The Pendleton East Oregonian advocates the sprinkling of the streets of that city at the expense and under the supervision of the city government.

Columbia Chapter, No. 33, O. E. S. Regular meeting this (Tuesday) evening at 7:30 o'clock. The worthy grand matron will make her official visit at this time.

The service last night at the Christian church was especially interesting. Tonight the subject will be "The Infalible Way," illustrated by a diagram on the blackboard.

Mr. A. McAdam, manager of the Pease & Mays' branch store at Shaniko, after spending nearly a week here selecting goods for the spring trade, returned to Shaniko on the noon train.

The Schanno building, immediately east of A. M. Williams' store, is being handsomely fitted up for occupancy by the rents' furnishing department of that firm. When occupied, as it will be shortly, the firm will have a store frontage of over one hundred feet, or a floor space on the ground floor of over 10,000 square feet.

Say, are you looking for a bargain? If you are, here it is: A fine farm in southern Sherman county, two and a half miles from the railroad; 100 acres in cultivation and thirty acres more good plow land; good house; large barn and other out buildings. Murdered By Parties Unknown.

The jury in the case of the man found dead Sunday near the summit, seven miles or so east of The Dalles, met this morning pursuant to adjournment and rendered a verdict in accordance with the meager facts brought out during the inquest. Meanwhile a message had been sent to the family of John Courtland, who live on a farm a few miles from Moro, and resulted in the discovery that Mr. Courtland, whom a number of people supposed to be the dead man, was alive and well and with his family on the ranch. The verdict is as follows:

We, the jury impaneled by W. H. Butts, coroner of Wasco county, Oregon, to inquire into the cause of the death of the body now before us, after careful consideration come to the following conclusions:

That the name of the deceased is unknown to us; that his age is about 50 years; height, 5 feet 8 inches; weight, about 190 pounds; gray hair and whiskers; dressed in a brown duck coat and blue overalls, and heavy miners' shoes, about No. 9, said shoes known as K'ondike shoes; and that he came to his death about seven miles east of The Dalles, in Wasco county, Oregon, and about fifty feet north of the railroad track of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company, on or about the 22nd day of March, 1901.

That said deceased came to his death from a gunshot wound; that said deceased was shot under the left eye, and that the bullet of said gun pierced the base of said deceased's brain and fractured the spinal column.

That said death was instantaneous, and from all the evidence produced said deceased was murdered by a party or parties unknown to this jury.

Dated at Dalles City this 26th day of March, 1901.

Benjamin's Assassin Still at Large.

The remains of Edson V. Benjamin, who was killed at the Wendorf ranch near Underwood's Landing, Saturday night, were brought here on the noon train and the funeral took place at 2 p. m. from the undertaking parlors of Grandall & Burget. The funeral services were conducted by the A. O. U. W.

There is hardly any room for doubt that Benjamin's assassin was a logger of the neighborhood, named James Green, who has been suspected from the moment the shot was fired, and who has since disappeared. Green had threatened Benjamin's life as well as that of Mrs. Nellie Brown, who was sitting beside Benjamin when the fatal shot was fired, and who received a part of the fatal bullet in her shoulder after it had passed through Benjamin's head. Green's motive appears to have been jealousy of anyone who spoke to Mrs. Brown. Mrs. Brown had been engaged to Green, but about three months ago the engagement was broken off. Since that time Green has been heard to say repeatedly: "I have nothing to live for now. I will kill myself but some one else will go first."

No very vigorous search appears to have been made for Green, nor did any active search begin till the assassin had abundant time to get out of the way. One would have supposed that the authorities here would be promptly notified, but no notice of the murder or the escape of the murderer has reached them other than what came to everybody.

An unsupported rumor has it that Green was seen half a mile from the place of the murder shortly after it was committed. Another rumor has it that he was seen Sunday in the neighborhood of Shell Rock mountain on the south of the river.

Wedding Bells.

We copy the following marriage notice from the Bandon, Coos county, Recorder. The bride is well and favorably known in this city, and especially so in the Dufur neighborhood, where she lived for many years. Mr. and Mrs. Everson are at present visiting friends in The Dalles:

Married—On inauguration day, March 4, 1901, at the residence of Stephen Galber, at Coquille City, at 12 o'clock a. m., Colonel S. S. Everson, of Bandon, and Mrs. L. Canfield, of Dufur, Wasco county, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, Judge Harlocker officiating. After the ceremony was over the bride and groom departed for their beautiful home at Bandon, where they were cordially received by a host of warm friends and acquaintances. After receiving congratulations upon the arrival of the bridal party at Bandon, the bride and groom repaired to their home, where the Bandon brass band and glee club put in an appearance about 9 o'clock in the evening and contributed to the pleasure of the occasion.

Mrs. Hudson's Whist.

A delightful afternoon was that spent yesterday with Mrs. T. A. Hudson, who entertained in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Orion Kinersly.

The parlors were beautiful with carnations and violets, while a profusion of Oregon grape, rock lilies and buttercups made the rooms a veritable bower. Hospitality filled the air, and if canter and laughter are signs of enjoyment, a gay afternoon was spent.

Six tables had been arranged, and after sixteen games had been played, two very pretty books were awarded Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Schenck as prizes.

Throughout the afternoon salted almonds and pinocchies were served, and at the close of the games a splendid lunch was enjoyed, followed by several musical numbers, and just before parting the ladies all joined in an old-fashioned Virginia reel, making a happy climax to a most happy afternoon.

Present were Mesdames Thornbury, Kinersly, Crossen, Seufert, Sinnott, Fish, Logan, Peters, Pease, Schenck Sheldon, DeHuff, Morgan, Bennett, Kuck, Morris, W. H. Wilson, H. S. Wilson, M. Z. Donnell, Marden, Tolmie, Hostettler, McCoy, Misses Marden, Schmidt, Lay and Kinersly.

At the Congregational Church.

The meeting at the Congregational church last night was one of more than ordinary interest. After an inspiring praise service, led by Prof. Landers, Mr. Clapp, under whose leadership these services are conducted, spoke on "The Report of Spies." He chose as a text the words "There we saw the giants." The treatment of the subject was most unique. The ability to present old truths, clothed with present day life, is an accomplishment to be coveted. This Rev. Clapp possesses to an unusual degree. There was not a dull moment during the entire meeting. The speaker dwelt on the minority and majority reports of the twelve men sent into Canaan, and of the far-reaching effects which these have had, not only upon Israel, but upon the world. At the conclusion of the sermon Mr. Poling sang, with splendid effect, a solo entitled "Redeemed."

There will be services again tonight and each night during the week. The subject for tonight will be "Naaman the Leper." The regular church quartet, Messrs. Landers, Davenport, Northrup and Poling, will sing a number this evening, and in addition Mr. Poling will furnish a solo.
