

Rich Laces and Embroideries.

Hand in hand go Laces and Embroideries with Wash Goods. Vast preparations in the latter naturally call for corresponding stock of the former. We have never had such an extensive and desirable stock. All-overs, Bands and Edges, embroidered with infinite care; Galoons and Insertions that set women's hearts in a flutter of delight; every piece is good to look at; every pattern changes to some new surprise.

Val. Laces

In hundreds of patterns, from the cheap to the fine English and round-thread Italian Vals.—

1c to 25c per yard.

Cream Laces, Black Laces,

Arabian and Russian Applique.

Embroideries

In Cambrics, Nainsooks and Swiss All-overs, in stripe, open work and blind effects. Charming designs in matched sets, from 2c per yard to $6.

New and Dainty Wash Fabrics.

While wearing-time has not yet arrived, still Wash Goods are selling every day. Ladies in furs and winter garments buying the thinnest of summer dresses seems strange, but therein they show their shopping wisdom of "coming early." So many and varied are the patterns that they would really become tiresome, were it not for their entrancing beauty.

You want the best. C. L. Phillips has it in chickens. Buff Leghorns a specialty. It Surely no lover of music will miss hearing Herr Schott tomorrow night. It is not often our people have an opportunity of hearing such artists.

If you want a good fat chicken for your Sunday dinner, call at the McNeal Market, where you will find them. Also fruits, fresh vegetables and fish. J. T. Harper, Prop.

At the Odell school house in the Hood River valley next Wednesday night the question will be debated, "Resolved that Mrs. Nation's action in smashing joints in Kansas is justifiable."

Peach, almond and apricot trees are coming into blossom in The Dalles and immediate neighborhood. On the bluff south of the brewery Alex. McLeod had three apricot trees that were in bloom more than a week ago.

Emile Schanno is having a new plate glass front put in his store building adjoining the store of A. M. Williams & Co. on the west. With the main floor brought to a level with the sidewalk and this new front it will be one of the finest store rooms of its size in the city, and should not be long without a tenant.

Joe Purser, of Hood River, has an amazing faculty for drawing the long bow. His latest, in the Glacier, is that every hen he has on his place, save two, has laid an egg every day for the past thirteen months. Why he made an exception of the two can only be surmised, but it is presumed that Joe thought his story would read better if two of the hens were made to suspend laying operations for a time to do some necessary hatching.

The steamer Regulator, which has been on the ways at Portland undergoing extensive repairs, arrived here yesterday afternoon, where she will remain till her repairs are completed. A new boiler has been placed in her, which enables her to carry twenty-five pounds more steam than formerly. In speed and power she is now believed to be the equal of any boat of her size that steams into Portland. The Iralda left here for Portland this morning, where she will receive a thorough overhauling in time to commence her run between The Dalles and the Cascades by the first of April.

Al. Ganger, of Crates Point, brother-in-law of Ike Moore who was placed today under bonds of $1000 for stealing brass from the O. R. & N. Co., was arrested this morning as an accomplice of Moore on the technical charge of receiving and concealing stolen goods. The brass alleged to have been stolen by Moore was stored in Ganger's barn and was brought from there in sacks, bearing Ganger's brand, on the night of Moore's arrest. Ganger's examination was fixed for 3 o'clock this afternoon in Justice Brownhill's court and had not been finished at the hour of going to press.

F. H. Wattle's pet deer has gone to the happy hunting ground. The event occurred about 9 o'clock last night on Alford street, near the Fred Fisher residence. The deer had somehow broken out of its enclosure and, wandering off to near where it met its fate, began its old tricks of attacking any pedestrian that crossed its path. While thus engaged somebody brought its career to a sudden pause by the well-directed aim of a rifle ball. It will be remembered that the same animal made a vicious attack on Henry Taylor one night last winter and was only stopped by the blow of an ax that nearly knocked its brains out.

The revival meetings are continued at the Methodist church with increased interest. A large congregation was present last evening, and the service was alive with interest and enthusiasm. Ten persons have so far requested the prayers of the Christians. A number of them have been converted since the meetings started. The meetings have been noted for their brevity; short sermons, but plenty of singing. Rev. E. Charles Parker, assisted by a chorus choir, leads the singing, and everyone in the congregation that can sing at all joins in the beautiful and impressive songs. Everyone is profited who comes under the inspiration of these meetings.

Special Night Watchman Aliksy this morning arrested a young fellow who gave his name as Frank Baker, but is known also as Phillips, on the charge of larceny by bailee. Baker hired a team and buggy from L. Porter yesterday to go to Mosier. In the buggy was a robe valued at $12, which Baker "soaked" at Mosier for the feed of the team. He got back here at 3 o'clock this morning and, driving up to the door of Mr. Porter's livery stable, disappeared the moment a man appeared to take charge of the team. When Mr. Porter discovered that his robe had not been returned he communicated with Mr. Aliksy, with the result that the man was soon located and captured. He had not been arraigned at the hour of going to press.

Bound Over to the Grand Jury.

Ike Moore, who was arrested Wednesday on the charge of stealing 1600 odd pounds of brass from the O. R. & N. Co., valued at over $126, was examined this forenoon in Recorder Gates' court. Bennett & Sinnott appeared for the defense, and for the prosecution W. H. Wilson represented the railroad company and Frank Menefee the state.

The most important witness was Mr. Matthews, the junk dealer, who swore that at the suggestion of Marshal Driver he had bargained with Moore for a quantity of brass that had been cached in the barn of Al Ganger, Moore's brother-in-law, near Crates Point; that he had accompanied Moore to the Ganger barn in order to bring the brass to town; that Moore had excused himself from riding through on the wagon that went for the brass and, while going out, had met the team at the railroad crossing near the Hogan place west of town, and on the way back had dropped off the wagon near the west end of Fourth street. Moore had told Matthews that the brass had been given him by the company while he was working in their employ.

P. H. DeHuff, general foreman of the company's yards at The Dalles, testified as to the marks by which the pieces of brass boxing found in Moore's possession were identified as belonging to the O. R. & N. Co., and to the opportunities that Moore had, as employe of the company, for stealing them. The brass in question could not have been honestly obtained by anyone as the company never sells it, and no one has a right to give it away. Nearly all the brass stolen was composed of boxing that had been taken from cars and trucks because the rabbit had worn out. The boxing was as good as ever and only needed to be babbited anew.

Marshal Driver testified as to the circumstances connected with Moore's arrest. It was after Moore had delivered the brass to Matthews in the store-room of the feed yard, and at the moment Matthews was in the act of handing a check for the amount to Moore.

The recorder bound the prisoner over to the grand jury in the sum of $1000.

Will Go to Hawaiian Islands.

Mrs. J. M. Filloon, of this city, has just received a letter from her cousin, Professor B. W. Evermann, of Washington, D. C., saying that he would superintend a year's investigation of the different species of fish in Hawaiian waters. He will be accompanied on this expedition by Prof. D. Starr Jordan and Dr. O. P. Jenkins, of Stanford University, and several eastern scientists. Dr. Evermann is the U. S. ichthyologist and superintended a party of fish commissioners throughout the summer last year in the northern part of Indiana and in Porto Rico waters. He has written several interesting books on the fishes of different parts of the United States and her colonies. The latest is "The Fishes and Fisheries of Porto Rico," and contains many colored photographs of the different species of fish.

Mr. Evermann will visit The Dalles en route to the Hawaiians.
