

To Clear the Record.

Paul F. Mohr, of the Columbia Railway & Navigation Company, says the suit begun by Archibald A. Hutchinson looking to the foreclosure of a mortgage held as a first lien against property attached by Contractors Winters & Chapman is a friendly case calculated to aid the corporation out of its financial difficulties. The company has eleven miles of railroad practically finished and seven miles of nearly completed grade, all in Klickitat county, Wash., and free of any debt save $700,000 of bonds held by Mr. Hutchinson. Winters & Chapman, who have no claim against the Columbia Railway & Navigation Co., do have an unsatisfied claim against the Central Navigation & Construction Company, which, though the constructing arm of the former concern, is a totally different corporation. It is in financial straits, and cannot meet its obligations. But by its agreement with the parent corporation it was to receive its pay for building the railroad in bonds of that corporation, which, when the line should be in operation, would have a market value. As the construction company failed to keep its agreement with the Columbia Railway & Navigation Company, it receives no bonds, and the contractors who dealt with it get no pay. Hence the attachment suit of the contractors and the intervention of the bondholders to establish their first lien.

"The affairs of the company are in such shape that capitalists will not put money in the enterprise now, and the tangle is so great that foreclosure by the bondholders seems the shortest way out of the difficulty. The mortgage was recorded in Klickitat county before Winters & Chapman entered upon their contract with the construction company, so there can be no question as to the priority of its lien. It would certainly be too much to expect that bondholders under first mortgage should stand by and see property pledged to secure them taken by other creditors who really had secondary rights. So in this case the intervention to foreclose is really a protection to the property as a whole. When the case is cleared up again we expect to get plenty of money to go ahead with the enterprise."—Oregonian.

Rolling Mill Consumption

Seven out of every ten men who work in rolling mills, iron foundries and glass factories die of consumption. You know how early in life these men pass away. The usual symptom is a nagging, persistent cough—sometimes short and hacking, sometimes hard and dry. The patient grows weaker and thinner day by day. Death eventually conquers. The trouble comes from intense heat and the constant inhaling of the fine particles of dust and iron that fill the air. These particles, under a microscope, show ragged, sharp edges, which tear and mutilate the delicate lining of the throat and lungs. Perpetual sores are thus formed, and here it is that the germs of consumption find a place to feed and multiply. Acker's English Remedy was discovered in England, and is the only cure in the world for Rolling Mill Consumption. It heats up the sores, strengthens the mucous membrane of the breathing organs, permanently stops the cough, builds up the constitution and imparts vigor to the whole system. It must either cure or it costs you nothing. One bottle does wonders. Try it. What it has done for many others it will also do for you and your loved ones.

Sold at 50c, 50c and $1 a bottle throughout the United States and Canada; and in England at 3s, 3s, 3s, 4s, 4s, 4s. If you are not satisfied after buying, return the bottle to your druggist, and get your money back.
