HE WHO DEPARTS FROM PARTY LINES.

There is something in the assertion that the democrats who voted for John H. Mitchell in the legislature will probably suffer political persecution and perhaps never again see the inside of the Salem capital, excepting as spectators, says the East Oregonian. The man who steps aside from the path of party alignment must needs hear words of censure for his act, however he may have performed an act of patriotism or that which makes for the people's good. He must hear political enemies denigrate him a party traitor, and those political enemies will not fail to dig up the past and publish it to the world as a damning record against him.

This is deplorable, for often a patriot must refuse to stand by his party's acts, and must administer a rebuke to those with whom he has kept political company. Frequently, too, as in the case of Mr. Mitchell's candidacy, the party man must realize that to hold to an empty party name and organization would be to fail to do his duty as a representative of the people. Undoubtedly it was right for the eleven democrats to vote for Mr. Mitchell, else no senator would have been elected. It was wisest to choose him. It was best for Oregon. Furthermore, he was eminently fitted for the office.

In view of these facts it is to be regretted that almost certain political damnation awaits the democrats who voted for a republican for senator. It were better if men held less tenaciously to the "yellow dog doctrine," which, being interpreted, means "I will vote for any candidate who has my party's endorsement." An increase of independent voters would make far better political conditions. The act of those eleven democrats tends to strengthen the independent movement.

In a letter to the Antelope Republican, President E. E. Lytle, of the Columbia Southern railroad, says: "The article in the Oregonian of the 31st ult., in regard to the extension of the Columbia Southern railway, was unauthorized; and I have requested that paper to announce this, but whether it will do it or not I am unable to say." Of course the Oregonian announced nothing of the kind, because it isn't built that way; but every man in Oregon who knows the situation, and is possessed of an ounce of sense, knows that an extension of that road either to Prineville or in the direction of Canyon City, besides that it could only be built at an enormous cost, would not give the Columbia Southern, in addition to the traffic it now, practically, controls, enough business to pay for the grease of the car wheels. The entire territory through which either extension would run is essentially a stock country, and will remain a stock country for generations yet to come.

"The Henrietta."

The date for the production of Bronson Howard's comedy, "The Henrietta," has been fixed for Friday night, April 20th. The personnel of the cast is as follows: Misses Myrtle Buffe, Georgia Sampson, Grace Glenn, Edith Mans; Messrs. Will Evans, Charles O'Neill, Frank Parker, H. E. Northrup, Earl Sanders, Claude Frizzell, Waldo Brigham (of Dufur) and Mr. Levin.

John Fox, Jr., in his study of "The Southern Mountaineer" in the April Scribner, relates that a traveling evangelist, Mr. Barnes, once stopped at a mountain tavern and told the story of the crucifixion. When he was quite through an old woman who had listened in absorbing silence asked: "Stranger, you say that that happened a long while ago?" "Yes," said Mr. Barnes, "almost two thousand years ago." "And they treated him that way when he'd come down for nothin' on earth but to save 'em?" "Yes." The old woman was crying softly, and she put out her hand and laid it on his knee. "Well, stranger," she said, "let's hope that hit ain't so."

The superintendent of the Oregon Children's Home Society, I. F. Tobey, is in the city and has several small children for adoption. This society receives children from all counties in the state, boards, clothes and places them in family homes for adoption. In twenty-four states the Children's Home Society has received and placed in homes more than a regiment and a half of homeless and neglected children. Applications for children may be left at this office or address the superintendent at 606 Marquam building, Portland.

Question Answered.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion and biliousness. Doctors were scarce and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. Get Green's prize almanac. Clarke & Falk's. 1

Caught a Dreadful Cold.

Marion Kooke, manager for T. M. Thompson, a large importer of fine millinery at 1658 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, says: "During the late severe weather I caught a dreadful cold which kept me awake at night and made me unfit to attend my work during the day. One of my milliners was taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time, which seemed to relieve her so quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I am now entirely well and feel very pleased to acknowledge its merits." For sale by Blakeley, the druggist.
