OOM PAUL AND RELIGION.

If, says an exchange, Oom Paul, ex-president of the Transvaal, finally comes to America in the interest of his South African government, he will find that there is quite a difference between a republic as we interpret it and as he has been in the custom of ruling, and it is this difference which has been one of the greatest drawbacks he has had to contend with in his contest for assistance.

When the Transvaal republic recognized in its constitution only the Protestant religion and refused to tolerate worship by Catholics, Jews or Atheists, it cut the very heart of a real republic. A few weeks ago when Gen. Dewet was dealing with Gen. Kitchener, and the two were endeavoring to ascertain grounds on which satisfactory arrangements could be made between the British and the Transvaal, this point came up and was the great stumbling block in the negotiations.

It will continue to be so through time. The civilized nations have for years been becoming more and more liberal in the matter of religious worship. While the early history of the Dutch before and after settlement in the Transvaal made it appear that all other forms of worship, except the Protestant, was detrimental to their welfare and peace of mind, this was a result of the form of government under which the religion was enforced rather than of the religion itself.

As for Mr. Kruger, he cannot expect that the world will be in love with his form of government and ready to take sides for its continuance, unless he advances a few steps in civilization and gives to the Catholics and to the Jews the right to worship God that he reserves to himself.

Oom Paul is to be the guest of the democratic party in New York. This seems odd to the Globe-Democrat. The democrats are not fighters, and heaven knows they never have anything to do with the Psalms.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured. with local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces.
