Rev. H. W. Waltz, of Los Angeles, Cal., arrived on the noon train today. He will speak to the Epworth League and their friends at the Methodist church this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Pacific Farmer says: "Fruit trees have come up to the price in which the nurserymen are making good money again; trees that during the hard times were selling as low as three and four cents are now bringing ten to fifteen cents. The demand is apparently greater than the supply. This is particularly so with regard to Italian prunes."

The first wool sale of this season's clip was made here yesterday when a small clip belonging to John Vanmeter, of Tygh Valley, was disposed of to The Dalles Scouring Mills at ten cents a pound. The wool was in no sense first-class and the price paid for it may be accepted as an indication that this staple is soon likely to command a better price than that which has prevailed for the past five or six months.

The Shaniko Leader says: "Since litigation over the Columbia Southern Railway has been settled, and it has been positively determined that Shaniko is to be the permanent terminus, everything is bustle and activity, and building has commenced in earnest. Parties are now here looking over the situation with the intention of opening up different kinds of businesses. From present indications we will have the liveliest town in Eastern Oregon."

Ed Pierce, of Ranier, has a United States dollar of date 1802. The piece was taken from a Filipino who got thro' the American lines one night in the Philippines. The coin, with others, had been buried under a church in Paranaque, but how long it remained there is unknown. On each side, as well as around the edge, the coin has thirteen stars, and on the edge are the words, "One Dollar or Unit. Hundred Cents." Pierce, who was a scout for Uncle Sam, states that he has been offered $200 for the coin by a collector in San Francisco, but refused the offer.

Mr. C. L. Barrett, of Dayton, Oregon, writes as follows to the Albany Democrat concerning the Meneley Trio concert recently given at that place: "The Meneleys were here and our meeting was a grand success. Their work was simply grand and had its effect. Everybody is talking about the Meneleys and say that it was the best thing we have ever had in Dayton. There is no one in town sorry but those who did not go. One of our most prominent citizens said he would not have missed them for $5. Other say as soon as they had sung their first song they had their money back. Men have come into my shop on purpose to congratulate me on getting such an entertainment to come to Dayton."

Meers, Hudson & Brownhill are daily receiving letters from parties living in the eastern and middle states asking for information and description of The Dalles and surrounding country. These letters are from home-seekers and are in response to the folders so thoroughly circulated by these enterprising gentlemen. Notwithstanding the fact that Hudson & Brownhill have a very large number of farms listed with them, it does commence to look as though they are not going to have enough to go around. Anyone wishing to dispose of their farms, stock, fruit ranches or city property will do well to call and see Hudson & Brownhill and place their property in the hands of these gentlemen, who are known to be strictly honest, and any business left with them will receive prompt and honorable attention.

Mrs. J. W. Marquis, of Chenoweth creek, died yesterday afternoon at the Good Samaritan hospital, Portland, while undergoing an operation for an internal tumor. The remains arrived here on the noon train today and the funeral will take place from the Christian church Sunday afternoon at an hour which will be announced tomorrow. Mrs. Marquis' maiden name was Addie Adams. She was born in Germanv fifty-four years ago and was married in this state to her surviving husband in 1867. She leaves a husband and four children—Mrs. A. A. Urquhart, Frank, Lester and Della Marquis, who are all residents of this city. Mrs. Marquis had been in declining health for over four months and her death was not unexpected. She was a sincere and earnest Christian woman and a charter member of the First Christian church of this city.

A Washington dispatch says an effort was recently made by enthusiasts at Warm Springs, Or., to have that post-office supplied from two sources by a daily service, except Sunday. Large petitions asking for such service were filed with the postoffice department. The matter was referred to Second Assistant Postmaster Shallenberger, and his decision is but an example of his characteristic treatment of unwarranted application. When an investigation was made it was found that Warm Springs now has service three times a week from Wapinitia and the same from Prineville. The money value of the stamps cancelled at Warm Springs last year was but $165, which is practically the full receipts of the office. The record shows that the present service from Wapinitia to Warm Springs costs the government $624 per annum, and to double the service would double the cost to $1248. It was also found that to increase the service from Prineville would increase the cost of the Warm Springs service $403, and that the total service on this route, which also supplies Lamona, would cost $1278. Moreover, when the application was referred to the postmaster at Warm Springs, he reported that a majority of the patrons of his office were satisfied with the present service and desired no change.

Protest Against Pot Hunters.

A Hood River correspondent, who doesn't send us his name and whose communication would go to the waste basket were it not for the important character of his communication, writes THE CHRONICLE to say that the officers of the law are "so soft that they let everything go without doing anything towards protecting deer," as they are bound to, by virtue of their oath, to execute the law. The writer says that "four men and four dogs went out on Dog river this winter and killed ten head of deer, and when coming home with the contraband deer on their pack horses they were seen" by a number of people, some of whose names are mentioned in the communication. The writer, who seems in earnest, says: "For goodness sake try and do something to stop this," and then gives the names of four residents of Hood river valley who, he alleges, did the killing.

This communication would have infinitely more weight if the correspondent had sent his name with it, not necessarily for publication but as an evidence of good faith. He need have had no fear that his name would have been given away.

THE CHRONICLE is in full sympathy with the subject matter of the communication and has therefore handed the letter to Sheriff Kelly, who will forward it to Game Warden L. P. Quimby, of Portland.

Died.

At The Dalles hospital, at a little before midnight, April 11th, Mrs. Carrie M. Norman, wife of J. G. Norman, coroner of Linn county, and mother-in-law of J. E. Adcox of this city, aged 57 years. The immediate cause of death was pneumonia, complicated by other ailments, from which the deceased had suffered for a long time.

Mrs. Norman was born in Georgia and married to her surviving husband in Jackson, Tennessee, in 1877 and came to Oregon in 1890, settling in Albany. Since the death of her daughter, Mrs. Adcox, she has resided with her son-in-law in order to take care of his four motherless children. A sad feature connected with her death is the fact that her husband was taken ill at Albany on the same day his wife took finally to her bed in this city, and will be unable to attend the funeral, which takes place from the M. E. church at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

The deceased was a kind, motherly Christian woman, who was well thought of by all who knew her. She leaves a husband and one daughter, Miss Ola Norman, who has lately taught school at Antelope and Pleasant Ridge, in this county.

We have a bicycle for $19.00, which is equal if not better than any $20.00 or $25.00 wheel sold by others. Maier & Benton. a9 2w
