evening will ever be remembered with admiration and pleasure by all the many persons who attended. Not a single seat was left unoccupied in the immense hall, and Mr. Schott had the enthusiastic approbation of the society. Mr. Arthur Fickenscher is one of, if not the best, of the pianists that ever visited Mexico, and he is only too worthy of his renown.—The Mexican Herald.

Before adjourning yesterday afternoon the Oregon Woolgrowers' Association elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Douglas Bell, Umatilla county, president; J. N. Williamson, Crook county, vice-president; and F. W. Wilson, of this city, secretary and treasurer. The meeting adjourned to meet in Heppner September 3d.

Mr. Otis Patterson, the manager of the football team for the past season, in behalf of his team, desires to thank Mr. Levin and the entire cast for their untiring efforts and successful work in producing the splendid drama, "The Wife." The boys are also under deep obligations to the people of the town and the newspapers for their assistance.

One of the largest assemblages that has met in this city for many weeks greeted Mr. Percy H. Levin and the home talent last night in the beautiful drama of life in the national capital, "The Wife," at the Vogt opera house. Mr. Levin had worked hard, and under some provoking disadvantages, to make the play a success and the result was very complimentary both to Mr. Levin and, with hardly an exception, to the entire cast. It is pleasing to learn that the net results to the football team exceeded expectations.

Instead of the annual week's encampment of the National Guards of the state, a plan is being arranged for a week's campaign, says the Albany Democrat. The plan is to have two divisions. One will start from Portland up the valley; the other will meet them and head them off, preventing their passing their lines if possible, in which all manner of military tactics will be introduced, including a sham warfare. But as blank cartridges will be used it is safe to predict that there will not be many fatalities. A meeting of the military board may possibly knock this out.

The Albany Democrat says: "Two Kansas men were in Albany Saturday on their way back home after a trip to Norton, Lincoln county. They said they could stand blizzards and cyclones, but couldn't put up with Oregon fleas. They are too weak-kneed for this country. The Democrat man in twenty years does not know of ever having been bitten by a flea. If there are any here they are too respectable to attack an editor." The Albany fleas, or at least the fleas on the Albany prairie, weren't so particular twenty-five years ago, as the writer hereof vividly remembers. In those days they were wont to attack anything that had life, and never thought that their respectability was concerned in attacking anything so innocuous as an editor. Your Albany flea must have become dudish of late years.

What the Antelope Republican calls "A Grand Mitchell Love Feast" was held at Antelope Saturday night in honor of Representative T. H. McGreer and to give expression to the sentiment of the republicans of Antelope precinct—and that means practically everybody—on the stand Mr. McGreer took on the senatorial question. Robert Mays, Jr., voiced this sentiment in an address of thanks, and Mr. McGreer responded by saying that his aim had been to follow the wishes of his constituents, and it gave him pleasure to know that his vote for Senator Mitchell met their approval. Speeches—or, as the Republican puts it, "love words for Mitchell and thanks to McGreer"—followed by Wilbur Bolton, Frank Irvine and Max Lueddemann; and thus, to again quote the Republican, "what was intended for a reception to Mr. McGreer turned out to be, mainly, a Mitchell love feast."

John Rehren, who died suddenly at the Columbia hotel Sunday night, was buried in the city cemetery this morning. Mr. J. K. McKeighan, of Collins Landing, in whose wood camp Rehren had been working for the past year, came up to attend the funeral and while here gave THE CHRONICLE the following particulars of Rehren's life as they are known to him: Rehren had been on the Columbia river since 1852, and Mr. McKeighan has been acquainted with him for twenty-one years. He was an Indian war veteran, and in the war of 1855 fought in Colonel Shaw's command. He was a quiet, inoffensive man, who was well liked by his employers and fellow-workmen. The only relative he was known to have was a married sister, who lived, when Mr. McKeighan last heard of her, near Walla Walla, and was reputed wealthy. Rehren was very reticent about his relations and, as he lived a sort of hand-to-mouth life, or when he accumulated a little money would generally spend it in drink, it was supposed that he did not want his sister to know of his condition or whereabouts. Mr. McKeighan thinks this is possibly one reason, and not skepticism, why Rehren refused to see a clergyman, for the deceased was not a profane man, and while he was not a professor of religion, Mr. McKeighan never knew him to treat religious matters with disrespect.

Arrested For Larceny.

Ike Moore, of this city, was arraigned this afternoon before Recorder Gates on the charge of larceny of 1617 pounds of brass, the property of the O. R. & N. Co. Moore was in the employ of the company till about ten days ago, when he was discharged. The company suspected him and after his discharge a Portland detective was placed on his trail. It was learned that Moore had recently sold 600 pounds of brass to Matthews, the junk dealer. Late yesterday afternoon Moore hired a team and wagon from the Payette feed yard to go out to the ranch of his father-in-law, A. Ganger, of Crater's Point. He returned between 9 and 10 and driving up to the door of the store-room of the feed yard met Matthews, the junk dealer. Moore alighted and entering the store-room turned out the light. He then unloaded a number of sacks containing worn out brass casting, and once they were in the room the door was shut and the light turned on. He and Matthews then proceeded to weigh the contents of the sacks, and just as Moore was about to receive the cash for the brass Marshal Driver arose from a lot of hay in the back of the room and placed him under arrest.

The marshal had been working on the case from the arrival of the Portland detective. He had found that Moore had gone to the country, and suspecting what he was after and where he would deliever the plunder had secreted himself in the hay.

When Moore was arraigned this afternoon he asked for a postponement till tomorrow at 2 p. m., pending the return of Judge Bennett from Pendleton. W. H. Wilson represented the company.

Moore will be remembered as the man who killed his brother-in-law, Thurston Boynton, about twenty years ago on his father's ranch beyond Sherar's Bridge. He lived for a good many years in Prineville, where he owns a house and lot. He left Prineville about two years ago and has since lived at Hood River, this city and other places.

He has a wife and two boys, the eldest about 18 years of age.

Adjourned Council Meeting.

An adjourned meeting of the city council was held last night, at which the bid of E. Kurtz and associates for lighting the city, the only bid offered, was submitted. The bid stipulates that the contract shall not be drawn for less than five years at the following prices: 1200-candle-power arc lights at $7 per month each; 1200-candle-power incandescents at $6; 32-candle-power incandescents at 80 cents per month. These prices are based on a minimum of fifteen arc lights and fifty incandescents; but the company agrees at any future time to furnish as many more lights of either of the three kinds as the council may desire.

The bid was submitted on the condition that in case it was accepted Messrs. Kurtz and Associates agreed to file a bond for the fulfillment of the contract within ninety days from date of acceptance, or otherwise forfeit all right to the franchise. On motion the bid was accepted by the unanimous vote of all the members of the council present.

A petition, signed by Frank Kramer and others living in the neighborhood of the East Hill school, was presented to the council praying for the opening of 1 street in Kramer's Addition, through the Nathan Harris property, 36 feet in width, to a lane 18 feet in width, already dedicated to Dalles City, on the north of Tackman's Addition, thence 18 feet through the Bonn brothers' property, south side, to Clark street in Tackman's Addition. The petition was referred to the committee on streets and public property.

The recorder was instructed to refund the license fees of the nickel-in-the-slot machines, where these were paid in advance of the date when the law making the use of the machine a crime went into effect.
