Twenty-five cents seems a small amount to pay for so excellent an entertainment as will be given tonight by the Menefee Trio. But that's all it costs.

If The Dalles ever intends to have another 4th of July celebration it wouldn't be a bad idea for her to begin to make a movement in that direction.

The prayer meeting at the Methodist church will begin at 7:15 this evening so that those attending will be able to get away in time for the Menefee concert.

The clerk of Umatilla county last Monday issued warrants for 140 coyote scalps. Sixty-five of the varmints had been killed by one man in the preceding eight days.

Ed Beck was the lucky man in the drawing contest Wednesday night for the Rambler bicycle at the Great cigar store. He held the winning coupon, numbered 7859.

The Menefee Trio concert at the M. E. church tonight. This is probably the only chance you will ever have to attend one of these most amusing and profitable entertainments.

Some miscreant last night shot a valuable shepherd dog belonging to William Brune, of North Dalles, and then dragged the dead animal close to the house and left him there. The bullet entered the animal's head between the eyes. Mr. Brune would not have parted with the dog for $50.

Apples in this land of red apples sell for thirty cents a dozen in Portland. Recently a Dilley man received $40 in cash for twenty boxes of Baldwin's a grocer in Portland. The retail price was $2.75 a box.—Albany Democrat.

Superintendent J. B. Crossen is today engaged in cleansing the big distributing reservoir. Mr. Chas. Borders has charge of the work, with fifteen men. The reservoir, which accumulates considerable sediment, is cleaned every year.

Only two dogs were at the recent Portland dog show from The Dalles, but both won prizes. Both are of the pointer variety and are owned by H. F. Zeigler. In a class of seventy-nine the bitch, Wasco Queen, and the dog, Boise, carried off second and third prizes respectively.

The Goldendale Sentinel says: "It is reported that Thos. Alderson, formerly of this place, but now studying law at the California university, recently received $40,000 for his half interest in a gold mine in Alaska. It is said that he and his partner have a better one adjoining the one sold."

The Oregon penitentiary had 295 convicts on the 31st of March. This is an increase of 17 over the last quarter. The daily average for the quarter was 285.6. Their maintenance for the quarter, including salaries of officers, cost the state $10,901.30. The convicts earned wages in the stove foundry amounting to $2,827.29.

If it is any comfort to the defeated candidates for teachers' certificates to learn that at the Pendleton examination of the same date only thirteen were successful in a class of forty-one, they are entirely welcome to it. It surely is comforting to know that there is nothing so bad but that it might be worse.

The bill which was introduced at the last session of congress allowing final proofs to be made before notaries public and which passed the house of representatives, failed to go through the senate. This was but one of the large number of proposed changes in land laws of the United States, and although the bill had more or less support from western men, there was not a sufficient demand for its passage to have it enacted. The bill was favorably reported by the land office, when sent down for recommendation by the house committee.

If you want to sit in a chair tonight at the Vogt opera house you must hasten and get your seats immediately, as there are not many chairs vacant now. Remember that the chairs (reserved seats) are the same price as the back seats, 50 cents. The sale of seats is unusually large today. Get your seats for yourself and lady for the grandest event of the season. The artists will be appropriately costumed. The play is said to be the funniest and most pleasant ever given by amateurs in the Vogt opera house. Reserved seats 50 cents; children 25 cents. Everybody come.

Rev. W. H. Harding, who has been filling the pulpit of the First Christian church of this city for the past five weeks, left for his home in Nova Scotia yesterday. Before leaving the church presented him with an unanimous call to become their pastor. The call was favorably received and Mr. Harding is expected to return here with his family as soon as he can conveniently dispose of his property interests at his old home. Mr. Harding expressed himself as very much pleased with the country and its delightful climate, the latter being in marked contrast with the severe winters of his northeastern home.

The dancing party given by the guards of Cedar Circle last evening was a social success, the hall being filled with invited guests, who tripped the hours away to music made by Miss Sampson at the piano. Prof. Sandvig acted as floor manager, and all went merrily as such occasions usually do with a party of young people bent on having a pleasant time. Lemonade was served during the evening and the floor was in excellent order for dancing. Sixteen numbers were noted on the program, and at midnight the evening was counted finished, when all went home thanking the hostesses for an evening pleasantly passed.

A test case that wasn't a test case was tried before a justice in Salem yesterday under the new law prohibiting the use of the nickle-in-the-slot machines. One E. E. Nichols opened a cigar stand with a small stock of goods and a "machine." He advertised that for every nickle a customer put in the machine he would give a 5-cent cigar. There was no element of chance in it. For 5 cents the customer could buy a cigar, direct. If he put the nickle in the slot he got no more than one cigar, however good a "hand" he played. The sheriff had Nichols arrested and tried by a jury, who promptly found him not guilty. It is presumed this "test" case was arranged by the machine men as part of a plan, the object of which is the ultimate restoration of the use of the machines, by "getting around" the law in some way. Just how this end is to be reached, where the officers of the law are duly alert, is not yet apparent.

G. J. Farley had a talk today over the phone with C. E. Nye, of Walla Walla, who informed him that it has been determined that that town will get a contribution of $25,000 to $35,000 from Andrew Carnegie towards the establishment of a free library. Mr. Farley understood Mr. Nye to say that the only condition demanded by Mr. Carnegie was that the city of Walla Walla should guarantee the maintenance of the library for a period of not less than twenty years. The citizens of Walla Walla expect to erect a suitable building on one of the main business streets where the ground floor can be rented for business purposes.

It is expected the rent so derived will maintain the library. Now, what is the matter with The Dalles making an effort to have a proposition of this kind laid before it. Pendleton papers have been urging Pendletonians to apply for a similar contribution. The value of a free library need not be urged here. If Mr. Carnegie is going to give free libraries to towns of the size of ours we ought to permit no species of mock modesty to interfere with our applying for a contribution early and often. Will the commercial club take the hint and see what can be done?

End of a Wasted Life.

Ben Foley died at The Dalles Hospital yesterday afternoon about three hours after he was taken there. Dr. Ferguson had no hope of him from the first, for at the time of his arrival at the hospital Foley was in a state of extreme collapse. The report in last night's CHRONICLE that Foley would recover was the result of the misunderstanding of a question relating to the matter that was asked the doctor over the phone.

The body was brought to the undertaking rooms of William Michell, where an inquest was held this morning. The testimony of the witnesses added little to what was already known. Foley had bought 15 cents worth of rough-on-rats at the Clarke & Falk drug store Wednesday, obtaining it under the pretense that he wanted to use it wherewith to kill rats. He took the poison yesterday morning, which contained from forty to fifty grains, eighty-five per cent of which is said to be arsenic, and three or four grains of the latter is sufficient to take human life.

To probably a dozen persons, or even more, Foley has of late said that he wanted to die. He was without means, he was wont to say, and he cared for nobody and nobody cared for him. And so he died; and from all that men have said of him since he passed away (men, that is to say, who have known him for decades of years) it is doubtful if, in a city where he has lived for nearly half a century, there is one left to shed a tear over his corpse. "Tis true 'tis a pity, and a pity it is 'tis true." But Ben Foley had no one in all this wide world to blame for his loveless life and its sad and desolate ending but himself.

The jury found that Benjamin Franklin Foley was aged about 75 years and that his death was caused by arsenical poison administered by his own hand with suicidal intent.
